NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE OLDEST AMERICAN SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor. | NEW YORK, SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1878. | VOLUME XXVI.—No. 11. Price Ten Cents.

ON THE PIER AT NIGHT.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY MARC COOK.

See how the moon shines out on the river there,
Capping the waves with a silvery splendor;
Restless forever, they dash up and quiver there,
Seething and savage, or rhythmic and tender.

Far in the distance are beacon-lights gleaming,
Out toward the bay and the boisterous ocean;
Ghostly the waters seem, tossing and shimmering,
Surging and swaying in ceaseless commotion.

Forth from their slips the ferry-boats, cumbrously,
Like to huge beetles, go sluggishly creeping,
While the black hulks of the ships, resting slumbrously,
Lie there as giants might lie who are sleeping.

Back of me stretched the city, its spires all
Touched by the silvery moonlight's refulgence;
Quenched by the night are the day's hot desires all,
Sleep overmastering fiercest indulgence.

But the broad river forever goes surging on,
Kissed by the sunlight or stormily frantic;
Ever its varying currents are urging on,
Thrilled by the pulse of the mighty Atlantic.

Oh, for the terrible, manifold mysteries
Haunting these waters, so silently flowing!
Oh, for the sorrowful, tragical histories
Ended beneath them, and past all our knowing!

Heart-broken hundreds have wandered despairingly
Here on the water-soaked docks of the river;
Crime gazing out on the black waters glaringly,
Magdalen calling on Christ to forgive her;

Lovers and brothers and once-cherished daughters fair,
Clinging to hope until hope was but ashes;
All have gone down in those swift-flowing waters there,
Stung by remorse's unmerciful lashes.

Now the night deepens. Ghostly its beauty is—
See! there's a shadowy shape. Do you shiver?
Lo, 'tis Despair, the demon whose duty is Calmly to point to the deep, silent river.

FATE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY BLANCHE HART.

There is a destiny that shapes our ends,
Rough hew them as we will.—SHAKESPEARE.

Old Michael Letolle sat in his little shop engaged at his daily work of making and mending harness. At intervals, in a merry voice he sang snatches of an old French war-song; for he had been a soldier in his younger days, and the fire of patriotism still burned within his breast. As he finished his day's work and arose to hang away the harness upon which he had been working, the door of an adjoining room was opened and a beautiful Hebe face, with short curls clustering around a broad, pure brow, pearly teeth glittering between coral lips, was thrust in.

"Supper, mon pere," said a voice, sweet as the carol of a Spring-bird.

"Yes, petite. I have an appetite for enjoying it, too, and good news, which I can tell you while I eat my toast," said Michael as he finished wiping his hands at the little bench that stood in his shop.

"What can it be, cher pere? and how have you heard it?" said Pauline as they passed into the little kitchen, and sat down to their simple evening meal of toast and tea, with a relish of dried-beef and cheese.

"First of all," said Michael as he helped himself plentifully to toast, "Archie has come back."

He glanced at Pauline with a twinkle in his sharp black eyes, expecting to see his own joy reflected in her face. Her gaze being averted, he continued:

"He is a rich man now, my girl. He has inherited all his uncle's vast wealth. You need no longer delay your marriage, Pauline. There is a happy future before you as the wife of Archie Greyson. Of course, he will be here this evening to tell us of his good fortune." Michael glanced at the old-fashioned clock that stood in the corner as he passed his cup to be refilled. Pauline had listened in silence to her father's words. Her face flushed and paled at mention of her marriage with Archie Greyson; but she expressed no pleasure or gratification at his changed fortune. Her low-voiced utterance startled the old man.

"Archie and I are not betrothed, pere, and I do not know that we ever shall be."

She cast a quick, furtive glance at her father, as if half afraid of the effect of what she said.

"What does this mean, Pauline? You have been the same as betrothed for a year. Because he is absent for a few weeks, can you not remain true to him? Who has taken his place in your heart, girl? Have you permitted that city chap who is rusticating here to turn your allegiance from Archie Greyson? Mon Dieu! if I thought so I would take down my old rifle and put a bullet through one of the infernal Frenchman, bringing his clenched hand down with emphasis upon the table. "He may talk to you of love, Pauline, but I doubt if he has ever spoken of marriage."

Pauline sat pale and frightened. Never in her life had she seen such an intense gleam in her father's eyes. Never before had she incurred his anger. Much as Michael loved his child, who had been all the world to him since the hour when death bereft him of a loving helpmeet, he could scarcely have forgiven her for being untrue to Archie Greyson, whom he respected and loved, and had hoped would call him son.

Old Michael had arisen from the table, in his excitement, without having finished his meal, and went back into his work-room to put things in order for the night. Pauline, pale and agitated, cleared away the tea-things, and had finished her work when Michael returned to the kitchen. At that moment a knock sounded on the outer door. Michael attended the summons, and Pauline heard his cordial greeting to Archie, and her lover's anxious inquiry for herself. She went into her room and changed her dress for a simple white one; two half-blown buds of a white vining rose had shaded her window—which the loving breeze swayed in and out as if to tempt her—she plucked and placed among her dark rich curls. The white face—reflected from her small mirror—almost startled her. She was too young and unpracticed in the art of dissimulation to conceal her feelings beneath a mask. She must make an effort at least to do so; she stood at the door a moment, with her hand upon the knob, and, putting the semblance of a smile upon her face, entered the parlor. Archie's joy at meeting her was apparent in every look and tone. He did not fail, however, to detect an agitation in her manner, which he thought was due to her meeting with him. He related the incidents connected with his uncle's death, and his succession to wealth, thinking to interest Pauline. Michael congratulated him, but with a look of apprehension on his swarthy face, and soon found an excuse to leave the room, hoping that with opportunity the lovers might come to a mutual understanding.

An embarrassing silence came between them when left alone, broken only by an occasional commonplace remark. Twilight shadows crept stealthily through the room where these two sat who had so lately been happy lovers. The Summer moonbeams came slanting in at the humble casement near them and fell across the carpet at their feet, and still the ice-wall that had come between them was unmelted. It is often the case that those who part with warmest protestations of love, and fond caresses, never meet in the same sweet relation again; something—we cannot give it a name unless we call it fate—comes between them, and one or both seem changed. Never again will they experience the deep sense of happiness they felt when last they parted. Another grave is made wherein must be laid sweet, dead love, never to be resurrected. Archie's heart was full of plans for the future of the woman he loved. Since the hour he found himself possessed of wealth, he had dreamed of the moment when he should be at Pauline's side, and ask her to be his wife. But the anticipated bliss of this hour was a delusion; Pauline was changed. How? Was it? He knew not. At last he moved near her—sat at her side.

"Pauline, are you not glad to see me? Have you nothing to say to me?" he said, looking down into the sweet girlish face that was so dear to him.

"Yes, I am glad to see you, Archie. We should always be glad to see our friends," she said with a tremulous voice.

"Friends! Pauline, are we only friends? Do you hold in such light estimation the deep passion of [illegible] heart that has poured out its wealth of love to you? How long have you regarded my devotion in the light of friendship?" said Archie, assuming an almost icy tone. "You must answer me," he continued as she covered her face with both hands to hide the revelation he would otherwise have seen written there. She was ashamed to let him know her fickleness.

He waited a moment for her answer, but a stifled sob only met his ear. In an instant his arm was around her, his resentment all gone.

"What is it, my little Paul.? Have I given you cause for tears? I had hoped to make you happy to-night—to offer a bright future for your acceptance; but I find you so changed I dare not ask——"

"Oh, do not ask me anything to-night. I do not deserve your love or kindness," sobbed Pauline from her overcharged heart.

"Do not talk so, child! You have always deserved my love; and need it now more than ever if you are unhappy. Will you not confide in me, darling? I can shield you from all sorrow," pleaded Archie, still hoping to gain the secret of her grief.

"No, no; you cannot. Only leave me alone to-night, Archie, and forgive me if I cause you pain," she said, her face still hidden from the moonlight.

"I will go, Pauline, if you wish it; but my heart is full of misgivings. When we meet again I trust all will be right, and your sorrow all gone."

He bent over her and pressed his lips to her sweet, childish brow, and to the dark curl that crowned it. Slowly, then, he went out into the moonlight.

Burning deep in his heart were the unspoken words he had hoped would win Pauline's promise to be his wife. He wished now that he had spoken them, and compelled her to answer him—to tell him her sorrow.

He stopped for a moment and looked back at the humble cot, nestling amid roses and woodbines, that sent their fragrance far out upon the Summer breeze, even to where he stood. Some mysterious influence seemed to bid him return to it. He stood for a moment undecided.

Did his eyes deceive him, or was it a reality? —the small white figure that emerged from the porch of the cottage and sped along the quiet street. He stood gazing, half hoping that Pauline had repented of her coldness, and wished to recall him. The seeming phantom flitted along until it neared a narrow lane that led down by a dense hedge to a copsewood of water-willows that grew near the small river that flowed through the village. Then a passing cloud overshadowed the moon, rendering objects indistinct. When it again shone out, nothing could be seen but the earth lying in the tranquillity of a Summer night. A light gleaming from a window here and there through the village cast flickering rays that looked wan and weird in the brighter light of the moon, and made Archie think of stories he had heard of will-o'-the-wisps luring poor lost travelers on to destruction. A dismal hooting in a tree close by his path made him start nervously as he hastened on.

Archie was mystified. Why should Pauline go out alone at such an hour? It must have been an optical illusion—the effect of the bright moonlight and the remembrance of the small white figure he had left behind him. There was nothing he could do but return home sad and troubled. Could he have seen the graceful, handsome man sitting on the old stile in the shadow of Hawthorne hedge, awaiting Pauline's coming, and who clasped her to his breast as the moon hid itself behind a cloud, he would not have slept even the troubled sleep that finally overcame his senses that night. Was it the premonition of some evil threatening Pauline that caused him to start so often from his sleep?

Guy Raimont had come to the little village of Rockville ostensibly to find an old college-chum he had heard was living there. Why he had lingered for three weeks it was not difficult for those who were the least observant to surmise.

The day after the departure of Archie Greyson and his mother for the death-bed of his uncle, Pauline had met Raimont at a rustic dance and picnic given by the landlady's daughter. From the moment of their meeting Guy seemed bewitched by the beauty and sweetness of Pauline Letolle. Not less was Pauline charmed by the subtle influence which he threw around her like a silken net, drawing her wholly and unconsciously within his power.

It was with anger and annoyance that Michael had observed the marked attention of this handsome stranger to Pauline, whom he considered as already belonging exclusively to Archie Greyson, and he had forbidden her to have any further acquaintance with him. But the serpent had entered Eden, and Pauline was another Eve. She did not turn a deaf ear to the alluring voice that whispered of passionate delights, of love forbidden, yet sweet.

None but themselves—and God—knew of their stolen interviews on the mossy banks of the trout-stream, where the water-willows hung low, kissing the heads of the blue daisies in the grass. Those hours were so fraught with bliss that Pauline lived but for the moment that would take her again to her side. The one dream of her life was to be the wife of Guy Raimont. She never doubted his intention of ultimately making her such. Her young breast was filled with bitter remorse when she thought of the shattered hopes of Archie Greyson, who had loved her so long, so truly, and of Pere Michael's disappointment; but she told her own heart that she could not sacrifice her happiness to complete another's.

The night that Archie had watched until it myst'riously vanished from sight, sped down the narrow lane before mentioned, and was soon seated at Raimont's side, on the broken stile, his eyes beaming down on her sweet, trusting face. Guy had asked her to meet him to-night, and her young untutored heart had chanted all day long the sweet, delicious words: "To-night we shall be plighted lovers."

"You are late, my pet; I feared you were not coming. It would have grieved me much to have gone away without seeing you once more," said Guy with unwonted seriousness in his tone.

"To go where, Guy?" said Pauline, a shade of anxiety crossing her face.

"I return to New York to-morrow."

Pauline gave a quick, quivering sigh, but, with a hope still lingering in her heart, she said:

"You had something you wished to say to me, Guy?"

"Yes, Pauline—it is this: I want you to soon forget me. We may never meet again." His voice grew husky—it cost him an effort to speak the words he knew would cause her pain. He waited for some response, scarcely knowing what next to say.

Pauline sat white and motionless, her fingers wound tightly together upon her knees.

"I should have told you before this that we could never be more to each other than we now are. I thought you understood me, Pauline. I am bound to another as much as if I were already married. Chance threw us together, but a relentless destiny separates us."

Again he waited for some word, but she spoke not. His heart was tortured by the silent anguish of her young face, the utter dejection of her attitude.

"You must try to be happy again, as you were before I came. Will you, Pauline?" he said, his perplexity becoming great.

He bent over her and took her cold hands in his.

"Come, my pet, my pet," he said, using the name he had so often called her. "Come, the night is clouding; you will be chilled, and the way will be dark."

His words seemed to arouse her at last.

"Yes, I shall be chilled and the way will be dark," she repeated, strangely calm. "O Guy! I cannot bear this! Go, go, and leave me here!"

Guy Raimont drew her to his breast, where she had so often lain, in her confiding love, and kissed her stricken face; then, bidding her hasten back to the house, he fled from the spot, glad of any chance to free himself from the painful position he occupied. He dared not look back lest he should be tempted to return to the heart-broken girl, with no power to comfort.

When in his own room at the inn he made preparations for departure in the morning, and then threw himself on his bed—to think, but not to sleep. He fought a fierce battle through the long night, and when the gray dawn stole in at his window he had come off conqueror. He would act the man instead of the villain. He would give up the stately Maud Harcourt, and her hundred thousand. He would tell Pauline that he would make her his wife. He realized now how much he loved her. He could not break her trusting heart. Maud Harcourt had no heart to break.

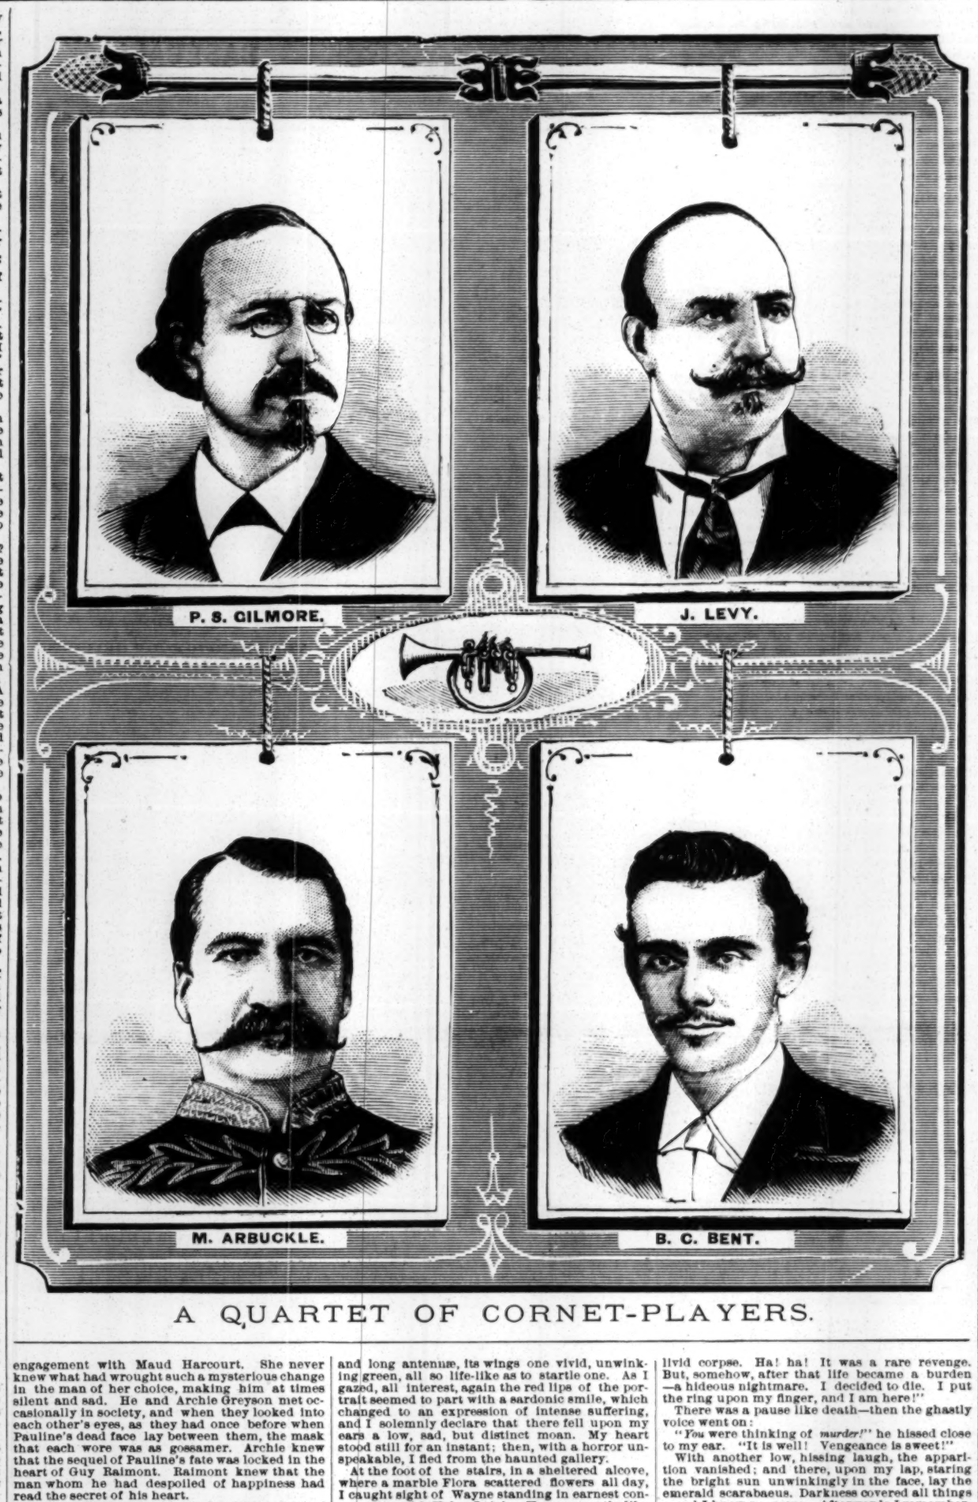
He ate his breakfast and strolled out for a walk through the village, only waiting for a reasonable hour to seek Pauline at her father's cottage. There was an unusual stir and commotion far down the street, and he walked on with the intention of ascertaining the cause of the excitement. A group of persons were coming from the direction of the river, bearing something on a litter formed of branches. A small boy running past hallooed to him that somebody was drowned. The procession of villagers came slowly near. He stood transfixed with horror, his blood frozen in his veins, at the object that met his gaze.

Pauline!—cold and dead, her glassy eyes fixed on vacancy, the wet curls, where nestled two crushed and withered roses, clinging to her white brow, water dripping from her garments. They passed him by, Archie Greyson walking beside the dead. Their eyes met for one moment, and the look that was on Raimont's face was a revelation to Archie Greyson.

They had found the body drifted shoreward, and held by some broken branches and driftwood. None but God and the man she had so fatally loved knew the sad mystery of her last moments, or could comprehend the childish despair that led to such an act.

Archie Greyson and his mother removed to the city to take possession of their inherited wealth. Guy Raimont, after returning to his home, which was in the same metropolis, fulfilled his marriage engagement with Maud Harcourt. She never knew what had wrought such a mysterious change in the man of her choice, making him at times silent and sad. He and Archie Greyson met occasionally in society, and when they looked into each other's eyes, as they had once before when Pauline's dead face lay between them, the mask that each wore was as gossamer. Archie knew that the duel of Pauline's fate was locked in the heart of Guy Raimont. Raimont knew that the man whom he had despoiled of happiness had read the secret of his heart.

Poor old Michael spent his first bitter days of mourning in his lonely cot, but finally yielded to kind persuasions, and spent the remainder of his life with Archie Greyson.



A QUARTET OF CORNET-PLAYERS.

THE EMERALD RING.

A STRANGE STORY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY MRS. E. BURKE COLLINS.

I was standing alone in the sunset, before a painted portrait—an old picture, magnificently executed. It was the face of a man, a young face, too, but in the dreamy eyes there was a lurking devil; about the proud, firm mouth there was a touch of sorcery. A wonderfully handsome face, with weird, dark eyes, the red blood mantling his olive cheek; great waves of hair, black as ebon, pushed back, as though by an impatient movement, from a broad brow white as marble. There was a fascination, a subtle, irresistible fascination, about the face, which magnetized me, and held me spellbound before it, as I have seen a clever-tree stand with uplifted eyes and clasped hands before his patron saint.

Mayhap something was due to the fact that the portrait was that of Paul De Vere, one of Wayne De Vere's ancestors; and it was not difficult to trace a likeness to him in the features before me. I was the adopted daughter of Madame De Vere, who, with her only son—Wayne—was the last of a long race of proud and haughty aristocrats. Living in a spacious but old-fashioned mansion, in the outskirts of New Orleans, madame delighted to gather around her the young and gay, and the wide old house was now filled with guests. I had been very happy until the demon of jealousy had entered my heart and taken possession. I think I was the most jealous woman that ever lived. I speak in the past tense, you see. Ever since I had learned to love Wayne De Vere—and I unfortunately had done—I had watched his every movement closely, and any unusual attention to the fair ladies assembled there had made me feel like committing murder; for he had been my constant companion for so long a time that I had come to regard him as a part of my life; and now—now—that Helen Leigh had come with her fair, blonde face, quite eclipsing my Southern darkness, I was almost insane with jealousy. Strive as I might, I could not conquer it; and, on the day upon which my story opens, I had been informed by Helen herself that her wedding-day was approaching, and soon she would be a wife. Of course, she would marry Wayne. From the first time I had seen them together the sudden, sharp pang at my heart had told me the truth, and obliged me to acknowledge what a superb pair they were. But, stung to madness by their apparent happiness, I had slipped away from the merry groups, and crept up the wide staircase to the ancient picture-gallery. There I had been standing for an hour, at least—until at last the sun had set, and the golden glory which followed in its wake gilded the features before me, and flooded the long, low, dusty old room, hung about by works of art, and filled with queer, old-fashioned furniture, and souvenirs of many a year of travel in "far, fair, foreign lands." There were huge old mahogany tables, there were relics of the days of Louis le Grande, there were mosaics, and priceless bits of old china and glass, while through the dying splendor of the sunset's gold gleamed the marble face of a sculptured Psyche. There in a corner, half concealed by a faded curtain of violet velvet, peered forth a marble Niobe, while not far off a figure of Thanatos, with the white rose of silence pressed against the marble lips. Through the huge panes of stained glass at the end of the long gallery the sun's rays were still struggling and dying out, leaving behind a broad, purple pathway, which looked like blood. In its rich Tyrian glows I fancied I saw a smile cross the lips of the portrait; and, as I turned away with a gesture of disdain at my own nonsensical imagination, my eyes fell upon a ring, which glittered and gleamed upon one of the tapering fingers, half concealed by wide ruffles of costly lace. It was a curious and massive ring, its setting—an emerald—cut in the form of an Egyptian scarabaeus, or beetle; and, glowing in the pale light, it seemed alive. A beautiful creature, with its sharp, round eyes and long antennæ, its wings one vivid, unwinking green, all so life-like as to startle one. As I gazed, all interest, again the red lips of the portrait seemed to part with a sardonic smile, which changed to an expression of intense suffering, and I solemnly declare that there fell upon my ears a low, sad, but distinct moan. My heart stood still for an instant; then, with a horror unspeakable, I fled from the haunted gallery.

At the foot of the stairs, in a sheltered alcove, where a marble Flora scattered flowers all day, I caught sight of Wayne standing in earnest conversation with Helen Leigh. He was exactly like his ancestor—Paul De Vere—as he bent his dark head close to the fair face of my rival. I could not endure the scene, and I hastened to my own apartment, where I locked myself in and paced the floor the live-long night.

The next morning I wandered through the old-fashioned cemetery which adjoined the De Vere estate. According to the customs of the country, and the climate, all the sepulchres, outside of underground interments, the resting-places of the dead were tombs of brick and marble. The cemetery, which was a very ancient one, now unused and seldom visited, was filled with huge oaks, hung about by sombre, gray Spanish moss, which trailed like funeral pall over the crumbling, neglected tombs, and resembled, with their funereal badges, "mourners come to weep." It was a bright, cheerful, cloudless morning; but, somehow, as I entered the cemetery, a chill stole over me—"something was the matter with the sunshine." Death seemed all around. As I closed the rickety gate behind me, a huge blacksnake glided out from some dark creeping plant, and, winding its way in and out, like the sinuous thing it was, disappeared at the base of a tomb close at hand. "They shall lie down alike in the dust" a voice seemed to whisper, "and the worms shall cover them." I shuddered, and would have retraced my steps. I paused hesitatingly; but something seemed to urge me on. I made a forward step, and the Rubicon was passed.

On and on I wandered, aimlessly enough, pausing at last before a tall tomb of costly gray marble, fashioned after some old oriental pattern. It was large and spacious, and bore at the top the arms and crest of the ancient house of De Vere. I threw myself down on the luxuriant grass, which grew thick and green before it, and was soon buried in profound meditation. I was thinking bitter thoughts—thoughts of the man whom I loved, and the woman that had stolen in between him and me. I was aroused by a low, soft, sibilant laugh; I raised my eyes. A tall, dark figure stood beside me, clad in the costume of a dead-and-gone time, and the face, O Heavens! was the face of Paul De Vere, whose dust had long ago been interred in the tomb before me. He held up one hand, with a detaining gesture, and I saw upon one taper finger the uncanny emerald, flashing like a thing of evil omen. Powerless to move, enchained by the great, dark eyes even as I had been by the pictured orbs, I grouped, my heart scarcely beating—a sensation of impending horror in the air. Then, O horror! the voice spoke—a rich, low voice—and called me by my name.

"Eleanor Bentley," it said in mournful accents, which somehow compelled me to listen, "wait. I have something to say to you."

In the very desperation of fear I crouched there, and the voice went on.

"I am Paul De Vere," it said, "and for a century I have lain in that tomb. Listen while I open the doors and show you the awful secret which I have borne thither with me. Once I was young and flattered and courted. I had all the world at my feet; yet I bartered it—all that the world can give and eternity can hold—for a woman's smile, a fair, false thing, a cheat and a delusion, like the rest of her sex. Valerie De Liancourt was my ruin, yet she was my wife. How I loved the pretty creature, the painted snare that caught me and held me and would not let me go until, like the spider with its victim, she had drawn the life-blood from my veins. I cannot tell you of the agony that was mine when I found out beyond a doubt that she was false to me. I fled from my childhood's home, I fled far over the seas. I became a wanderer—an Ishmael to the world. Asia and the Orient were as familiar to me as household words. For many months I made my home amid the mysteries of Egypt. It was there, in the opened tomb of an ancient Egyptian monarch, that I found this emerald scarabaeus. There was a tradition connected with it, a story that told of its power to destroy. The person wearing this ring would know this world and its joys and sorrows but for a brief space longer. Whatever the mystery was no one could fathom. Enough for me—it would kill! Well, I started for home, reached it safely, presented the ring to my beautiful bride. With her greed for such baubles she eagerly accepted it, and within four-and-twenty hours she was a livid corpse. Ha! ha! It was a rare revenge. But, somehow, after that life became a burden—a hideous nightmare. I decided to die. I put the ring upon my finger, and I am here!"

There was a pause like death—then the ghastly voice went on:

"You were thinking of murder!" he hissed close to my ear. "It is well! Vengeance is sweet!"

With another low, hissing laugh, the apparition vanished; and there, upon my lap, staring the bright sun unwinkingly in the face, lay the emerald scarabaeus. Darkness covered all things—and I knew no more. Afterwards I remembered staggering to my feet and reaching home, somehow. I remembered locking the dreadful ring in my jewel-case, and then, bursting forth in wild, delirious ravings, I sank upon my bed.

Weeks after I arose from the terrible brain-fever that followed, weak and frail, but with a deadly purpose implanted like a poisonous weed in my heart, ready to bear its noxious fruit. I returned to my place in society a changed woman. My face was a mask of marble, behind which I hid the supreme agony of my life. And so time flew by, and the wedding preparations were begun. I ground my teeth in impotent rage, and clinched my hands together, until the nails left crimson marks upon the unpuzzled flesh. Then the terrible, deadly purpose which had sprung into being gradually developed within my heart, and took positive shape and form. I opened my jewel-case and gazed upon the emerald ring which had come to me in so incredible a manner. There it lay, ready to bud, green, glittering insect. My mind was made up.

The wedding-day arrived, and in her tiny boudoir Helen Leigh was being arranged for her bridal. She looked like an angel in her soft, white robes, her golden hair arranged like a halo around her fair, blonde face, the light of a pure happiness shining in her azure eyes. For a moment my heart smote me, then I remembered the man whom I loved, and who would soon be lost to me forever, and I steeled my heart against her. She was alone for a brief space; I seized the propitious moment and entered the room. Upon a great, green scarabaeus glowing and glittering in my hand. She gave a little cry of rapture as her eyes fell upon the magnificent jewel. I smiled, a slow, cold smile.

"Helen," I said calmly, "I have brought my wedding-gift. It is a ring—a rare and wonderful ring. Will you wear it?"

For answer she extended her hand, and I slipped the ring on one white finger. My work was done; I drew a long breath of relief.

Well, the marriage ceremony was performed, and I was a spectator—a cold, marble woman, without a heart in my breast. I knew her hour of triumph would be short, and then my turn would come. It came. A few hours later a shriek resounded through the house—a wild, unearthly shriek. We all hastened to the bride's apartments, whence the cry issued, all of the family, guests, servants, all—and gathered, a wild-eyed group, around the prostrate figure of the bride, white and in her death agony. Madame De Vere, bending over her, turned an accusing face upon me as I entered.

"Great Heavens!" she wailed, "it is the emerald ring—the scarabaeus—that lay in Paul De Vere's coffin! What does this mean? Eleanor Bentley, do you know?"

And a voice somewhere in the distance, faint and soft, but full of accusing, cried:

"Murderess! murderess!"

I felt the world grow dark around me, strong hands seized my throat. I fell downward, down, down. I opened my eyes. I was lying on the greensward in front of the De Vere tomb, the noonday sun shining full in my face, and Wayne De Vere bending over me, his arms about me, his lips pressed to mine. I struggled to an upright position.

"Eleanor," he cried, "tell me why have you been so cold to me for the past few weeks? Tell me, darling, for I love you!"

I caught my breath.

"What do you mean, Wayne De Vere?" I answered bitterly. "Where is Helen Leigh? Is she not your wife?"

He opened his dark eyes in unfeigned astonishment.

"You have been dreaming, Eleanor!" he ejaculated. "Helen is but a dear friend to me; besides, she is going to marry Keene Percival!"

A terrible weight fell from me, the world seemed full of sunshine and the songs of birds and the scent of flowers. Thank God! oh, thank God! it was only a dream.

Hiding my face on Wayne's shoulder, I told him all—from first to last. He smiled, convinced that my strange story had no foundation of reality.

"Open Paul De Vere's coffin and see for yourself," I cried. "If the ring is there, then you must be convinced that my dream was remarkable, and blame me not for my credulity."

The next day, accompanied by Madame De Vere, Wayne and I revisited the old cemetery. The tomb was soon opened, and Paul De Vere's coffin stood revealed among the others. With a slight effort Wayne raised the lid. A low cry burst from his lips; he turned a pallid face upon us. A heap of human bones, and glittering and glowing among them lay the great green scarabaeus—the emerald ring of my dream.

Reverently, Wayne removed it, closed the coffin and resealed the tomb; then, with a strange, uncanny feeling clinging to us, we retraced our steps over the green, velvety grass, flecked with golden sunshine, back to the mansion. That afternoon Wayne went to the city, and remained until the following morning. He returned, looking flushed and elated, accompanied by a certain long-haired, spectacled professor of chemistry and several of the occult sciences. Madame and myself were bidden to an audience in the library.

"Eureka, little one!" cried Wayne gayly as he led me into the room. "I've found out the secret of the emerald ring!"

Sure enough. Submitted to rigorous examination and severe tests, the evil demon had been discovered. Under the gleaming emerald scarabaeus lay concealed a minute spring, which covered a tiny receptacle for a deadly poison. Worn by the unsuspecting victim, a slight pressure was sufficient for the spring to penetrate the flesh; only a tiny puncture, but large enough for the subtle poison to enter and pervade the system, which would succumb to inevitable death within a few hours.

The professor held the strange instrument of destruction in his hand for a few moments; then he dexterously removed the poisoned spring, and, taking the scarabaeus from the golden circle, laid it on the table before us.

"The demon is exorcised!" he exclaimed. "De Vere, it strikes me that you must have had an unpleasant lot of ancestors, if such little toys as this were in common use among them!"

Wayne answered not. He was smiling thoughtfully. He put the emerald ring into his pocket and made no remarks.

We had been married two weeks. I was beginning to feel quite staid and matronly, when one day Wayne entered the room where I was sitting, and, with a mysterious air, laid a small box in my lap.

"A souvenir," he answered, in reply to my questioning look.

I opened the box quickly, and then a loud cry of delight burst from my lips. Upon a bed of white velvet lay the ill-omened emerald. No longer a ring (which Wayne said was too heavy for a lady's wear), but, instead, set as the central jewel in a magnificent bracelet, the scarabaeus was surrounded by tiny diamonds, which flashed and sparkled like drops of brilliant dew; and Wayne had presented it to me as a mute reminder of my dreadful dream, and a perpetual warning against my besetting sin—jealousy.

P. S. GILMORE.

This celebrated musician, who, with the band bearing his name, is now reaping the fruits of a marked success in Great Britain, first saw the light near the city of Dublin, Ireland, Dec. 25, 1829. His childhood was passed with relatives in the little town of Ballygar, County Galway, near the city of Athlone. During that period of time he evinced a love for music, for which in later years he has shown such proficiency. At the age of seven years, in accordance with the customs of the country, he was apprenticed to a wholesale grocer in Athlone, and during that apprenticeship he acquired methodical business habits which served him well in later years. His leisure time was devoted to musical pursuits and attaining musical knowledge. Many of the best bands in the British service were at intervals stationed in Athlone, and opportunity was given him to improve his tastes by enjoying their concerts, and he received more or less instruction from the respective bandmasters. He became a member of a local band in that city; and his employer, noticing that his tastes tended more to music than groceries, employed him as a musical instructor for his children. While so employed he met the celebrated bandmaster and composer Keating, who took him under tutelage and taught him the cornet. Seeing his aptitude for readily acquiring musical knowledge, Keating advised him to make music his profession, and urged him to visit the United States. At the age of sixteen he displayed considerable ability as a composer, several of his pieces being successfully performed by the regimental band. When nineteen years old he sailed for America, landing in Boston, Mass., where his proficiency in playing upon various musical instruments secured him a position as a salesman in a music-store. His abilities as a cornet-player becoming known to the military bands in the vicinity, his services were sought after. He rehearsed with a band in Charlestown several times, but concluded to accept a position as leader of the Suffolk Band of Boston, supplying the place of the late Edward Kendall, the famous bugler, who had gone on a concert tour. The decease of John Bartlett, the distinguished trumpeter and leader of the Brigade Band, opened up a more prominent position for Mr Gilmore, which he accepted and successfully filled until the death of Jerome Smith, leader of the Salem Band, caused him to be called to fill the vacancy. He remained with that band for three years, and at that time he was acknowledged to be the best E-flat cornet-player in this country. Under his leadership that band became second to no other in the country. It was during that time that he suggested and successfully carried out the idea of monster Fourth-of-July concerts on the Boston Common, which for many years continued a great feature. He also inaugurated popular promenade concerts in the Music Hall, at which all of the popular Boston bands played alternately. In 1858 he returned to Boston, and organized a band bearing his own name, which at the outbreak of the war went into service, being attached to the Twenty-fourth Regiment, which went with Burnside's expedition to North Carolina. After a lapse of one year this band, in common with numerous others, was mustered out of service and returned to Boston, where they commenced another series of concerts. He assisted in organizing some twenty bands, and was attached to brigades under orders from the War Department, and later Gov. Andrew commissioned him as Bandmaster-general and Chief-musician of the state of Massachusetts, with authority to enlist musicians for military service. While so serving he organized a number of bands for the Department of the Gulf, and accompanied them to New Orleans, La., to deliver the instruments to the respective companies for which they had been formed. On arriving there, Major-general Banks made him director of the various musical organizations in the Department, and he at once organized a series of free concerts for the residents of the Crescent City. When Michael Hahn was elected Governor of reconstructed Louisiana, Mr. Gilmore conceived the idea of celebrating his inauguration by a monster concert, with a chorus of ten thousand voices selected from the public schools, and a combination of fifty bands and musicians for the instrument. On March 4, 1864, this was successfully accomplished, there being, besides the chorus named, five hundred musicians, several drum and trumpet corps, and fifty pieces of artillery, which were fired by electricity. A public dinner was subsequently given him, and he was presented with a magnificent goblet filled with gold coins, and appropriately inscribed. He then returned to Boston, where he got up another series of concerts, at which he introduced the most distinguished operatic artists then in this country. In 1868 he went to Chicago, Ill., to manage the ball and a series of concerts in which dedicated Crosby's Opera-house. The success of his monster concert in New Orleans prompted the idea of the National Peace Jubilee, which was successfully carried out in Boston June 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 1869. Too much space would be required to treat of this event in detail. At its close he was presented by the members of the orchestra with a magnificent gold watch, appropriately inscribed, and many other valuable souvenirs and letters of congratulation came to him from all parts of the country. Some days afterward he had a complimentary benefit in the Coliseum, which had been built expressly for the jubilee, and by it he realized over $40,000. The success of this undertaking led to the World's Peace Jubilee and International Festival, which took place under his direction in Boston, opening June 17, 1872, and closing July 4. Mr. Gilmore having previously visited many foreign countries to secure their co-operation. The following year he removed to New York, and became the bandmaster of the Twenty-second Regiment, and formed the band of sixty-five musicians which is now in Europe. After making their debut in the Academy of Music, in this city, they made a tour of the country, which was repeated in 1874. In 1875 they appeared in Gilmore's Concert Garden, in this city, which had been altered from Barnum's Hippodrome. In the Winter of that year they made another tour, and in the Spring of 1876 went to San Francisco, Cal., and on their return they gave a series of concerts at the Centennial Exhibition, Philadelphia; and later played in Gilmore's Garden, here, where they continued each succeeding Summer until May 4, 1878, when they sailed for England.

M. ARBUCKLE.

This talented artist was for some years an attractive card in Boston, Mass., being a member there of Gilmore's Band, and otherwise prominently identified with Mr. Gilmore's musical undertakings. He performed with Mr. Levy in Gilmore's Concert Garden, in this city, and, after the latter seceded from the band, he supplied his place as the principal cornet performer, and continued a member of the band up to the time of their sailing for Europe. He is engaged to play at Coney Island during the Summer.

J. LEVY.

This cornet virtuoso first appeared in America with the Parepa-Rosa Concert Troupe, with whom he made a tour of the country. When the Sunday-night concerts were first given in the Grand Opera-house, in this city, Mr. Levy performed there for about that time he became a member of Downing's Ninth Regiment Band, and during the parades of the late Col. J. Fisk Jr.'s regiment, to which he was attached, he attracted much attention. On the occasion of the arrival of the Grand Duke Alexis in this city, this band serenaded him, and Mr. Levy's cornet-solos were a prominent feature in the programme. He subsequently made a tour of the country with various concert companies, some of which were under his own management. Later he was attached to Gilmore's Band, and during their season in the Summer in Gilmore's Concert Garden he was one of the chief attractions. After a visit to England and the Continent of Europe, he returned here and was received with much favor. He married Miss Minnie Conway, a charming actress, and then started on a concert tour, extending his trip to Australia, where he performed for several months. A short time ago he returned to this city, and has since performed at the Sunday-night concerts in the Grand Opera-house, and is engaged to play at Rockaway Beach this Summer.

BENJAMIN C. BENT

was born in the city of Barnesley, Yorkshire, Eng., Aug. 31, 1848. He received his first instructions in cornet-playing from his father, who as a performer upon that instrument was celebrated in that section of the country. At ten years of age the subject of our sketch ran away from home and joined a circus company, the manager putting him before the public as a phenomenal performer on the cornet. When twenty-one years of age he was engaged as a solo performer upon that instrument with the Royal Artillery Band, stationed at Woolwich. In 1871 Mr. Bent accepted an engagement offered him by Mr. Hughes, the well-known circus manager, to come to America with the Great London Circus as solo cornettist. After remaining with that company one season he became a member of Dodworth's Band, and later of Downing's Ninth Regiment Band. When P. S. Gilmore came to New York he engaged Mr. Bent to support Mr. Arbuckle, and since that time he has been a member of Gilmore's Twenty-second Regiment Band. When Mr. Arbuckle withdrew from the band Mr. Bent succeeded him as first cornet-player, which position he continued to fill until the band sailed for Europe, May 4, 1878. He is now manager of Pemberton & Bent's Cornet Company.

THE SPARROW.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY VAN DYKE BROWN.

In suits of English brown,
The sparrows of the town
Accept their daily bills of fare with well-contented faces;
Blest dwellers in the city,
They chirp a sigh of pity
For luckless birds whose lots are cast in lonesome country places.

Bohemians are they,
Who, happy for the day,
Have never learned to vex themselves by thinking of the morrow;
They take the fate that comes,
Along with all the crumbs,
And their conscience does not trouble them to beg or steal or borrow.

At early morn and dark,
From the Battery to the Park,
In crowded street and avenue you see them, self-reliant,
Now hopping here and there,
Now standing still to stare,
So prettily pugnacious and so jauntily defiant.

Without a task or master,
They live as fast, or faster
Than any slinger of the pen, or scissorer and sticker;
They neither sow nor reap,
No proud laws their keep,
But freely make of tansy-dew their matutinal liquor.

Although their life is short,
'Tis all a time of sport,
With plenty of excitement and exhilaration in it;
Unlike the cooing dove,
When the sparrow falls in love
He woos and weds and gets divorced, and all within a minute.

A useless bird, they say,
But these objectors may,
While costing more, be less themselves in genuine utility.
The sparrow eats his worms,
And stays through Winter's storms
As Nature's cheerful evidence of brave, fecund facility.

Methinks in chirpy speech
These feathered vagrants preach
A sermon every day to us whose faith is weak and narrow.
So wisely we may turn
To them if we would learn
To put our trust in Him who marks the fall of

NEW YORK CLIPPER.

SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1878.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

No Answers by Mail or Telegraph.

EASTON B. B. CLUB, Easton.—1. The batter strikes down, not to hit the ball, but to balk the catcher. Ought the runner is not touched by the baseman. In the case of a ball, a base runner can not advance on 1st b., attempts to steal second catcher? 2. A is on 1st b., attempts to steal second; catcher throws to 2d b.; the ball is held on the base, but runner is not touched by the baseman. In the case of a ball, a base runner can not advance on 1st b., attempts to steal second; catcher throws to 2d b.; the ball is held on the base, but out? 3. A long foul fly is knocked to left field and caught; a man on 3d runs for home; fielder throws to 3d b. before runner can return. Is he out, or does the ball have to be sent to the pitcher, and then thrown to 3d b.?"..... 1. The batsman should be promptly declared out. 2. Not out unless touched, as he was not "forced." 3. If the runner left third before the catch was made, he was out by the ball being held there before he could return; no, otherwise.

JOE L.—1. At cassino a player can call out as soon as he has made any point that will put him out, from a sweep to the cards. It is not necessary to continue to play out the cards after. In a two-handed game, a player has taken in twenty-seven cards, provided that three points will put him out. 2. If C's bet is that he have at one time or another decided that at "call-out" cassino a player could not call out until all the cards had been played, C loses. It is apparent that that is what he meant, because there can be no calling-out about it after all the cards have been played. Calling-out does not mean that the quickest counter, after the hands have been played out, shall win the game when both have made enough to put them out.

W. F. A., Brooklyn.—The only engagement that the late Edwin Forrest played in the Broadway Theatre, in this city, which exceeded seven weeks in duration commenced Feb. 9, 1852, just after the termination of his celebrated divorce suit. This engagement of sixty-nine consecutive nights terminated April 30, when he acted Damon in "Damon and Pythias," in which character he opened the engagement. He did not act Coriolanus during that engagement. On Sept. 20, 1853, he began an engagement in Niblo's Garden, and on Nov. 2 following "Coriolanus" was acted for the first time in that theatre, and Edwin Forrest played the title character. It was repeated 3, 5, 6, 9, 10, 12, 13, and 20 for his benefit and last appearance; and it was, probably, on this occasion he delivered the speech of which you have a copy.

SUBSCRIBER, Buffalo.—You never read any such decision in this paper. Whether A bets that he will beat 14, or that he will beat 8 simply is our decision has ever been that A, in tieing 8's throw of 14, or in tieing B in whatever the latter does, loses the wager. There are newspapers that make an overfine and pernicious distinction between A's undertaking to beat 14 and something that B has yet to do, and his undertaking to beat B's ascertained throw of 14. THE CLIPPER has never been of those. With it, A must either beat, as he said he would, or lose. What is the use of any contest unless it be one, as also when neither says anything about beating the other (leaving it to be inferred that both assume the same obligation, as in a match), a tie makes a draw.

R. J., Syracuse.—There is no dramatic agency in this city that deals with theatres. New York managers do not care to engage amateurs. Make a start somewhere else. Try the managers in Rochester or Buffalo.

J. H. R., Erie.—1. Goldsmith Maid has a record of 2:14, and R. Wilkes, Dexter's best time in harness is 2:17¾; Flora Temple's, 2:19¾; Ethan Allen's, 2:25¾; and Rarus', 2:16.

PAT WALSH, Brooklyn.—George Rooke and Denny Harrington fought with gloves at the Surrey Gardens, London, March 12 last, the former being beaten in six rounds, occupying 22m. 2s.

SUBSCRIBER, Pawtucket.—Jas. Redpath is the general manager of the exhibitions of Edison's speaking phonograph. He can be addressed at Fifth-avenue Hall, Twenty-fourth street, this city.

J. R. F., Pittsburg.—At regular euchre B could not play alone against A and gain anything by it. B counts two for the euchre, and he would not be able to count any more had he taken all the tricks.

P. W. WILSEY, Davenport.—There was an error in the score sent of the first game between the Davenports and Atlantics, and it could not be used. Cannot spare space to publish scores of such games in full.

MCKEESPORT.—In his race with Harry Kelley, in 1868, James Renforth at one time rowed at the rate of thirty-nine strokes per minute, and he had upon other occasions sometimes reached that number.

STARLET.—The rates are almost constantly undergoing change. Address the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., foot of Canal street, or the Erie, the N. Y. Central, or the Pennsylvania Central R. R. office.

W. H. S.—1. Little Rosebud made her debut on the variety stage during the past season. 2. The Mr. Shiels you refer to, whist we had heard of him, was with a traveling company of like West.

G. F. A., Pittsfield.—1. Under our rule, A loses. 2. A loses. One side made nine runs. That is the official score, and the game has no other of which cognizance can be taken.

W. H. M., Essex Centre.—The umpire had no right to interfere with the change of pitchers. Such change can be made at any period of a game. The captain can change the position of any of his players in any inning.

WORLD-BE BALL-PLAYERS.—The ball must be sent in with the hand holding the ball passing below the line of the waist, or the umpire mustcall a "foul balk," and if one "foul balks" give the game.

BASEBALL, Savannah.—The mere fact of a player having been a professional does not exclude him from an amateur baseball nine, if he is not paid for his services in such nine by "money, or money's worth."

O. L., Rondout.—1. B is too late with his claim. 2. There is no established order throughout. Some of the hands have to be given a value before beginning play.

GAMBALIER.—Play up the six, then take it off for an ace.

STAKEHOLDER, Providence.—The game having been begun with Carey as pitcher, the bet stands. It was not stipulated that he should pitch throughout.

T. W., St. Louis.—If the horse was not ruled off, you can sue the owner, because the latter, and it seems that the owner, the rider and the trainer were ruled off, and not the horse.

JOHN O'BRIEN, Portland.—He formerly resided in Chicago, and afterwards lived for some years in Philadelphia. He is a younger brother of Jerry.

O. G. S., Logansport.—America, we think. 2. No. 3. Bendigo was beaten in his second fight with Caunt on a foul, he falling without a blow.

WAR GAME MAN, Fort Clinnaron.—There is one in Chicago, which is advertised in THE CLIPPER. Do not know of any in St. Louis or Cincinnati.

T. W. W., Syracuse.—1. They did not win in one inning, and A loses. 2. We have not received the score of the second game.

TIME AND TIDE, Chicago.—The difference between Spring and neap tides at the Battery, this city, is two feet, the rise and fall of the first being 5.04, and of the second 3.04.

T. B., Savannah.—In the event of the death of both the President and the Vice-president, Congress would appoint a President for the time being.

W. A. B.—A single-trapeze performer receives from $25 to $75 per week, according to merit and reputation; double performers, from $30 to $150.

R. F., Detroit.—J. T. Panulin was in Philadelphia a few weeks back. A letter addressed to him in our care will reach him.

F. H. K.—From 5 to 6ft, $8.50; 7 to 8ft, $9; 10 to 12ft, $11; and can be had of Messrs. Peck & Snyder, whose address find on the eighth page of this issue.

BILLY BUNKER, Geneva Lake.—No limit. They could have fifty players at command if they had the cash to pay their reserve corps salaries.

F. T. D., Boston.—Lotta made her first appearance on the stage at a variety theatre, in San Francisco, Cal., when a child.

R. E. C.—1. London, Eng., excels any other city in population. 2. It was on both the East and the North River, about 1845.

DECLINED—"Don't Forget Me, Ida, Dear," "The Lover in Trouble," "Sweet Kathleen," "A Pretty Bunch of Flowers," "What Is It?" "The Curse of Drink."

FOUGHKEEPSIE.—We believe that James P. Carter and Harry Mestayer are both living. The first-named possibly in this city in retirement, and the latter in California.

M. O. W., Philadelphia.—H. A. B. Williams is traveling in the West with Howorth's Hibernica. We have inclosed your letter, addressed it to him, and advertised it.

P. B., Hoboken.—We have no means of ascertaining except by writing to England. Leeds was not a city up to 1868.

J. L., Lynn.—We do not furnish songs-and-dances for performers. Write to one of the gentlemen who advertises to do so in this issue.

A. R. L., Buffalo.—Dick Slitter died in Jackson, Mich., May 21, 1861. Our obituary notice of him made no mention of his age.

W. A. H., Hooston.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins are living in this city. John Templeton is also here. His company have closed their season.

F. S., Trescott.—The version of "Rip Van Winkle" in which Joseph Jefferson performs is his individual property, and not for sale.

W. H. S., Kansas City.—Your letter arrived too late to be of service. Fresh items will be acceptable if they reach us not later than Monday.

W. S.—"The Black Crook" was originally produced in this city in Niblo's Garden, Wednesday night, Sept. 12, 1866.

C. W. P., Wampum.—E. P. Weston was entered for the Astley tournament in London, Eng., but did not start, illness being given as the cause of withdrawal.

J. E., Baltimore.—Dan Donnelly, the champion Irish pugilist, was born in Townshend street, Dublin, and learned the trade of a carpenter.

H. G., Morris.—1. We have looked at Vol. 1, p. 249, in Bruce's Stud-book, as directed, and find nothing. He is not even indexed. 2. Half-mile, 47¾.

J. H. R., Richmond.—Perkins' ten-mile walking time, 1h. 15m. 57s., is the best on record. No answers by telegraph.

J. H. B., St. Louis.—Miss Clara Moore is with Dan Shelby's Novelty Troupe in Rochester, N. Y., and vicinity, this week.

B. K., Brooklyn.—We have some of them yet; others have been delivered.

OBSERVER AND READER.—Their places of birth have frequently been given in this department. Search your files.

C. C. D.—Your note is enough to show that you did not compose that song.

F. B. S., Albany.—Were it not that we are already suited, your proposition might be entertained.

J. McD., Jackson.—Unless you know what town they live in, your only plan would be to advertise for them.

J. F. E., Pittsburg.—B could not play alone against A at regular euchre.

L. W. S., Buffalo.—Five innings, which constitute a legal game, have been played, A loses.

M. F. D., Boston.—3, 4, 1, 2, give the player of the deuce a run of four.

G. W., Boston.—The first steamer to cross the Atlantic was the Savannah, which left here in 1819.

SUBSCRIBER.—A won, and he would also have won if the two 44's had been thrown off, and 54 had been thrown.

WIG WAG, Boston.—If you do not learn anything about it, you will not get yourself in trouble.

H. B., Gloucester.—Charles Fuller is the agent of W. Coup's Equescurriculum.

JOHN A. BOHLER, Augusta.—George Seward, the shortdistance runner, was born in New Haven, Ct.

N. Y. VOLUNTEER.—Make application to the superintendent of the Home, stating circumstances.

A SUBSCRIBER, Hartford.—"Faro" is the name given to the word. Dead or dead, man is an animal.

W. L. T., Tioga.—As soon as E "saw" the blind, he could raise it. C's argument is of no weight whatever.

MISS R. B., Bridgeport.—Your letter addressed to her in care of this office will quickest reach her.

EUCHRE, Milwaukee.—Jack is high in cutting for deal at euchre.

J. G. H., Red Wing.—It is sufficient to address Land Office, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

ROSEDALE.—Theodore Moss had no benefit this year, nor has he had one for several years past.

F. H. A., Oil City.—Over 36 feet has been cleared in three standing sunk and runs of the pocket.

H. D.—To count two for 31, which shuts him out from taking one for the last card.

B. M. J., Denver City.—A letter addressed to him in our care will elicit his whereabouts.

W. S., Memphis.—W. F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") was not shot and killed recently in Texas. He is still living.

F. T. R., Boston.—Having never seen a horse-race there, we are unable to speak positively.

MILLER, Chicago.—John Morrissey's father died in September, 1875.

LANARK.—The blind wheel of a bicyle is the guiding-wheel.

ROCKAWAY.—You will find the information in THE CLIPPER ALMANAC.

M. CASEY, Ottawa.—No challenges published unless they are backed by a deposit.

P., Manchester.—If you please. Thanks for scores sent. How about Leary?

SHERIDAN.—Let an experienced actor coach them in the words and business of the intended entertainment.

J. B. P., Quincy.—1. Cannot say. Never saw White pitch. We have not heard of such club.

B. B. INQUIRER, Jeddo.—We know nothing of the Miller you refer to.

J. E. W., Marquette.—Such a qualification applied to colored people.

T., Easthampton.—Never having seen the gentleman perform, we cannot speak of his abilities.

CAMBRIDGE CITY.—9 to 0 was the score of the 24-innings game, Harvards vs. Athletics, in 1877.

L. R. S., Des Moines.—John Denier may be addressed in care of this office.

B. F. C., Talladega.—"Jack Harkaway" and "The Phoenix" are the plays, and not for sale.

W. S., Albany.—The score of base-hits was 12 to 1 in favor of the Stars.

Y., Philadelphia.—Address Edison, care Western Union Telegraph office, this city.

W. G. D., Toronto.—A letter addressed to him in care of this office will reach him.

W. F. S., Chicago.—You had better wait until they are finished, as special changes often are made.

C. J. G., Mechanicsburg.—We have had no intelligence of the Gregory family for some months.

P. W. H.—It is well to advertise. Would be published if THE CLIPPER were not the subject.

G. P., Pittsfield.—If not answered, it is because they have not been received.

CARROLL, Ashbula.—Morrissey and Hyer never fought.

J. J. P., Springfield.—According to our rule, you lose.

G. W., Boston.—Check is the more common spelling.

O'CONNER, Chicago.—We have been so informed.

PATSOS, Chicago.—Sixes are high in poker-dice.

N. T. K., Newcastle.—Address them in our care.

SANDY, Omaha.—Sixes are high at poker-dice.

T. M.—B must make 81, inclusive of the odds.

H. J., Oil City.—C has nothing to say.

H. J. S.—See THE CLIPPER ALMANAC.

H. W., Saco, Me.—Out of print.

G. W.—We do not know him.

M 68, Brooklyn.—M. loses.

DOCTOR, Buffalo.—B loses.

M. E. L.—Stated the case correctly.

THE VITALITY OF THE CIRCUS.

To the casual observer it doubtless looks as if the circus were losing its hold upon public favor. There are fewer companies upon the road now than there were a few years ago, and perhaps the struggle for existence among this reduced number is sharper than in former seasons. The demand governs the supply of tent-shows, as it does of all other classes of amusement; and the logical inference might be drawn from the falling-off in the number of companies that the circus has palled upon the taste of the people. Does this state of things threaten to exterminate the sawdust-ring altogether?

It would be a sorry day, indeed, which saw the final decomposition of the circus. No other form of public amusement is freighted with so many bright and breezy associations. The small boy of average worldly tendencies might live in blissful content without ever witnessing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," without ever attending a Sunday-school picnic, without ever knowing that there is such a thing as negro minstrelsy; but life would be stale, flat and unprofitable to this same small boy if he could never taste the intoxicating delights of the circus. He would be deserving then of the sincerest sympathy of all who ever knew the pleasure of entering a tent under the sole canvas. And what a miserable desert his memory would be if in after years he could recall no dazzling scene of spangled tights, no dashing equestrians, no gayly caparisoned horses, no merry painted clown! These are the things which leave so deep an impression upon the mind that even time does not obliterate them. These are the bright memories which the scent of the sawdust awakens long after the boy has become a man. The scene may have lost its old-time freshness—the glamour which surrounded it all may have faded—but it is still dear because of its associations. What if the bearded spectator knows that the spangles are only cheap tinsel, that the sylph-like queen of the arena is a mature matron of too solid avoirdupois for a sylph, that the paint upon the clown's face hides some deep lines which sorrow has drawn? Wise as he has grown, he must needs remember that greener age, when the spangles appeared to him the finest of gold, when the short-skirted rider was an undoubted sylph, and when the clown stood for the embodiment of all that was delightfully funny. With no such pictures to hang on memory's wall, we must pity the supposititious small boy who never went to a circus.

It is because the sawdust ring finds its staunchest admirers among children that we regard its permanent popularity as assured. There is no possible danger of its becoming extinct so long as young America holds it in favor. Here in the metropolis we get but a very sorry idea of what the circus is in the country. The flaring posters never fail to excite admiration in the rural breast. The small boy begins to hoard his pennies with miserly care, and the momentous day is looked forward to with brightest anticipations. People flock to the town from the surrounding country all in holiday attire, and all bent upon making the occasion memorable. The street-parade is witnessed by eager crowds lining the sidewalks. A goodly delegation of men and boys watch the erection of the tent and speculate upon the chances of gaining admittance without passing through the door. The performance itself is received with unbounded satisfaction. The spectators are more appreciative than critical, and if they cheer the pad-rider as lustily as they did the bareback champion, or fail to draw any line of distinction between a back and a forward somersault, such want of discrimination is to be attributed solely to their good nature. Everything is received with approval, even to the somewhat doubtful strains of the band. The candy-butcher himself cannot ruffle the placid tempers of patrons who decline to grumble even if the lemonade is cooled with blocks of glass in place of ice. Breaking in upon the monotony of lives which have often little to brighten them, no wonder the circus, with its tinsel and gaudy trappings, its exhilarating excitement, its sharp contrast to the dull routine of every-day existence, is keenly relished. In the city, the circus is but a single concomitant to a continuous round of amusements. In the country it is a momentous event, eagerly anticipated, heartily enjoyed, and tenderly remembered.

Perhaps the picture we have drawn will be recognized only as a thing of the past. Perhaps the modern "aggregations"—the seven-syllabled concentrations of seven shows in one—do not meet with the cordial reception we have indicated. And that leads to the reflection that possibly the expanding of the tent-show has been carried a trifle too far. The old-fashioned circus is, after all, the one which lays deepest hold on public affection. Too many centre-poles may spoil the sawdust broth. But whatever shall be the fate of the aggregated aggregations, we need have no fear that the straight-out circus will ever become extinct.

THE DAILY PAPERS were horrified a short time ago upon receiving intelligence of a set-to or passage-at-arms between Senators Hogan and Fox. Our contemporaries forget that a little exercise of this sort is as necessary to the health and longevity of State Senators as it is to Congressmen. It is less dangerous than rifle-practice, or pistol-shooting, and serves to bring all the muscles into play, thus benefiting the physical structure without interfering with the mental condition of man. When Napoleon Bonaparte and the Duke of Wellington, at the Battle of Waterloo—but let that pass. Messrs. Fox and Hogan are to be commended for not settling their little differences in our legislative halls at Albany, where so many rumpuses have taken place, to the mortification and probable disgust of our order-loving people.

SPORTING MATTERS were never more popular than they are this season. Athletic clubs are organizing everywhere, while baseball teams are so numerous that it is very difficult to keep the run of them all. The interest in boating is likewise on the increase, and shooting, boxing, running, and various other forms of outdoor pastimes are combining to develop the physical condition of Young America. Look over this number of THE CLIPPER, and last week wasn't a good one for the boys either.

THERE IS not a particle of truth in the report that the "Uncle Tom" troupes making their way to England are Russians in disguise. The rumor was a mere ruse in the interest of opposition managers who have no Uncle Thomases. Had it been true, however, it should be remembered that during our own little unpleasantness "the colored troops fought bravely."

JUST AS SOON as the fishing season commences in England, the people over there seem to experience the greatest difficulty in procuring whitebait. On mentioning this to "Our Jim," he very innocently inquired: "Why don't they dig for worms, as we do?"

THOSE of us who cannot make it convenient to take in the Paris Exposition will probably Summer in a cottage by the sea at Long Branch or Newport; but the bulk of us will have to be satisfied with a short twig at Coney Island and a sample of old port at Hoboken.

WILLIE WINTER has much to answer for in reference to improvements on Shakespeare. We have just learned that Renan's "improved version" of Shakespeare's "Tempest" comes to the front in Paris with the opening of the great Exposition.

CINCINNATI is a piggish city, and that's a fact. Not satisfied with having the privilege of going to church on Sunday, they now refuse to permit billiard-players to enjoy their favorite pastime on the Sabbath! A nice sort of haven of refuge for the oppressed of all nations, that is!

THE CHAIRMAN of the "Fraud" Investigating Committee finds his Potter's field of operations in the House of Representatives at Washington, and the material in the members thereof, which, as Potter's clay, he is strenuously endeavoring to mould into some useful if not attractive form.

JEROME PARK was in such a watery condition on Saturday that the jockeys were not particular whether they rode over the course or rowed over it.

NEWS OF THE WEEK BOILED DOWN.

 May 27: In the case of the murderer Pistorius, the ex-priest, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania ordered the sentence carried out.....Samuel Kearney murders a Mrs. Sheban at Arlington, Ill., wounds her father and mother, and then commits suicide.....The amendment to fix the strength of the army at 25,000 men defeated in the House of Representatives, who also voted to transfer the Indian control to the War Department.....J. F. Smith confessed at Clifton, Ont., where he had been arrested, to the murder of Thomas Allen at Port Huron, Mich., and Henry Mayer appointed to the place filled by the late Prof. Henry in the Lighthouse Board.....The business men of Chicago equipping a volunteer battery and four companies of infantry.....The operatives began work at Lawrence, Mass., under the new reduction of wages.....Frank Clark, connected with Vernon & Co.'s paper-house, Northampton, Mass., a defalcation of $10,000.....The Sultan and the officers of the People's Savings Institution, Newark, N. J., indicted.....Daniel J. Haight, one of the best-known men of Westchester County, N. Y., and an extensive speculator, failed; liabilities, $250,000.....City: Fire-fighting changes given in favor of Mrs. Davis, wrongfully accused of taking a purse from a store; Wm. Dietrechsen, convicted of having counterfeit coins in his possession, pardoned; sparks from a locomotive on the Long Island Railroad set fire to several awnings; a Bleecker-street car cut off Annie Gaston's hand, and otherwise injured her so that she died; Jos. Halpine fell under a freight-car at Clarkson street, and was killed; steamer Columbia, aground off Sandy Hook, floated off without damage.....Cable: The disturbances in Barcelona, Spain, due to a gas-tax—the Government policy attacked in the Cortes; more Cuban insurgents surrendered; rigid measures of repression for socialist meetings and journals; the Laycocks, lumber-merchants, Yorkshire, Eng., have failed for $600,000; early meeting of the European Congress regarded certain—invitations said to have been issued; the position of America causing uneasiness; the entire Anglo-Indian expedition has arrived at Alexandria; a disturbance in Belgrade—the crowd assault Prince Milan's palace; a new Ottoman premier, Ruchidi Pasha, announced; eight Servian conspirators executed at Belgrade.....Fires: An oil train near Cooke Mills, Md.—loss $5,000; in Masonic Block, Ithaca, N. Y.—loss $20,000; Hotel Lafayette, Buffalo, persons; Bigley & Co.'s pork packing house, and thirty thousand tons of coal belonging to the gas company at Detroit, Mich.—loss $23,000; business portion of Putnam, Ill.—loss $100,000; Hotel Mansion, Cape May, N. J.—loss $10,000, uninsured; E. Lauzon's store and seven buildings adjoining, at Aylmer, Quebec—loss $20,000; half of Mariana, Ark.—loss $20,000.

 May 28: An explosion at Chicago, Canada, and buried two men; one rescued, the other still below the surface.....John B. Anderson sent to State-prison for life for the murder of M. G. Hall at Wallingford, Ct.....Emma Bethel found not guilty of Reckless Burglary, rendered at Camden, N. J.....The Texan frontier threatened—the town of Laredo on the Mexican side menaced by revolutionists.....Mexican authorities seeking refuge on the American side of the river.....12,000 operatives at Fall River, Mass.....W. H. Zenor, the defaulting Illinois tax-collector, arrested.....A bill passed in the U. S. Senate prohibiting the importation of Asiatic coolies.....Democratic protest against the Halifax award from the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, who recommend it to be paid under certain circumstances.....Lieut. A. L. Rodgers of the Jeannette appointed to the charge of the sculptress.....An address to the South from Post-master-general Keys.....Seba D. Brand attempted suicide by jumping from a Roosevelt-street ferryboat.....City: T. L. Bowen got off on a legal point; Jos. Fiss, two months, found drowned in the Hudson; Andrew Moore, the newsboy who stabbed and killed a comrade, found guilty of manslaughter; Samuel Victor sought to realize on a forged check in the Metropolitan Bank; $2,000 recovered and arrested; Dr. Crosby and members of his society urging the Police Commissioners to enforce the excise, gaming and pool-selling laws; the widow and children of J. McKenna, who was killed recently while working on the Elevated Railroad, present themselves in court in a starving condition—the little ones were ordered to be sent to an institution, but the mother would not consent to be separated from them; Phillip Stoutenburgh accidentally shot himself while examining a shot-gun; Charles Kelly, Captain of Hook and Ladder Company No. 17, was thrown from the truck and seriously injured.....Congress to meet at Berlin—invitations issued by Germany; Russia's victory to be looked into; a British protectorate or administrative supervision of Asiatic Turkey advocated; the French government refuses to sanction any outdoor ceremonies in connection with the Voltaire centennary; affairs at Constantinople begin to look less dangerous—Turks and Russians on good terms.....Fires: C. M. Russell & Co.'s drygoods store, Wilmington, Vt.—loss $8,000; Tennessee House, Suncook, N. H.—loss $10,300, insurance $4,600; Brussell's Hotel, Brussells, Ont., and six adjoining buildings—loss $20,000; Mr. Kobald's residence, Cobourg, Ont.—loss $10,000; Snelton & Son's grist mill, Nottawa, Ont.—loss $4,000; Chas. Hyde's barn, Plainfield, N. J.—loss $1,800; King & McLeod's store, Newport, R. I.; Union Hotel, Natick, Mass.

 May 29: A serious conflict between the civil and criminal authorities at Memphis, Tenn., which resulted in calling out the militia.....The House of Representatives agreed to adjourn June 17.....F. Cutting subscribed $70,000 to relieve St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., of debt.....Joseph Lowell, a farmer living near Rondout, N. Y., murdered by two thugs from a slow train.....Lindsay—Karl E. Nobeling, the assassin, arrested—he attempts suicide; the Emperor received about thirty small shot in his body—his condition not dangerous; the Porte hurried into signing the San Stefano treaty by the Grand Duke Nicholas threatening to advance on Constantinople; Lords Beaconsfield and Salisbury to represent England in the Congress; the Montenegrins and Arnoults fighting with effect against the Russians and Bulgarians; a conference called in the English Channel caused by a failure of the Koenig Wilhelm's steering gear; foundering of the steamship Odaho in a fog near Lawrence, Mass.....Eighteen, on the coast of Ireland—crew and passengers saved.....City: Three boys' thrown into the East River by the capsizing of their boat were rescued by Officer John Raymond; Wm. Flynn drowned by the capsizing of a boat in the North River.....Fires: The lower half of Sparland village, Ill., nearly all the business-houses destroyed; Brockville Chemical Factory, Patterson's Roofing and Felt Factory, and Lapierre's Hotel, Montreal, Canada—loss $10,000; Chaney's warehouse, Canal Winchester, O., near Columbus—loss $20,000, insurance $10,000.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Weekly Record of the Decease of Prominent Individuals.

COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

ARMSTRONG, Susan—Daughter of the Rev. James Francis Armstrong—Trenton, N. J., May 18, aged 82.

BALLARD, John P.—Well-known hotel-keeper. Born in Albemarle County, and began business in a country store in that county. Next he was hotel-keeping in Palmyra, and hence moved to Richmond, Va., when he became proprietor of the Powhattan House. Was Ford's Hotel afterwards he leased the Exchange Hotel, for a time conducting that in conjunction with the Powhattan. Then he built the Ballard House, which he kept until the Exchange for a number of years. Finally he retained only the Ballard House, and that he gave up after the war, but regained possession of it at the lapse of a few years, and united him it was purchased by C. G. Thomas's son, who connected with the American and St. James Hotels, Richmond, and a hotel in Baltimore—Retreat for the Sick, Richmond, Va., recently, aged 62.

BALDERSTON, John P.—A clergyman of the Society of Friends, and a brother of Isaiah Balderston, ex-Judge of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore, Md.—Colora, Md., May 27, aged 70.

BLINN, Mrs. Eunice—Widow of Harrison Blinn of Dresden, Me. She was a native of Scarborough, Me.—San Francisco, Cal., May 20, aged 90.

BROWN, Nathan D.—Formerly of Boston, Mass. He was a connoisseur in art matters, and a brother of Joseph G. Brown of the New York commercial house of Brown Brothers & Co.—Milan, Italy, May 27.

BUCHANAN, Dr. Robert—Well-known homeopathic physician of Pittsburg, Pa. He was born near Quebec, and was graduated from Bowdoin College, Maine. In 1845, while he was practicing allopathy in this city, his attention was first called to homeopathy by Dr. Constantine Hering, who, where he aided in establishing the Homeopathic Hospital, and was a member of the American Institute of Homeopathy, and also of the Homeopathic Medical Society of Pennsylvania—Pittsburg, May 22, aged 63.

CLARY, Henry D.—Brother of Commodore Albert G. Clary, U. S. N., and Gen. Robert E. Clary, U. S. A.—Cambridge, Mass., May 24.

COULTER, Miss Addie E.—Teacher in the Primary Department of School No. 20, this city, and a daughter of the late Alderman Coulter. Fell dead in the schoolroom—May 28.

DEVLIN, Charles P.—A prominent contractor in this city, and secretary of the R. C. St. Vincent de Paul Society—here, June 1, aged 33.

DA COSTA, Mrs. Ramah M.—Widow of the well-known John M. Da Costa—Brooklyn, N. Y., May 28.

DORION, Judge Wilfred—Of the Superior Court, Montreal, and a younger brother of Sir Antoine Aimee Dorion —Montreal, suddenly, June 2.

ELLISON, George H.—Son of Commander Francis B. Ellison, U. S. Navy—San Antonio, Texas, May 27, aged 26.

GANTT, Daniel—Chief-justice of the Supreme Court of Nebraska—Nebraska City, May 29, aged about 70.

GURNEY, Hon. Russell—In 1871 came to this country as one of the commissioners appointed under Article XII of the Treaty of Washington. He was the son of the late Sir John Gurney, and was born at Norwood, Surrey, Eng., in 1804. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1828 was called to the bar at the Inner Temple, in 1845 made Queen's Counsel, in 1856 appointed Recorder of London, and in 1866 elected to Parliament—London, Eng., May 28.

GILL, Mary Antoinette—Wife of Chaplain T. A. Gill, U. S. N.—Vallejo, Cal., May 27.

GREENE, Col. William H.—A prominent Bostonian, who had been a soldier in the Florida and Civil Wars, a minister, a member of the Brook Farm coterie, an Abolitionist, and a Democrat. He was born in Haverhill, Mass., and was the son of the late Nathaniel Greene, formerly postmaster of Boston—England, May 30.

HARRISON, Hon. John Scott—The last of President Harrison's immediate family—North Bend, O., May 25, aged about 74.

KELSEY, Europe—One of the oldest Masons in the United States, having become one at Groton, Mass., in 1806 —Freeport, Me., May 28, aged 93.

KRUGAR, Mrs. Rachel—Born in Berks County, Pa.—Philadelphia, May 31, aged 102.

KEMPTON, James—A native of New Jersey, but a well-known Philadelphia merchant for many years—that city, May 23.

LITTLEFIELD, Capt. Augustus N.—President of the Newport Society—Newport, R. I., May 31, aged 80.

LOVINGGOOD, Harmon—A native of Amherst County, Va.—Elbert County, Ga., May 28.

LITTLE, Col. Henry—Vice-president of the Massachusetts Association of the Survivors of the War of 1812. While a lieutenant in that war, he met a daughter of the late Hon. Ephraim Goodale of Orrington, Me., and who became his wife in 1816. She died five days before her husband. He had been a Mason for sixty-nine years, and was a native of New Hampshire—Boston, Mass., May 26, aged 90.

MERRITT, George A.—Formerly of the Baltimore, Md., firm of W. E. Merritt & Co., wholesale grocers and commission merchants. He had been retired since 1871, when he bought Pool's Island, in the Chesapeake Bay, with the view of converting it into a Summer resort—Baltimore, Md., May 28, aged 68.

MADISON, Dr. Robert Lewis—Surgeon at the Virginia Military Institute. He was a great-nephew of President James Madison, and had been physician to Gen. Robert E. Lee—Richmond, Va., May 27.

MACKINNON, Hon. Louis Fullarton—Manager of the Jamaica Railway—Island of Jamaica, W. I., May 19.

MCENTEE, Patrick—A soldier in the War of 1812. He was a native of Ireland—near Perry Centre, Wyoming, N. Y., May 19, aged 87.

MCCULLOUGH, Jethro J.—A heavy stockholder in gal-vinizing and architectural-iron works in Philadelphia. In 1856 and 1860 he was a county-commissioner in Maryland, and in 1865-6 he was a member of the Legislature of that State—Philadelphia, May 23, aged 68.

MCDONALD, Mrs.—Wife of Major W. J. McDonald, Chief-Clerk of the U. S. Senate—Washington, D. C., June 2.

PELOUZE, Brevet-brigadier-gen. Louis H.—A native of Pennsylvania, and connected with a family well known in this city and Philadelphia as type-founders. He was graduated from West Point in the class of 1853, and served in the Florida War, in the suppression of the Kansas troubles, on frontier duty, and in the Civil War—Washington, D. C., June 2.

RUFF, Isaac Daniel—A well-known writer upon the history of various counties and towns in Pennsylvania—Philadelphia, May 31, aged 74.

RUSSELL, John—First Earl Russell, and third son of the sixth Duke of Bedford. He was born in London, Eng., Aug. 18, 1792, and was educated at Westminster School and the University of Edinburgh. In July, 1813, he was elected a member of Parliament for the borough of Tavistock, and in 1817, on account of ill health, he gave up his seat, to which Tavistock returned him in the following year. In 1826 he was returned for Bandon, Ireland, and in 1830, when Earl Grey came into power, he was made Paymaster. In 1835 he became Home Secretary, and in 1839 Secretary of State for War and the Colonies; in 1846 he became First Lord of the Treasury; and in 1865, after having held various other positions of trust, he became Prime-minister for the second time, resigning in 1866. He had been raised to the peerage in July, 1861, with the title of Earl Russell of Kingston-Russell. In 1835 he married Adelaide Lucy Elizabeth Lister, and widow of Lord Ribblesdale, and after her death, in 1841, Lady Eliot, daughter of the Earl of Minto. His title goes to Lord Amberly, his grandson, who is about eleven years old. The Earl wrote much for the press, and had published a number of volumes, inclusive of two tragedies, viz., "Don Carlos" and "Caius Gracchus"—Richmond, Eng., May 28.

SCANDLEN, James—An old fireman of this city, and a member of the Exempt Association—here, May 28.

SANFORD, Glover—Reputed to be the oldest hat-manufacturer in this country. He was for many years connected with the firm of Wm. H. Hurlburt of this city—Bridgewater, Ct., May 30, aged 81.

SMITH, Theodore H.—Son-in-law of the Rev. Samuel Hutchings of Orange, N. J.—there, May 30, aged 65.

VISLANI, Roberto de—Had been professed as "The Nestor of Italian Botanists"—Padua, recently, aged 78.

WALFERS, Prof.—Distinguished both as an astronomer and as a meteorologist—Berlin, Prussia, April 22, aged 75.

WHITNEY, Joseph Oakes—Editor of The Florida Press, and somewhat known in the Southern States as a journalist—this city, May 31, aged 24.

WYKEHAM-MARTIN, Hon. Philip—Member of Parliament for Rochester, Eng. Suddenly, in library of House of Commons—May 31.

WHITE, Isaac—Fought in the War of 1812, and was at the side of General Brock when he fell in the battle of Queenstown Heights—Toronto, recently, aged 87.

WOODWARD, Michael—Almost a centennarian—Gardiner, Me., May 27, aged 97.

BASEBALL.

MATCHES TO BE PLAYED.

LOCAL.

June 4, Hibernia vs. Ryan, at Elizabeth, N. J.
June 5, Pastime vs. Amity, at Manhattan College Gr'ds.
June 6, Pastime vs. Hamilton, at Manhattan College G'ds.
June 6, New York Nine vs. Chatham, at Capitoline G'ds.
June 7, New York Nine vs. Monitor, at Waterbury.
June 7, Ryan vs. Eagle, at Rutherford Park.
June 8, Flyaway vs. Resolute, at Fleetwood Park.
June 8, Nameless vs. Polytechnic, at Prospect Park.
June 10, Alert of Seton Hall vs. Seneca, at Orange.

INTERNATIONAL.

June 4, Utica vs. Holyoke, at Holyoke.
June 4, 29, Tecumseh vs. Hornell, at Hornellsville.
June 5, 29, Lansingburgh vs. Eckford, at Easton, Pa.
June 5, 29, Buffalo vs. Binghamton, at Binghamton.
June 5, Utica vs. Springfield, at Springfield.
June 5, Star vs. New Bedford, at New Bedford.
June 6, 7, Live Oaks vs. Keystone, at Elizabeth, N. J.
June 6, Hornell vs. Athletic, at Philadelphia, Pa.
June 6, Star vs. Springfield, at Springfield.
June 6, Utica vs. Pittsfield, at Pittsfield.
June 6, Lowell vs. Manchester, at Manchester.
June 7, Star vs. Hartford, at Hartford.
June 7, Tecumseh vs. Cleveland, at Cleveland.
June 7, Hornell vs. Excelsior, at Baltimore.
June 7, 8, Utica vs. Haymakers, at Utica.
June 7, 8, Buffalo vs. Allegheny, at Allegheny.
June 8, Star vs. Hartford, at Hartford.
June 8, Hornell vs. National, at Washington, D. C.
June 10, 11, Hornell vs. Allegheny, at Allegheny, Pa.

COLLEGE.

June 4, Yale vs. Amherst, at New Haven.
June 5, Yale vs. Princeton, at New Haven.
June 7, Harvard vs. Princeton, at Bridge Water.
June 8, Chicago University vs. Racine, at Racine.

LEAGUE.

June 4, Chicago vs. Providence, at Providence.
June 4, Milwaukee vs. Boston, at Boston.
June 5, Cincinnati vs. Indianapolis, at Indianap

SHORT STOPS.

On May 21 the Nationals of Washington beat the Atlantic of Richmond, Va., at the latter place, 29 to 0, and on the day following the visitors whipped the Richmonds almost as badly, the score being 28 to 1.... On the 23d the Keystones and Olives, local clubs, played there, the latter scoring 11 to 8.... 25th, same places, New Bedford (Mass.) Club vs. Atlantic, 18 to 4..... 23d, at Cleveland, O., Forest City vs. Geneva, 26 to 6..... A game was played at St. John's College, Fordham, N. Y., May 25, between the Young Americans of Tremont and the Invincibles of the college, which resulted in favor of the college boys by a score of 31 to 8. Time, 2h. 30m. Umpire, Mr. De Witt. The Invincibles would like to hear from the Acme, Astor and Hamilton Clubs. Address F. S. Lombard, secretary, St. John's College..... James Curry, second-baseman of the Eries, had a finger broken at Cleveland. He is now manager of the Eries, and all correspondence should be addressed to him. Charles Householder has been released from the Eries, and has rejoined the Auburns, who claimed him by contract..... 22, at Quincy, Mass., Adams Academy vs. Neponset, 24 to 10; at Easthampton, Mass., Williston vs. Amherst Agricultural, 14 to 6; at Hudson, Mass., Natick vs. Hudson, 10 to 4..... It was Nichols who pitched, instead of Cory, in the Boston-Providence game at Boston, Mass., May 18.... 26, at Cincinnati, O., Mohawk vs. Cambridge City, 13 to 0. .....The Roanoke Club has been organized at Roanoke, N. Y. The nine is made up thus: P., Joe Woolf; c., Phil. O'Mott; 1st b., Fred Rung; 2d b., Chas Meiss; 3d b., John H. Meiss; s. s., N. Kessler; r. f., John Reams; l. f., Joe Toepp; captain, Phil. O. Goetz; president, Joe Woolf; vice-president, N. Kessler; treasurer, Fred. Rung; secretary, John Meiss; field-director, Charles Meiss; manager, M. Toepp Jr. Correspondence should be addressed to John H. Meiss, Box 882, Rome, N. Y..... The New York nine play the Chathams on the Capitoline Grounds June 6, and the Mohawks of Waterbury, at Waterbury, on the 7th and 8th of June..... The Hornell-Buffalo game of June 6 has been changed to June 17 on account of no connection from Hornellsville to Allegheny, so as to allow the Buffalo nine to participate in the Allegheny tournament 7..... During the Southern trip of the Hartfords they lost but one game out of seven, and that one was with the National of Washington..... The Trinity College nine have sent word to the colleges whose clubs are competing for the college championship that they have withdrawn from the contest, because of the injuries received by some of the players. Manhaker Cup Committee of Lansingburg disbanded, and a new one will be organized forthwith, making their debut 7 with the Uticas .... Games June 1: At Manchester, N. H., Star vs. Manchester, 3 to 0; at Cambridge, Harvard Freshmen vs. Yale Freshmen, 11 to 4 ..... 28, at Holyoke, Mass., Holyoke vs. Madden, 24 to 3 ..... 30, at Peekskill, N. Y., Columbia of Corunna, L. I., vs Peekskill Mil. Academy, 22 to 6..... 31, at Meriden, Ct., Waterbury vs. Meriden, 11 to 4..... 30, at Titusville, Pa., Lauer vs. Star, 15 to 7..... 30, at Erie, Pa., Erie vs. Geneva, 8 to 3; same place, 31, Erie runs vs. Geneva, 4 to 0..... The Auburns and Pittsfields played a very good game at Pittsfield May 29. At the sixth inning Roseman was declared out on a foul strike, whereupon a dispute arose, in which Welch and Roseman became impudent to the umpire, and were therefor fined $10 each. The game was finished under protest, and resulted in a victory for the Auburns, 9 to 3. Time, 2h. Umpire, Charles E. Evans. .....June 1 the Amherst College defeated the Williams at Pittsfield, 10 to 3. There was a large crowd of students present, and they cheered loud and long whenever their nine made an extra play..... The Hudson Baseball Association of Hudson, N. Y., like games with all clubs whose routes are up and down the river. Should like to hear from New York and Brooklyn clubs. Address F. L. Pelton, Jr., Box 1..... May 25, at Russell, Kansas, Ellis vs. Clipper, 11 to 7..... 27th, at Philadelphia, Active Jr. vs. Philadelphia, 20 to 16..... 28th, at Andover, Mass., Agricultural vs. Riverside, 10 to 16.... Charles H. Turner, treasurer of the Olympic Baseball Club, on behalf of the directors, sued a large number of the members to compel them to pay up the balance due on their subscriptions, and executions have been ordered to issue against the defendants in sums varying from $12 to $90.

INTERNATIONAL SCORES.—The scorers of all the International clubs will greatly oblige us if they will send us the record of all the games they have played with International clubs, whether championship or other games, as matches played for the pennant as "pennant games." Mr. McCormick sent us a record of the Cricket games, but it was incorrect, one game being set down on a date which came upon a Sunday, and another on a date when the opposing club played elsewhere. Be careful in your dates and figures, and send record as follows: Date, winning club, losing club, where played, score. When marked by fewer than nine innings or more, state the number of innings. It is only by these measures that we can keep a correct and official record, as telegraphic reports are apt to be incorrect.

THE NEW HAVEN NINE who offer engagement with Messrs. Boshen and Ferriter of the Richmonds and Atlantics to play in Richmond, Va., May 28, 29, 30, failed to put in an appearance or send any reason for not coming. The club were telegraphed at Washington 29, which dispatch was received, but not answered. Messrs. Boshen and Ferriter, who are owners of the new baseball grounds, had several days advertised and billed the New Haven quite extensively for several weeks, and are in consequence considerably out of pocket. Had it not been for the arrangements the New Haven, the grounds could have been rented out for the 30th and 31st, as the action on the New Haven nine is considered reprehensible in all respects.

INDIANAPOLIS VS. CINCINNATI.—The Reds were again forced to succumb to the Hoosiers at Cincinnati, O., June 1. The full score not having come to hand, we can only give that by innings until our next issue:

Indianapolis.....	0	0	4	0	0	1	0	0	1–6
Cincinnati.....	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	0	0–3

THE BEST SCHOOL GAME at Central Park on June 1 was that between the First Class and the Second Class of Ward School No. 29, which was fully enjoyed by a large audience.

First Class.....	0	1	0	2	0	1–	4
Second Class.....	0	0	0	0	0	0–	0

HORNELL VS. BUFFALO.—By better fielding and batting the Hornells scooped the Buffalo Club on the latter's grounds June 1. Innings-score:

Hornell.....	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	0–3
Buffalo.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0–2

TERTIA VS. OLYMPIC.—These nines met at Concordia College, Ft. Wayne, Ind., May 21, and played with the result shown below:

Tertia.....	0	0	1	0	1	1	4	0	1–9
Olympic.....	1	0	0	0	4	1	0	0	0–6

NEW BEDFORD VS. WAVERLY.—A game at Baltimore, Md., May 28, resulted as under:

New Bedford.....	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	0–6
Waverly.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0–0

CLIPPER VS. DREADNAUGHT.—These Chicago, Ill., clubs played a game May 27, with this result:

Clipper.....	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	4–7
Dreadnaught.....	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	2–5

PROVIDENCE VS. MILWAUKEE.—The Rhode Islanders slathered the Milwaukees at Providence June 1, as follows:

Providence.....	0	0	0	3	1	4	0	2	0	14
Milwaukee.....	0	2	2	3	0	0	0	0	0	7

ELLIS VS. RUSSELL.—A game at Russell, Kansas, May 25, resulted as under:

Ellis.....	0	0	4	3	0	0	0	2	2–11
Rusell.....	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	2	2–7

LOWELL VS. STAR.—The Syracuse Stars met the Lowell (Mass.) Club on the latter's grounds May 30, but rain compelled a suspension of play after four innings had been contested, the score standing 7 to 7.

A. J. PECK of the firm of Peck & Snyder sailed for Europe on Saturday, June 1, and will return in August.

THE ALASKA B. B. CLUB are notified of a letter addressed to them in our care.

THE TURF.

JEROME PARK RACES.

A report of the opening day's races may be found on the fifth page.... Although the driving northeast rainstorm which spoiled the racing on May 30, and which had continued without intermission during the following day and night, was still at its height, and the track was a liquid mass of mud, considerably more than fetlock deep, the four events arranged for decision on the second day of the American Jockey Club meeting were brought off on Saturday afternoon, June 1. In the face of such discouraging adverse circumstances it was no wonder that the general public should prefer to remain at home and gain their knowledge of the result of the races from poolroom telegrams or newspaper reports, instead of following the example of the few hundred venturesome patrons of the sport who huddled together under the shelter of the grand stand and the club-house verandas of dismal-looking Jerome Park, and through the mist and fast-falling rain watched the thoroughbreds struggling through the slush, and sympathized with their mud-bespattered riders. The opening event was the Juvenile Stakes, a half-mile dash, or two-year-olds, $100 each, $400 added, second saving his stake; value of stake, $2,200. The starters were: Puryear & Co.'s br. c. Dan Sparing, George L. Lorillard's br. f. Idler and c. c. Arnold, J. E. Brewster & Co.'s br. f. by Leamington out of Electric, Hyman Henry's ch. c. Petrified, Charles A. Reed's c. c. Grand Master, Pierre Lorillard's two bay fillies Niva and Vixen; J. A. Smith's br. f. Lillian, A. Belmont's c. Jacky Hit and c. f. Fiddlestring, D. D. Withers' c. f. Belinda, F. Morris's b. c. Regardless, Williams' b. c. Mulrooney and c. f. Lula, and D. J. Crouse's c. c. by Revolver out of Skylight. The Lorillards were the favorites, though the fine stamp of the track on which the youngsters were to travel caused the result to be looked upon as an open question. The lot got away between 2 and 3 o'clock, Mr. Caldwell's flag falling to a good start. Dan Sparing, Petrified and Grand Master were the first to show in front, and the latter led to the quarter-pole, Grand Master having just a little the best of it, but after passing this point, the Warminster colt assumed the lead, which she retained, going under the string a winner by two lengths; Belinda second, Lillian third, Dan fourth, Gran'l Master fifth. Time, 51½sec. The second race was the Maryland Stakes, a mile dash, for three-year-old fillies, $750 added, of which $200 to second; value, $3,150. Starters: Pierre Lorillard's bay filly and Pique, Wm. Astor's Pride of the Village, G. B. Bryson's Telephone, Thos. W. Doswell's Algeria, Chas. S. Lloyd's c. f. by King Ernest out of Jersey Belle, Geo. L. Lorillard's Lunalier and Maritana, and Oden Bowie's Belle. Judith cut out the running, and at the quarter pole held a lead of four lengths; Pique second and the likely looking Lloyd filly third, a couple of lengths in front of Pride of the Village; Telephone, who was slow in getting off, far behind. As they reappeared on the lower turn, after passing around the hills, Judith was still leading, but her mud, though Pique and the Lloyd filly had closed up somewhat, and Belle had got in front of Pride of the Village. As they approached the quarter-pole Hayward urged Lloyd's filly on, and as they came into the homestretch she gained the lead, and an exciting struggle ended in her victory by a half length, Judith having fallen back to eighth position, and Belle advancing to second, and Maritana finishing third, Pique fourth. Time, 1m. 50¾sec. The next event was a mile and three-quarter dash, for $500 to first and $100 and entrance-money to second. It had five starters—Robert Graham's Skylock, 126lb; T. W. Doswell's The Stranger, 111lb; J. G. Nelson & Co.'s Viceroy, 124lb; D. J. Crouse's Joe, 115lb; and P. Lorillard's Bayard, 95lb. The fact that the latter was overweighted by five pounds caused Viceroy to be looked upon with most favor. Starting on the fractional track, the favorite sprinted along slightly ahead, but as they passed under the club-house hill Joe picked him up, the Stranger and Skylock likewise going to the front. Neck and neck until the lower turn was reached, when Viceroy received his signal, and responded with a burst which sent him to the front, Bayard coming up and taking second place. Round the turn, past the quarter-pole, and out of view around the bluff they raced along in this order, and when they were again seen Viceroy still led Bayard by a length, Joe eight lengths behind, the others being in close order. Bayard closed on the leader as they came to the three-quarter-pole, and, after a hot race along the homestretch, Viceroy began to falter and go back, and, going ahead strongly, with plenty still in him, Bayard won by four lengths, the Stranger having outrun Joe for third place (a score of lengths away). Joe was fractious before the start, and bolted once in the race, after having covered a little more than a mile, losing several lengths thereby. Time, 3m. 17⅘sec..... A mile-and-an-eighth race, for $400, with maiden allowances. The starters were: P. Lorillard's Garrick, 101lb; D. J. Crouse's Mechanic, 118lb, and T. W. Doswell's Majestic, 106lb. The first-named was a prime favorite, the bookmakers declining to touch him, but freely laying 5 to 1 against either of the others. Mechanic went away as if bent upon accomplishing wonders, having a commanding lead at the judges' stand; but, going round the turn, Garrick had been sent to the front, he leading by a running head-and-head, and began to overhaul the leader, whom he, running within himself, passed after coming into view again on the home turn, winning easily by three lengths. Majestic a like distance behind Mechanic. Time, 2m. 01⅘s.

TROTTING IN PHILADELPHIA.—A meeting was held at Point Breeze, Philadelphia, last week, commencing May 28. The first trot was for horses that had never beaten three minutes, and had nine starters, Mollie winning in three straight heats, Blossom second in each, Sorrel Top third. Time, 2:33¼, 2:33½, 2:33⅜. A race for 2:30 horses followed; purse $500; Black Frank winning the first, third and fifth heats, Modesty the second and fourth, Hambletonian Mambrino taking third money. Time, 2:26¾, 2:26¼, 2:26¾, 2:29, 2:29½. The second day's trotting opened with a contest between 2:40 horses, purse $300, Alcides winning by coming in the fourth, fifth and sixth heats, Oddfellow (second money) taking the first, Clara Morris the second, and James R. (third money) the third. Time, 2:31, 2:32¼, 2:34, 2:30¾, 2:33, 2:33½. A double-team trot, purse $300, followed, and was won by Varick's entry, A Rider's entry, who took second heat, second, and R. P. Stetson's third. Time, 2:48½, 2:43¾, 2:43¾, 2:44¾. The third race was for gentlemen drivers, purse $300, and eventually won by 120 yards from McWilliam, in the wonderful time of 1h. 27m. 1s. Keith-Falconer resigned the contest when riding second in the 9th lap. The times of those miles in which the records were lowered were: Eleven, 38m. 33 2-5s.; twelve, 42m. 5s.; thirteen, 45m. 35s.; fourteen, 49m. 7 2-5s.; fifteen, 52m. 36 4-5s.; sixteen, 56m. 8s.; seventeen, 59m. 40 1-5s.; eighteen, 1h. 3m. 12 2-5s.; nineteen, 1h. 6m. 44 1-5s.; twenty, 1h. 10m. 19 2-5s.; twenty-one, 1h. 13m. 45 2-5s.; twenty-two, 1h. 17m. 20s.; twenty-three, 1h. 20m. 58s.; twenty-four, 1h. 24m. 25 4-5s.; twenty-five, 1h. 27m. 47 2-5s. The winner rode 17 miles 140yds. in the hour, which is the greatest distance ever accomplished by an amateur in that time. McWilliam's time for the complete distance was 1h. 27m. 58 1-5s.; Tyler's 1h. 31m. 46s., and Venable's 1h. 34m. 55 3-5s.

RACKETS.—Oscar Manning of Philadelphia and James Keating of New York have made a match for the championship at American rackets, the best in nine games, for $100 a side. The first four games will be played June 8 at Doyle's Centennial Ball Court, 840 Sansom street, Philadelphia, and the other games at Hicks' Ball Court, Hoboken, N. J., on June 15.

PHOTOGRAPHS of Hon. John Morrissey can be had of Wheaton, who advertises.

CRICKET.

POLYTECHNIC vs. MANHATTAN.

On Wednesday, May 29, a very interesting and enjoyable game of cricket was had at Prospect Park, the occasion being a one inning's match between seventeen players, "coached" by Mr. Chadwick, and an eleven of the Manhattanville Cricket Club. The ball-players were, all but two, members of the Polytechnic Baseball Club of Brooklyn. It was the first time that they had ever played in a cricket match, and it was only in the field, in catching fly-balls and picking up grounders, they were at all at home. It is no easy task to place a field of novices in a cricket match, to begin with, and to keep them in position afterwards is still harder. A good start was effected in this respect, but the first "over" got the boys terribly mixed, and in consequence all the chances for preventing runs. In the first lap of the sixth, Percival, coming with a rush, obtained premier position, but was quickly repassed by Weir and Falconer, the latter of whom led in the third lap, but was overtaken by Weir before the mile was finished. Soon after entering the seventh mile Falconer again rushed to the front, and, although he was deprived of his position in the next half mile, he once more spurted, and completed the eighth mile with an advantage of two seconds. Weir, however, was going grandly, and, assuming the lead in the next lap, passed the judge first in the next five miles. Percival, with a splendid effort, went to the fore in the twelfth mile, but again fell away, and on the completion of the fifteenth mile was seized with cramp, which necessitated his retirement. From here Weir was nearly always leading, and eventually won by 120 yards from McWilliam, in the wonderful time of 1h. 27m. 1s. Keith-Falconer resigned the contest when riding second in the 9th lap. The times of those miles in which the records were lowered were: Eleven, 38m. 33 2-5s.; twelve, 42m. 5s.; thirteen, 45m. 35s.; fourteen, 49m. 7 2-5s.; fifteen, 52m. 36 4-5s.; sixteen, 56m. 8s.; seventeen, 59m. 40 1-5s.; eighteen, 1h. 3m. 12 2-5s.; nineteen, 1h. 6m. 44 1-5s.; twenty, 1h. 10m. 19 2-5s.; twenty-one, 1h. 13m. 45 2-5s.; twenty-two, 1h. 17m. 20s.; twenty-three, 1h. 20m. 58s.; twenty-four, 1h. 24m. 25 4-5s.; twenty-five, 1h. 27m. 47 2-5s. The winner rode 17 miles 140yds. in the hour, which is the greatest distance ever accomplished by an amateur in that time. McWilliam's time for the complete distance was 1h. 27m. 58 1-5s.; Tyler's 1h. 31m. 46s., and Venable's 1h. 34m. 55 3-5s.

POLYTECHNIC.		MANHATTAN.
Buckley, run out	2	W. Scott c. Ely b. Lawler	6
Dunce c. Maklin b. Scott	1	Filley b. Lawler	19
Chamberlain b. Scott	1	Tucker c. Black b. Lawler	4
Cammeyer, run out	1	Iler	4
Voorhees, run out	0	Harris b. Lawler	3
McKee b. Maklin b. Jackson	0	Black b. Chamberlain	0
Miles b. Jackson	0	Rogan c. Buckley b. Lawler	9
Bowen b. Scott	4	Love c. Cammeyer b. Lawler	2
Black b. Scott	2	Jer	0
Ely b. Scott	0	Jackson b. Chamberlain	12
Chauncey, not out	13	G. P. Scott c. Buckley b. Chamberlain	0
Harris, run out	0	McKenzie, not out	0
Jenkins, run out	0	Gowdy b. Lawler	0
Bird b. Scott	0	Byes, 2; wides, 10; n. b., 2	14
Brophy b. Scott	0
Lawler c. Tilley b. Scott	10
James b. Scott	0
Chadwick c. Love b. Jackson	0
Byes, 5; wide, 1	6
Total	43	Total	68

FALL OF WICKETS.
Polytechnic	3	9	9	11	11	11	14	17	18	18
Manhattan	8	13	20	21	39	39	66	66	68	68

Umpires, Messrs. White and Chadwick.

DEFEAT OF THE AUSTRALIANS.

Between six and seven thousand persons were gathered on the Trent Bridge Grounds, Nottingham, Eng., May 20, to witness the match between the county team of Nottinghamshire and the Australian eleven. It had rained the day before, and showers prevailed on the day of the match, rendering things anything but favorable for the visitors. The game was won easily by the county team in one inning, with 13 runs to spare. The score of the first inning, showing the players, is as follows:

AUSTRALIA.	Notts.
A. Bannerman b. Morley	7
C. Bannerman c. Flowers b. Shaw	9
T. Horan c. and b. Shaw	2
S. Spofforth b. Shaw	7
W. Midwinter c. Tolley b. Morley	13
D. Gregory b. Morley	0
W. Murdoch run out	7
T. Garrett c. Daft b. Shaw	20
J. Blackham b. Morley	1
F. R. Spofforth b. Shaw	3
F. Allan not out	0
Bye	1
Total	63

NOTTS.
R. Daft b. b. w. b. Allan	3
W. Oscott c. Horan b. Allan	6
A. Shrewsbury b. Allan	8
J. Selby c. Bannerman b. Horan	66
R. Tolley c. Blackham b. Midwinter	9
W. Flowers b. Horan	0
A. Shaw b. Spofforth	11
F. Morley c. Midwinter b. Horan	3
Byes, 4; leg byes, 5	9
Total	134

BOWLING ANALYSIS.

AUSTRALIANS—First Inning.	Overs.	Maidens.	Runs.	Wickets.	Wides.
Shaw	36.3	25	20	5
Morley	36	22	42	4

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE—First Inning.
Allan	41	23	43	3
Horan	28	12	39	1
Midwinter	18	9	15	1
Garrett	17	10	15
Horan	17.2	5	30	5

Umpires, R. Carpenter and P. Waddy.

Three days were occupied in playing this match, though the actual time of the three innings' play was but seven hours and thirty-five minutes.

THERE IS A LETTER in our office for the Secretary of the St. George Cricket Club.

MERION vs. BALTIMORE.

The Merion and Baltimore elevens played May 29, on the former's ground, Haverford, Arbutus, Pa. The visitors were greatly over-matched, the Merions winning in one inning, with 75 runs. Bailey of the Merions carried his bat out for the unanimous score of 115, made up of one 6, four 4's, six 3's, fourteen 2's, and forty seven singles.

FIRST INNING. BALTIMORE.		SECOND INNING.
Perot b. Law	5	b. Morris	12
Wilson b. Morris	0	b. Morris	12
F. Carey c. Huston b. Morris	2	b. Morris	12
Coale b. Morris	0	b. Morris	1
Thomas b. Law	0	b. Morris	0
Smith b. Morris	4	Hamb b. Bailey	0
Crawford b. Morris	0	b. Bailey	0
Ridgely b. Law	0	absent	0
Johnson run out	3	c. Brown, b. Bailey	4
Lee, c. Huston b. Morris	5	c. Ashbridge b. Bailey	0
M. Carey not out	3	b. Morris	12
Hodges b. Law	0	not out	0
B., 5; w., 1; n. b., 2	6	B., 5; w., 9; n. b., 3; n. b., 7	24
Total	33	Total	91

MERION.—FIRST INNING.
Morris b. Smith	13
Sayres c. Lee b. Carey	4
Haynes c. Johnson b. Carey	10
Bailey not out	115
G. Ashbridge b. Carey	2
Huston b. Carey	13
Law c. Hodges b. Ridgeley	5
Totals	261

GERMANTOWN vs. BELMONT.

These Philadelphia elevens commenced a match on Decoration Day at Germantown, which was left unfinished by reason of rain. Brewster played a splendid not-out inning of 60, without giving the ghost of a chance. The score:

GERMANTOWN.		BELMONT.
Hoffman c. Gilchrist b. Yarnall	0	Newlin c. Brown b. R. Hargreaves	2
Kinder c. Finley b. Yarnall	8	Knipe b. R. Hargreaves	0
John Hargreaves c. North b. Yarnall	15	Gilchrist, run out	0
T. Hargreaves b. Yarnall	0	Woolman b. Brewster	0
Joe Hargreaves, c. North, b. Gilchrist	22	Finley, l. b. w. b. Brewster	0
Brewster, not out	60	Yarnall b. Brewster	0
Caldwell b. Newlin	27	North, not out	13
Brown b. North	1	West b. R. Hargreaves	2
R. Hargreaves run out	4	Collins, not out	5
Meade b. Newlin	7	Harshurst	0
S. Welsh c. North b. Yarnall	2	Green	0
B., 3; l. b., 1; w., 9	13	Bye	1
Total	159	Total	24

ANALYSIS OF THE BOWLING.

BELMONT.	Balls.	Runs.	Maidens.	Wickets.	Wides.
Yarnall	122	57	0	5	6
Gilchrist	84	40	2	1	0
West	9	9	0	0	0
North	42	20	2	1	0
Newlin	60	20	1	2	0

GERMANTOWN.
R. Hargreaves	48	13	5	3
Brewster	48	10	4	3

BICYCLE RACING.

The first meeting held by the Bicycle Union took place at Stamford Bridge, London, Eng., May 11. The first of the two events programmed was a two-mile race, amateur, which had ten entries, divided into three heats. The final was between F. Beck, London B. C., and the Hon. Ion Keith-Falconer, Cambridge U. B. C., the latter winning by a yard and a half in 6m 30 1-5s. In the twenty-five mile race, which had been regarded as a certainty for Keith-Falconer, the winner proved to be a Mr. Weir, Dark-blue B. C., who made a dead heat with a dozen competitors, making the latter amateur time for all the miles from eleven up. Bell's Life gives the following account of the racing: "At the end of two miles Falconer was second, McWilliam third, and Percival fourth, with Weir still leading, and very little alteration took place in the next three miles. In the first lap of the sixth, Percival, coming with a rush, obtained premier position, but was quickly repassed by Weir and Falconer, the latter of whom led in the third lap, but was overtaken by Weir before the mile was finished. Soon after entering the seventh mile Falconer again rushed to the front, and, although he was deprived of his position in the next half mile, he once more spurted, and completed the eighth mile with an advantage of two seconds. Weir, however, was going grandly, and, assuming the lead in the next lap, passed the judge first in the next five miles. Percival, with a splendid effort, went to the fore in the twelfth mile, but again fell away, and on the completion of the fifteenth mile was seized with cramp, which necessitated his retirement. From here Weir was nearly always leading, and eventually won by 120 yards from McWilliam, in the wonderful time of 1h. 27m. 1s. Keith-Falconer resigned the contest when riding second in the 9th lap. The times of those miles in which the records were lowered were: Eleven, 38m. 33 2-5s.; twelve, 42m. 5s.; thirteen, 45m. 35s.; fourteen, 49m. 7 2-5s.; fifteen, 52m. 36 4-5s.; sixteen, 56m. 8s.; seventeen, 59m. 40 1-5s.; eighteen, 1h. 3m. 12 2-5s.; nineteen, 1h. 6m. 44 1-5s.; twenty, 1h. 10m. 19 2-5s.; twenty-one, 1h. 13m. 45 2-5s.; twenty-two, 1h. 17m. 20s.; twenty-three, 1h. 20m. 58s.; twenty-four, 1h. 24m. 25 4-5s.; twenty-five, 1h. 27m. 47 2-5s. The winner rode 17 miles 140yds. in the hour, which is the greatest distance ever accomplished by an amateur in that time. McWilliam's time for the complete distance was 1h. 27m. 58 1-5s.; Tyler's 1h. 31m. 46s., and Venable's 1h. 34m. 55 3-5s.

ATHLETIC.

SCOTTISH GAMES AT BALTIMORE.

The sixth annual picnic and games of the Baltimore (Md.) Caledonian Club were held at Darley Park on May 27, and were a great success. The noteworthy feature of the sports was the standing high-jump, in which E. A. Johnson of Canada cleared 5ft. 3in., thus excelling by one inch his previous best-on-record jump in Philadelphia. We are assured that the take-off was fair enough, and that the measurement was properly taken. This performance affords evidence that Johnson is beginning the campaign in fine form, and we may expect to hear from him most creditably in future field meetings, as he is an excellent all-round athlete. The results of the competitions are shown below: Best costume—First prize, ex-Chief Wm. Kelow; second, James A. C. Dixon of Philadelphia, and ex-Chief Wm. Fraser.

Putting light stone—E. W. Johnston of Hamilton, Ontario, 44½ft.; Wm. Robertson of New York, 41ft. 8in., and James Connelly, 33ft., respectively.

Throwing light hammer—John Rennie, New York, 86ft. 8in.; E. W. Johnston, 82ft. 9in.; John McTaggart, 80ft. 6½in.

Running high leap—E. W. Johnston, 5ft. 8in.; Wm. Robertson, 5ft. 6in.; James Fairley, 4ft. 6in.

Running hop, step and jump—E. W. Johnston, 40ft. 11in.; William Robertson, 37ft. 3in.; John Connelly, 34ft. 2½in.

Throwing heavy hammer—John Rennie, 79ft. 9in.; William Robertson, 78ft. 1in.; John Murphy, 60ft. 9in.

Standing jump—E. W. Johnston, 10ft. 5in.; John Connelly, 9ft. 2in.; John McTaggart, 9ft. 1in.

Sack race—for boys—Ernst McKinney, first; Harry Clifton, second; Wm. Reid, third.

Bagpipe-playing—in costume—Robert Ireland, J. A. C. Dixon.

Putting heavy stone—E. W. Johnston, 34ft. 3in.; Wm. Robertson, 32ft. 4½in.; John Murphy, 26ft. 9in.

Hitch-and-kick—E. W. Johnston, 9ft. 8in.; Wm. Robertson, 8ft. 5in.; James Fairley, 8ft. 2in.

Standing high-leap—E. W. Johnston, 5ft. 3in.; John Connelly, 4ft. 9in.; James Fairley, 4ft. 6in.

Highland fling—Wm. Robertson, Robert Ireland.

One mile walk—John McTaggart, John Rennie.

Vaulting with pole—Wm. Robertson, 8ft. 11in.; James Fairley and John Connelly, tie, 8ft. 9in.

Hurdle-race—E. W. Johnston first, Wm. Robertson second, James Fairley third.

Broadsword dance—Wm. Robertson, J. A. C. Dixon.

Tossing the caber—E. W. Johnston, 30ft. 9in.; Wm. Robertson, 27ft. 11in.

Long race—one mile—E. W. Johnston first, John McTaggart second. Time, 5min.

Quoits—Alex. Logan, Alex. Frazer and W. H. Taylor.

The tug-of-war between ten men from the Athletic Club and ten from the Caledonian was won by the Athletics in two tugs.

ADELPHI CLUB SPORTS.

The second annual games of the Adelphi Athletic Club of Brooklyn were held at the Capitoline Grounds on Decoration day. The first event was the 100 yard race, which was run in four heats. A. Hooper was the winner of the first heat in 12s. G. Hillyer was the winner of the second heat. E. Flynt was the winner of the hammer-throwing, 68ft. 3in.; H. J. Stokum being second, 63ft. 3in.; G. Hillyer, 62ft. 7in. The standing long jump was won by G. Hillyer, who jumped 8ft. 8in.; A. Hooper second with 8ft. 6in.; C. Weigand third, 8ft. 2in. Next was the final heat of the 100-yard run, which was won by E. Flynt. In the second heat A. Hooper was the winner of the three, with C. Weigand second, and G. Hillyer following with 6ft. 11in.; C. Weigend, with 6ft. 9in. The pole-vaulting was won by A. Hooper, who vaulted 7ft. 6in.; G. Hillyer, 7ft. 3in.; F. West, 6ft. 5in. In the 440 yards run H. J. Stokum was successful. H. J. Stocum was also successful in putting the shot, the distance being 28ft. The laurels for the standing high jump were carried off by A. Hooper, who cleared 4ft. 11in. The half-mile run was won by H. J. Stocum. Wm. Laird won the handicap running high jump, the height attained being 5ft. 2in. The West second, with 5ft. 4in. John L. Ramsay distanced his competitors in the one mile walk, in 8m. 3s. After considerable struggling Andrew Frazer caught the greased hog. The gold medal for general excellence was awarded A. Hooper, who received 18 points; G. Hillyer second, with 17 points. Although the weather was very bad, there was a very fair gathering of admirers of athletic sports. Judges and time-keepers—James L. Palmer and John Mathison, of B. C. C.; starter—James Grant Farquhar. Games committee—G. B. Hillyer, president; A. S. Hooper, secretary; H. Stokum, secretary; D. West, P. Smith, R. McAdam, E. Flynt.

HARDING AND ENNIS.—A meeting of these men, now matched to walk one hundred miles, for $250 a side, was held at Pat Rowe's saloon on Saturday afternoon, June 1, when, after consultation, it was agreed, as Harding was averse to having the walk take place during the professional tourney at the Rink, to postpone the date of walking until 7th inst., at 7 P. M., at the Rink (where it is to be held) can be secured for that date; if not, then upon such time as may be mutually agreed upon. Harding pays Ennis forty-five dollars for consenting to the postponement, and Ennis agrees to compete in the professional forty-eight-hours' walk, which takes place at the Rink June 6, 7, 8. Each side posted the remainder $150, and Ennis has been matched to the tune of one thousand pedestrians to be his winner of the match. I would make it a condition that one thousand points be played in Chicago, and the same in New York and St. Louis, respectively, Mr. Schaefer and myself to toss for choice of table and city for the third thousand, and the loser of this choice to have the privilege of naming the table and one of the two remaining cities for the second thousand points, and the third thousand points to be played in the remaining city, on a table the choice of which shall be tossed for. As an earnest of my wish to play, I have this day deposited in the hands of Mr. John B. Connor, at Nos. 84 and 86 State street, the sum of $1,000 as forfeit in case a match is made on the terms above herein proposed. I have instructed him to hold it for one week, and, in case it shall be covered by a like amount on behalf of Mr. Schaefer, to turn it over to a final stakeholder, to be mutually agreed upon between Mr. Schaefer and myself, and in whose hands the whole stake-money shall be deposited at least five days previous to the commencement of the game. To contradict certain misstatements which have been circulated in this city, I will here say that I am not, and never have been, in the employ of any billiard-table manufacturer. I regret that Mr. Schaefer is not in the same position, as, if he were, there would be no difficulty in the way of a match, because he and I would have the same table and cushions, and agree to play where the winner would be likely to make the most money. Yours very respectfully, WILLIAM F. SEXTON.

A dispatch from Chicago under date of May 31, and sent through the Associated Press, states that on that day Mr. Bensinger, in Schaefer's behalf, accepted Sexton's proposition, with a slight modification of the terms of the match, which, it is believed, Sexton will promptly accede to. The only "modification" that appears in the dispatch is that the match is to consist of three games of 1,000 points each, the maker of the greater aggregate score in the 3,000 points to be the winner of the match and stake. The object of making the match consist nominally of three games, for that the winner of but one of them can yet be winner of the match, is not immediately apparent. It is pretty evident that no match has as yet been made, as otherwise we should have heard of it.

GEORGE SLOSSON continues in Chicago, but is under no engagement.

"YANK" ADAMS continues to be successful in going it single-handed. At Syracuse, N. Y., in the Opera house Billiard-room, he had an "audience" of four hundred.

THEY SAID MY SHIP WAS COMING IN.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

One Autumn day they told me that my ship—
The ship I sent to sea so long ago—
Was coming in. I hurried to the pier
With wildly-beating heart and cheeks aglow.

My ship—that I had proudly sent to sea,
Freighted with Love and Innocence and Truth;
That I had watched for many a night and day
All through the long years of a trusting youth—

They said was coming in. I had my friends
Prepare to share with me a royal feast;
They should, I said, be decked in jewels rare,
And silks and cashmeres from the fervid East.

Far in the dim horizon I saw sails;
Like a proud bird she skimmed the waters blue;
Nearer and nearer still she came, and then
Her anchor cast, and then she rounded to.

With trembling voice I shouted—and then paused—
"What ship is that?" I thought I would have sunk
When came the answer, prompt and loud:
"The Betsy Jane, with 'taters, from Podunk!"

J. H. B.

THE DARK AND THE LIGHT:

OR,

DRIFTING APART ON THE OCEAN OF LIFE.

A Story of Absorbing Interest, Thrilling Effects, and Powerful Dramatic Situations.

BY JANE MILL,

AUTHOR OF "DAN'S TREASURE," "CLYTIE CRANBOURNE," "THE GOLDEN BOWL" ETC.

CHAPTER XXX.—CLOSING ROUND.

As one condemned to leap a precipice,
Who sees before her eyes the depth below,
Stops short and looks about for some kind shrub
To break her dreadful fall.—DRYDEN.

Two days passed. Herbert Dorset had called at the hotel, and left his card, but Miss Travers and Loo were out at the time, while, by what seemed a rare piece of good fortune, he and they never met casually in the streets or at any public entertainment. On the third day Colonel Talboys remarked to his son:

"I met an Indian acquaintance yesterday, Jack, and asked him to dine with us to-day, table d'hote as usual; mind you are back in good time. I heard you talking of riding with the ladies to the Cascade de Coo this morning, and, as I'm not going with you, I hope you'll remember."

"Oh, yes, we shall be back in good time," was the careless reply. "What is he, civil or military?"

"A competition waller," with disdain, "but not a bad sort of fellow. They get the best of it out there in that hole of a place; the army won India, and kept it, and these prigs of civilians get the spoil. The army is going to the dogs, Jack, and you may be thankful you never entered it."

"I don't think it can be worse than the Bar," grumbled his son. "When you've eaten your terms and been called, what are you?—a briefless barrister. You can't ask for a brief, and solicitors, unless they have some interest in you, won't send one. I'm not sure that I shan't throw it up and go in for the Indian Civil. I'm only twenty, so I have a good year before me. If a man has a fortune, the Bar is all very well; but if he hasn't, and wishes to marry, he'd better go in for something else while there is time, particularly if he wishes to marry."

"Wishes to marry!" repeated his father. "What, you don't mean that you have got any ridiculous notion of that kind in your head?"

"Well, I suppose a man may think of marrying at some period of his life," replied his son in a half-defiant tone; "at any rate, father, you did."

"Yes, yes, of course—one of the things one has to go through before he dies; but I don't see that one need go out to be roasted in India in anticipation of such an event."

"That may be, father; but I want to have a career, not play at having one; however, we can talk about this at another time. You are not coming with us?"

"No, I've seen waterfalls enough in my life. Mind you are home in good time for dinner. Is your mother going with you?"

"Yes, I think so, unless she hesitates at leaving you alone."

"Oh, I'm all right; a man doesn't want women always about the place. They manage those things better in the East; there they lock them up when they're not wanted, not that I think they are much better for it."

"I don't think it will be prudent to talk of your preference for Eastern to European customs in that respect before the ladies, particularly as they don't apply to Englishwomen, do you, father?" remarked the young man with a laugh.

At which the elder one shook his head with a knowing smile as he replied:

"Ah, yes; as well let them think themselves perfect, poor things!"

An observation which it was perhaps quite as well Mrs. Talboys did not hear, since even her husband himself admitted that he was often slightly henpecked.

It was a pleasant party of four which started in the open carriage from the hotel that morning, Mrs. Talboys and Miss Travers having the seats of honor, while Loo and Jack, with their backs to the horses, laughed and talked, keeping their companions amused; and as light-hearted as though no shadow of grief could come over them. The Cascade de Coo is nine miles from Spa, and the varied scenery as they rode along excited the admiration of our travelers, particularly of Loo, who felt so light-hearted and in such exuberant spirits that she looked half-laughingly at a solitary horseman descending one of the paths which wound up round a hill to their right. There was something so comic in his appearance, for his pony was small, he himself was big, and riding down a steep hill is never a graceful attitude at any time. Just as he reached the road in which they were riding along, however, she recognized the man, and her face became white as the very linen, while her tongue for the moment refused to utter a sound. The horseman started, too, though he admired her lovely face, there was nothing familiar in it, unless it were a far-off memory, so distant and indistinct as to be relied upon; and Miss Travers' face was hidden from his momentary glance by her sunshade, and he passed on, wondering at the look of terror that had greeted his approach. So strange was it that the memory of it haunted him all day long, and he had not forgotten it when he went to dine, according to invitation, with his old Indian acquaintance, Colonel Talboys. Here, if she were still in Spa, the young man expected to meet Mabel Travers, since most of the inmates of the hotel would naturally dine at the table d'hote, and, to be frank, this was the one thing that made him hesitate about accepting the invitation. For Mabel Travers had, the young man felt, snubbed and slighted him, since he had called upon her at the hotel, left his own card and his sister's, with the address also at which they were staying, but no notice had been taken of his visit, no return call made, and Constance had told him that not only was she averse to remembering the acquaintance of their stepmother's sister, but she had no doubt the dislike was reciprocated. Nor, when he came to think of it, and remembered their last interview in England some ten years ago, did he think his sister's view of the case improbable; and though he would have liked to have seen Loo, or heard something about her, that boyish infatuation, which had shown itself in such a very disagreeable manner, had, if not utterly died out, been so buried under the dust of time and more mature love-passages that the chances were, if not revived, it would stand a good chance of dying out altogether.

"Let me see; she will be about the awkward age now," he mused as he walked towards the hotel. "Ten years ago; she will be sixteen or seventeen now, with elbows and shoulders sticking out at right angles, and all her prettiness very probably gone away with her childhood. Ah, there is the girl who turned so pale at meeting me this morning, and with old Talboys, too. I wonder who she can be; scarcely his daughter."

The question was soon answered, however. Little dreaming who the colonel's guest was, the ladies were descending to the great dining-room, the dinner-bell having rung, when on the stairs they met the man who had been invited to join them.

"Ah, Dorset, only just in time. Let me introduce you to the ladies and my son. Ah, you know Miss Travers and Miss Loo Travers! Who would have thought it? Will you give Mrs. Talboys your arm? Come, Jack, with Miss Loo, or the soup will be cold."

And thus they went on, Loo clutching nervously at her companion's arm. She had been hungry enough before Herbert came, now her appetite had quite deserted her.

There was no escaping from the party, however. Miss Travers gave Loo a smile of encouragement, and, secure in the company of her friend, the girl made a successful effort to overcome her terror. Besides, when she came to look at him again from the safe shelter of Miss Travers on one side, Jack Talboys on the other, with the colonel, his wife and guests facing them, he did not look so very formidable, and was decidedly a great improvement upon the Herbert Dorset she had once known. He was a tall, somewhat people would have called him a fine man, looking fully thirty, though he was some three or four years younger, his face bronzed with the sun, his dark hair closely cropped, but with a tendency to curl, while the coarse and cruel expression of his mouth and the lower part of his face were hidden by the moustache, beard and whiskers, which so abundantly covered it.

"You didn't recognize me, I suppose, this morning?" he observed to Loo across the table.

"Yes, I did," she replied, not deigning to tell a falsehood, though perhaps slightly tempted to do so.

"Then you had the advantage of me," he went on, "for I never thought for a moment that it could be you."

"No, perhaps I have changed the most; but then you were older than I before you went away, and, besides that, you are so much like Constance that anyone might recognize you as belonging to each other."

A half frown came over the young man's face; though he had heard nothing about the confession of her guilt that his sister had made, and he himself had no certainty about it, there was something so strange and erratic about Constance, one might almost say at times so mad, that, whereas he might once have felt flattered to be compared to her, he now took it as anything but a compliment. Finding so little was to be got from Loo, he next addressed himself to Miss Travers, with inquiries as to the probable date of her return to England, whether she was going to reside in her old home at Notting Hill, and how and where Lady Travers was.

"Oh, my aunt is quite well," said Mabel, replying to the last question; "her home is in London; she is quite independent of me now; her brother, who was offended with her for marrying as she did, and had not spoken to her for many years, died about six months ago, leaving her a handsome income; it is to be hoped she will live long to enjoy it. Her last letter was rather amusing."

"I can well imagine that. I should have called upon her when I was in England if I had thought about it; however, I return again soon. You know that the baby, as they call her, is now a big girl, and that Miss Finch is married."

"No, I did not know the latter piece of news; who has she married?"

"A cousin of my father's named Letwell; he isn't a young man, neither is she a young woman as far as that goes."

Then he caught his breath, remembering that Mabel Travers had by this time reached, if not passed, her seventh lustre.

"Miss Finch is not so very old; she and I are about the same age," returned Mabel with a smile. "But about Constance—what makes her live abroad, and who is she staying with now? It is almost a pity she did not follow you out to India; she might have got married there."

"She talked of coming out with me, but, as she says she shall never marry, I don't see the use."

"She might keep house for you," suggested Loo, who thought it would be a capital thing for both brother and sister to be at such a distance from herself.

"I might prefer a wife to manage my house," replied Herbert, with a glance that made Jack Talboys' face flush, and Loo look quickly in another direction, so that she might not notice it; "and," Herbert went on, "if I were to marry, Constance would not be a desirable resident in the house."

"No, I should think not," assented Mabel emphatically; while Mrs. Talboys began to inquire about Miss Dorset. How old was she? Was she good-looking? She must call upon her. And a long fire of small talk followed, the Talboys being all this time blissfully unconscious that the Dorsets they were speaking to and of, and those whose name had been so notorious some ten years before in connection with the Grove House murder, were the same. For Herbert had carefully concealed the fact while in India, never speaking of his family if he could avoid it, and, when he did write to his father, always sending to his business address, until the whisper had gone abroad in that land where the residents are so given to scandal that his father was a butterman or a butcher. When the story came to Herbert's ears he laughed loudly and somewhat bitterly, but never contradicted it; the truth, he felt, would be far worse than this absurd fiction, and he had a morbid horror of being pointed out as one of a family in which such a terrible, and to the world at large as well as to himself such a mysterious tragedy had occurred. By tacit consent poor little Freddy's death had never been mentioned between himself and any of the family since he first left England, and he was in momentary dread now lest Mabel or Loo should in any possible way allude to it. But the dinner passed off far better than might have been expected, save that Count Laidslas Schobeloff, having seats for himself and friend next to our party, would persist in joining in the conversation, and excited the ire of both of the young men by asking and obtaining permission from Mrs. Talboys to present a bouquet to the young lady.

"It's only a polite acknowldgement for the money I won for him at the gaming-table the other morning," said the colonel's wife, when, an hour after, as the party of six were seated in their private sitting-room, a waiter brought up a bunch of flowers certainly equal in size to a large Cheshire cheese, with the Count's card and compliments, by permission of Mrs. Talboys, to Miss Lucile Travers.

"Oh, how beautiful!" exclaimed the girl, while her face flushed brightly. "I am so fond of flowers. Really, the Count does improve on acquaintance; doesn't he?"

At which Mabel smiled, the young men frowned, and Mrs. Talboys commenced a panegyric on the Count, which her husband interrupted by suggesting a game of cards.

"I don't care about playing," said Jack.

"Neither do I," said Loo.

"Then we will play whist," said the colonel.

While, to Herbert's disgust, Loo and Jack sat the far end of the room talked and laughed merrily; thus paying attention to them, he trumped his partner's tricks and blundered as though he had never handled a card in his life before.

CHAPTER XXXI.

A RETURN OF AN OLD INFATUATION.

"O, love! what is there in this world of ours
Which makes it fatal to be loved? Ah, why
With cypress branches hast thou wreathed thy bowers,
And made thy best interpreter a sigh?"—BYRON.

"Really, Mr. Dorset, this is the third time you have aced my king or not returned my lead!" exclaimed Mrs. Talboys with justifiable irritation. "We lost the game not for want of good cards, but because you have played them so badly."

And though usually very sweet and amiable, the lady was now very reasonably annoyed.

"I beg your pardon, I am dreadfully stupid to-day," he blundered, "and I so rarely play at cards. Give me one more chance, and I will try to do better."

"Pray do," returned his hostess "and my dear Loo, will you play us something? I am afraid your laughing and talking disturb the attention. Jack will turn over the leaves for you."

"Yes, with pleasure," was the unhesitating reply.

And then the two betook themselves to the piano, and while Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" were sounding in his ears Herbert Dorset felt he must pull himself together and pay some attention to the ordinary rules of whist, if he would retain his reputation for sanity at all. Fortune favored him with, if not a good hand, at least a cross one that played well with his partner's, so that they at once scored four by tricks and two by honors, and Mrs. Talboys' spirits and temper improved accordingly. For full an hour this went on; then Mabel Travers declared she was tired, and suggested that Jack Talboys should take her hand. Someone proposed that Loo should do so; but she declined, saying:

"She didn't like cards, and didn't think she could play."

After which the card-party seemed to languish, Loo and Miss Travers having gone off, but without saying good-night, to their own room.

"They will come back again," Mrs. Talboys said, with a significant smile at her son, whose eyes were lingering upon the door.

This remark made Herbert Dorset's blood boil, for this night, with ten times its old intensity, his boyish passion for the child who had so plaintively called herself "Poor Loo" had come back for the beautiful woman she had grown into, to form the ruling influence and power for good or evil of his manhood.

"I can't help it, auntie. I am as much afraid of him as I ever was."

The speaker was Loo, and she sat with Miss Travers in the double-bedded room which they jointly occupied.

"I am sorry for it, my dear," replied the elder lady gravely; "he seems greatly improved. Indeed, I should scarcely recognize him, and he seems to desire to be friendly. Don't you think, if you were to try, my dear, you could overcome your prejudice?"

"It isn't prejudice, aunt; it is unreasoning, absolute terror. If ever I have a horrible nightmare, or dream of the worst thing that can befall me, it is that Herbert has hold of me, is going to throw me over some cliff, or jump with me into the sea, or dash me under a railway-train, or that he holds me in his arms and I can't get away, and that death would be preferable to his embrace. Over and over again have I dreamed it, until I always know I am not quite well, or have eaten something to disagree with me, or something unpleasant is going to happen; and it is just the reverse when I dream of the beautiful lady of whom I have so often told you; she brings me pleasure and happiness, and all that is bright and good, while to dream of Herbert is always accompanied with pain and misery."

"Do you know that I think you are very fanciful, my dear?" replied her companion, noticing also how the girl trembled and shivered as she was talking. "It is all very well for a child to talk as you do—indeed, it is rather amusing; but you are almost a woman now, and you must really brace up your nerves to act and think as women do, to repress your fancies, hide your feelings, and practice self-command, so that whether you are frightened or daring, happy or miserable, the first passer-by cannot read you like a book."

"O auntie! I shall never be able to do that."

"But, my dear, you must. Suppose anything were to happen to me—that I were to die, or we were separated, and your relations were to find and claim you—what would you do then, my dear? If you were my own child I could not love you more, but I fear I have spoilt you. If you had lived a harder life and had stearner teachers, you would have learned to meet difficulty and even danger bravely, instead of shrinking like a frightened bird, or running away from it."

"O auntie! I think I should have died," replied the girl pitifully, "if I had had harsh or stern people to live with, instead of meeting with only love and kindness, as I have from you. But, indeed, I am no coward; and if it did not seem so wildly improbable, considering where and how dear Mr. Marker found me, and how you took me from the hospital to your own home, and no one from that day to this has ever sought to claim me, I should think I came of a race that knew not the meaning of fear, of men and women who have led and ruled rather than followed and submitted in the history of the world. But all these are dreams, auntie. I am afraid I am a dreamer."

"I don't know, dear Loo. Dreams such as these should be an inspiration, a source of courage and emulation, not of weakness and fear. To me such thoughts would make me count Herbert Dorset as nothing, and instead of being frightened by a man who seems very harmless, and who at the worst was only a mischievous, headstrong boy, I would have my right hand cut off before I would shrink from him."

Loo was silent for a moment, buried in thought; then she said slowly:

"Yes, I suppose so; I never thought of that. It does seem cowardly, and yet it is just the same feeling that I should have if unawares I put my hand on a black beetle or a snake, or felt them crawling over me. It is repulsion rather than fear, and is a horrible sensation, till without thought one rushes away from the cause of it. But people have got over this feeling, and have learnt to handle snakes and beetles, and to take an interest in them. Yes, I suppose I can meet Herbert and appear to be friendly with him if I try. Yes, I will."

"Well, dear, you will have to decide between one of two courses," said Mabel gravely, yet kindly. "Either we must leave our pleasant friends the Talboys, and return to England to-morrow, or we must meet Herbert and Constance Dorset on friendly terms."

At the mention of the name of Constance another involuntary shiver passed over Loo's frame, but she made no comment.

"You see," Mabel went on, "it is not as though they were known only to us, then we might avoid them to a certain extent—but it seems that Colonel Talboys met Herbert in India. You heard Mrs. Talboys say she should call on Constance; there will be invitations and entertainments on both sides, and we must join in it or go away. Under the circumstances there is no medium course. Which it must be you must decide, for your comfort and happiness is dearer to me than my own."

"That is just like you, auntie; you would give up everything in the world for me; but even if I were so selfish as to take advantage of your kindness we might gain nothing. Herbert would perhaps follow us, or we should meet him again. No, I must get over my terror—it can scarcely be called natural fear—and the sooner the better. Don't think of me any more in this matter, auntie, but act towards Herbert or Constance as though I neither liked nor disliked them."

"And I dare say you will come to that state of indifference soon?" smiled Mabel, as the two kissed each other, then rose to join the party, whom they had both left.

"I was afraid you had gone to bed," said Jack Talboys, with a smile of relief and pleasure on his face as the two ladies re-entered the room.

'Oh, no! We thought you were so much engaged with your cards that you could dispense with our charming society," laughed Loo. "How are you getting on?" she added, walking behind his chair and looking over his hand.

"Not very brilliantly; suppose you help me. See, hearts are trumps."

And he showed her his cards, and seemed as though he would be quite contented to talk to her without playing them, till his father charged his attention to the game, and his mother's impatience and Herbert Dorset's scowls recalled him to the fact that whist is a serious occupation, and must not be treated lightly or slighted in any degree. Loo stayed by Jack's side for a few minutes, when, recollecting her conversation with Miss Travers, and the determination she had made, she walked on a step or two, and with a shrinking of the heart, it is true, paused behind Herbert Dorset's chair. He half turned and looked up at her face, his own handsome in its way, as it naturally was, transformed in an instant with the smile of gratified pleasure that came over it, while Loo, half surprised, half pleased, and a good deal frightened, said:

"Don't let me disturb you, Herbert. I was only looking at your cards."

Her involuntarily calling him by his Christian name, though natural enough, quite from want of thought in her agitation, trivial as it was, made the young man's heart beat faster and his cheek flush, while Jack Talboys at once lost heart or interest in the game. She always called him Mr. John or Mr. Jack, and he had never yet presumed, except in his own mind, to address her simply as "Loo."

"Suppose, mother, we have tea when this game is over?" he suggested, "and let us have some music or chat. Whist is dreadfully unsocial, particularly for those who are not playing. What do you say, Mr. Dorset?"

"Yes, I think it would be a pleasant change," assented the guest.

After this Miss Travers played and Loo sang, Mrs. Talboys talked, and the colonel went to sleep.

"Do you never go to the soiree dansante at the Redoute?" asked Herbert, when the music ceased.

"Oh, yes, we have been once or twice," replied Mabel; "but we go about so much during the day that we are generally tired in the evening. Loo and I have been having such a quiet life. We are not used to anything like dissipation."

"Yes; I have heard from home about you occasionally," replied Herbert; "but the information was always very meagre. Whatever made you live abroad so many years?"

"Partly because I preferred it, partly for the sake of Loo's education; she has won high honors for her age, both in painting and music, while more useful subjects have not been forgotten. Indeed, we have been to school together, and I have taken my education over again."

"Only that auntie always got ahead of me," smiled the girl.

"That was to be expected, being the second effort on her part," joined in young Talboys.

"You might call and see Constance, aunt," said Herbert Dorset, with some hesitation. "I know she is no favorite of yours," he added hastily, "and I don't wonder at it. But she is greatly changed since you last saw her—more gentle, less willful and imperious, and her temper years ago severed her from home; so she is very lonely. Perhaps you might do her good. I wish you would try. We are singularly alone in the world."

"I will call and see her," said Mabel, her womanly heart touched as she thought of the willful, imperious Constance isolated from home and friends, living in a foreign land, loving and loved by no one but the brother, to indulge whose whims and pamper whose fancies had once been the object of her life.

"And will you come also, Loo?" asked the young man, more timidly, turning to the girl. "Constance must have been fond of you. I know I used to be, though I teased and frightened you terribly."

"Yes, I will go with aunt if she will take me," replied the girl slowly, "though," she added, as if it were a piece of information not to be suppressed, "I don't think Constance ever did like me."

"Give her a chance of doing so now, then," pleaded her brother. "You were only a child then."

"Yes, I will go with auntie," assented the girl.

"And I hope to have the pleasure of calling upon Miss Dorset to-morrow," said Mrs. Talboys. "As we are like one family, we may as well all come together."

"Pray do," said Herbert eagerly, his fear as to his sister's reception of the visitors being dissipated when he knew there would be a number, particularly as he would himself be at hand to entertain them.

Thus the evening wore on until Herbert took his leave, and Mrs. Talboys was loud in his praise, asking many questions about him, his sister, and their relationship to Mabel Travers. To all of which, though truthful answers were given, the family grief was not alluded to; and even if it had been, though it would have made the Dorsets objects of greater curiosity, it would have actually thrown no slur upon them, since, even after this lapse of time, not one person in ten thousand believed Constance could have committed the crime of killing her step-brother. Indeed, it had generally come to be regarded as one of the mysterious tragedies that would never be cleared up. Little, indeed, did any but Loo suspect that the hand of the woman they were to meet on the coming day had been once dyed red in human blood.

And Herbert, what of him? What had been the result in his mind from his visit at the hotel that evening? A return of the infatuation that he had thought dead, the previous existence of which he had wellnigh forgotten, and a determination at any sacrifice to her or to himself to take Loo back to India with him as his wife. Poor Loo! Better she had decided, selfish as it might have seemed, to run away, to place the greatest possible distance between Herbert and herself without delay, for the Dorsets, as we have seen with Constance, did not stand at trifles, the most charitable construction to put upon some of their actions being that, as their mother had died insane, the fatal inheritance had descended to her children.

TO BE CONTINUED.

"THE DARK AND THE LIGHT."—"How are you getting on?" asked Loo, walking behind Jack Talboy's chair and looking over his hand. "Not very brilliantly," he replied; "suppose you help me. See, hearts are trumps."

"THE CRUSHED TRAGEDIAN" in London, Eng.

In the Haymarket Theatre, May 11, Mr. Sothern made his reappearance as De Lacy Fitzaltamont in "The Crushed Tragedian," which, notwithstanding its success in this country, appears to have made a comparative failure there. From the reviews of the performances in various journals we excerpt the following. The Sunday Times says:

That his selection of a piece had been unwise may be inferred from the fact that the enthusiasm which burned so bright at the commencement of the entertainment languished towards its close. There were, indeed, at the fall of the curtain, some signs—not numerous, but distinct—of disapproval, an experience Mr. Sothern must have found as novel as disquieting. To learn must, however, be found a novel as disquieting. * * * * it is needless to say that Mr. Sothern's portraiture of the crushed tragedian is inimitably droll. It is not a mere clever and off-hand sketch. It is a picture long and carefully thought out and elaborated, in the making up of the humorous mannerisms by which the eye glares and rolls is marvelous, and the voice, broken and hoarse with ranting, is sustained in a manner that must entail a tremendous strain. The result, too, is proportionate to the effort. Through two acts, and even three, the feeling of drollery survives. It will not, however, last over five acts, and in the end the performance grows monotonous. It is possible that a strengthening of the plot might remove this feeling. In justice to Mr. Sothern it must, however, be owned the stage brightens when he appears. In the third act, in which he has little to do, the play reaches its most pronounced point. This, however, is partly attributable to others. In the first night, as we have said, George Holland as Captain Rackett of the Rhinoceros Irregulars, a comic Indian officer, wearied out the patience of the audience and received the amount of rebuke altogether exceptional on our stage. He did this, however, it seems to us, by the plan of following his leader. The performance is really comic, and proves him an actor of genuine ability. Either by his own fault or that of the author, however, he gave the public too much of himself, and so incurred a fate we mention with regret. If he will doff his foolish costume, and be content to do less he will able recognition

act then,

to assert himself, and to assert himself in the right manner. Charles Wyndham plays [illegible] Mr. Sothern appears, it should be

JOHN HIGGINS,
CHAMPION SCULLER OF ENGLAND.

The oarsman whose portrait is herewith presented was born in Shadwell, Engr., May 22, 1844; stands 5ft. 7in. in height, and in condition weighs 147lb. He was by occupation a coal whipper, and five years ago was totally unknown to fame as a handler of the sculls, while a month more than a year later that was brought conspicuously into notice, he being then thirty years of age—a period of life when most men nowadays have done the principal part of their rowing. One of his earliest achievements was winning a cup given for coal-whippers to scull for on the Thames in 1873, and to this victory he added a more important one by winning the coal-whippers' champion cup in a race from North Woolwich to the Tunnel, beating men who had shown good form. Friends thought so well of his abilities that they were induced to test him in a match with R. W. Boggett, of the Coal and Badge winner. They rowed for £25 a side, over the championship course, Oct. 26, 1874, this being Higgins' first move in that direction, the latter manner in which he defeated Burwood, and the excellent form exhibited by him, gained him new friends among those who are always on the alert for performers of exceptional merit; and after he, though beaten, had secured third place in the Lambeth heat for the sculls at the Thames Regatta, Aug. 19, 1875, he was looked upon as a rare good man, and had no occasion to beg for rowing to back him, as he secured plenty of professionals, although he did not yet feel disposed to fly at the highest game in the aquatic market. He next appeared in a match with Anthony Strong, of Barrow-in-Furness, for £100 a side, from Putney to Mortlake, Oct. 19, same year, when he won very easily in the then fastest recorded time, 23min. 5sec. The conditions were very favorable, the wind being fair and the tide extraordinarily fast. Another customer was then found for him in the person of Cornelius Brian, also of Shadwell, the match, which was for £100 a side, and was rowed over the same course, Nov. 2 following, resulting in a yet easier victory for Higgins, who stopped several times to wipe the perspiration from his forehead, finishing a couple of hundred yards ahead. He was next matched with Robert W. Boyd of Gateshead (who in 1875 had beaten J. H. Sadler in a mile race on the Tyne, and been subsequently beaten in a championship race with Sadler on the Thames), and they rowed on the Thames, for £200, June 20, 1876. Higgins again proving an easy winner by ten lengths, in the very fast time of 23min. 2sec. The boats were, however, started from opposite the "Star and Garter," and, allowing thirty seconds for the difference in distance between that point and the Putney Aqueduct, the usual starting place, the time he made in the race with Strong was the best. He was in the winning boat in the race for the champion fours at the Thames National Regatta, in August following, beating the Boyd-Lumsden crew and another in the final heat, with W. Spencer as mate, was beaten for the Pairs, from here his crew went to the Irwell, taking part in the Manchester and Salford Regatta, where they again beat the Tynesiders in the fours-cared race, Higgins' next appearance was in a match with Stronge, which he rowed and won, Nov. 1, 1877, on the Thames, for £200, June 20, 1876. Higgins again proving an easy winner by ten lengths, in the very fast time of 23min. 2sec. The boats were, however, started from opposite the "Star and Garter," and, allowing thirty seconds for the difference in distance between that point and the Putney Aqueduct, the usual starting place, the time he made in the race with Stronge was the best. He was in the winning boat in the race for the champion fours at the Thames National Regatta, in August following, beating the Boyd-Lumsden crew and another in the final heat, with W. Spencer as mate, was beaten for the Pairs. From here his crew went to the Irwell, taking part in the Manchester and Salford Regatta, where they again beat the Tynesiders in the four-cared race, Higgins and Spencer succumbing to Boyd and Lumsden in the Pairs, and the former easily beating Ralph Hepplewhite, but being defeated by C. Campbell, who received fourteen lengths start in the scullers' race. After Trickett's victory over Sadler for the championship, Higgins without delay challenged the Australian, but the latter declined to row for the championship in England, but in Australia, and made a match with Wm. Lumsden for £200 a side and a level bet of like amount to row on the Thames. Before this match was ratified Higgins had offered to make a match with Lumsden, staking £600 against £400; but he couldn't get on—sufficient evidence that his backers thought Higgins a better man than Trickett. The subject of our sketch, who was the virtual champion of England by reason of his unaccepted challenges, then concluded to come to America with a four to row at the Centennial Regatta; and it was while he was away that news came of Lumsden's forfeit of £100 to Trickett, the latter soon afterwards leaving for Australia, and Higgins' wish for a trial with him not being gratified, as it might have been had he remained in England. He was drawn in the fourth heat of the Sculls at Philadelphia, having as opponents Rph Morris and Pat Luther; but, owing to a foul between him and the latter, the race was ordered to row over next morning, which the Englishman declined to do. Higgins and Spencer were beaten by their crew mates, Green and Thomas, in the final heat of the Pairs, and his crew defeated the New York crew in the first heat of the Fours, being also awarded the victory in the final, upon a claim of foul against the Halifax crew, who showed themselves to be the fastest four on the river. After this race the backers of the Halifax crew informally challenged the Londoners to row three miles for $1,000, five miles for $2,000, at Halifax, N. S., or St. John, N. B., to which response was made through THE CLIPPER that no match could be made to row on this side of the Atlantic, but the London crew would row their challengers a five-mile race on the Thames, for £500 or £1,000 a side, following £100 for expenses. Higgins also offering to row any man who sculled in the regatta a match on the Thames championship course for from £200 to £500 a side, allowing expenses. Nothing resulted from these challenges. His first appearance after his return home was made at the Tyne International Regatta, where he was unluckily for being beaten by T. Blackman in the third heat of the Championship Sculls by a length and a half, and his crew losing to Boyd's Tynesiders in the final heat of the Champion Fours. Higgins' next appearance was in a match with Boyd, who had beaten Blackman in the final heat for the sculls in the above-mentioned regatta, and also won the Challenge Cup presented by the proprietors of The Newcastle Chronicle, with a view to arriving at a settlement of the championship question. The match was for the cup, £200 a side and the championship, and was decided on the Thames May 28, 1877, Boyd winning by three hundred yards. On June 11 following Higgins and Blackman rowed over the same course, for £200 a side, the former winning on a foul after a fine race to Hammersmith Bridge. After this he sought another match with Boyd, who gladly closed the bargain, the race being for the cup and the customary stakes, and taking place on the Thames Oct. 8, 1877. Higgins upon this occasion won the "rubber," finishing seven lengths ahead. Time, 24m. 10s. The water was quite rough, especially in Boyd's track, and his backers, thinking him able to do better, challenged for another match, offering expenses to have it rowed on the Tyne. To this Higgins agreed, and they again met Jan. 14, 1878, on the Tyne championship course, in a fine current and very rough water, Higgins' backers' claim of foul and the race was given to the latter. Challenges were at this time received by him from Wm. Elliott and Wm. Nicholson, and it was decided that these two should row for £100 a side, the winner to be entitled to row for the championship. They accordingly rowed on the Tyne, 3 miles 713 yards, March 4, Elliott winning by five hundred yards. The water was exceedingly rough and the wind against them, which accounts for the slow time, 53min. Next day Elliott challenged Higgins for the championship, and the match which resulted was fixed for decision on Monday, June 3.

BASEBALL.

ATHLETIC vs. MUTUAL.

A closely-contested and exciting game was played between these two Philadelphia nines on May 25. The professionals introduced a new curve-pitcher and his catchers—Reynolds and Fusselbach—and they created a very favorable impression, although the last-named had some damaging errors. The Athletics started off with a lead, a three-baser by Sensenderfer, a safe single by Mason and a two-baser by Kephart yielding them three runs; Tyson's error, however, preventing any from being earned. The Mutuals secured one run for their share of the first inning, Knorr leading off with a pretty two-base hit, and scoring on a poor throw of Fusselbach's. The Athletics then scored three more runs in the second and fifth innings on errors by Tyson and Higham, and three clean hits, including a two-baser by Reynolds. A couple of men missed on strikes by Fusselbach, followed by a couple of men given bases on called balls, an error by Lomas, and four clean hits, including Knorr's second two-base hits, allowed the Mutuals in the fifth and eighth innings to score six unearned runs and take the lead. The Athletics had one run to tie in the ninth inning; their first striker, Lomas, was missed on an easy fly by Thomas at centre field, and Pfeffer drove him to second by a beautiful right field; the next two men retired, and a passed ball then allowed both men on the bases to come home, and scored what proved to be the winning run, as, although Jones led off for the Mutuals with a fine two-base hit, he was retired while trying to steal third base by a fine throw of Fusselbach's, Taylor struck out, and then "big" hitter—Knorr—was captured off a terrific hit at deep centre field by Sensenderfer. The pitching and catching on both sides, Wiley's fine short-stopping and Sensenderfer's fielding and batting were the principal features of this game.

ATHLETIC.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	MUTUAL.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Reynolds, p.	5	2	1	0	0	Knorr, r. f.	5	3	2	0	0
Fusselbach, c	5	2	1	13	3	Thomas, c. f.	4	0	1	0	0
Sense'nd'r, c. f	5	1	2	3	0	Banker, p...	4	1	1	0	1
Birchall, 2b.	5	1	2	2	0	Higham, l. f.	4	0	0	0	0
Mason, l. f..	4	1	1	0	0	Hatz, 3d b..	4	1	0	1	0
Kephart, lb.	4	0	1	4	0	Fisher, 2d b.	4	1	0	1	4
Wiley, s. s.	4	0	0	2	1	Tyson, s. s..	4	0	1	2	4
Lomas, 3d b.	4	1	0	1	0	Jones, c....	4	0	1	13	2
Pfeffer, r. f..	4	1	1	0	0	Taylor, 1st b	4	0	0	9	0
Totals...	40	8	9	27	5	Totals...	37	7	7	27	9

Athletic.....	3	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	0	8
Mutual.....	1	0	0	0	5	1	0	0	0	0	7

First base by errors—Athletic, 5; Mutual, 4. Umpire, J. J. Sparks, Kleinz Club. Time, 1h. 50m.

MILWAUKEE vs. PROVIDENCE.

The Providence (R. I.) Club found their masters on May 28, when they received the Milwaukee team on their grounds, and met with a defeat which will not soon be forgotten by them and the crowd of surprised and disappointed people who came to see the Western players scooped. The Providence nine were first to score, Hines getting a base-hit, going to second on a passed ball, and scoring on Goodman's muff. This the visitors trebled in the third inning, when two men went to first on called balls after two were out, two others got base-hits, and the result was three runs. In the next inning the local players secured another run, Brown going to first on called balls, reaching second on a hit by Peters, advancing one bag on a passed ball, and Carey's safe hit bringing him home. Corey and Brown now exchanged places, but the change didn't work so well as had been anticipated, four runs being obtained by the Milwaukee in this inning. Goodman, Foley, Weaver and Redmond in succession took first on called balls after two men had been retired, and the latter's hard hit ball from Mack's bat would have enabled all four to cross the plate. At the close of the fifth inning, in which the Milwaukees increased their score by one, Allison went in to pitch, Brown catching, and these positions they retained until the conclusion of the game. The Westerners were eight runs to the good at the close of the contest. The home nine piled up error upon error, while the visitors played a fine fielding game and wielded the stick with great effect.

MILWAUKEE.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	PROVIDENCE.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Dalyr'ple, r. f.	6	1	1	3	0	0	Higham, r. f.	5	2	2	0	0	1
Peters, 2d b.	6	1	3	4	1	0	Hatz, c....	5	0	0	7	2	0
Goodman, lb	6	1	2	9	1	1	Br'n, lb., p, c.	4	1	2	3	1	7
Foley, 3d b..	4	3	2	2	0	0	Hines, c. f...	4	1	2	2	0	1
Weaver, p...	6	0	1	0	2	0	Carey, s. s..	4	1	1	2	3	1
Redmond, s. s	4	2	2	2	0	2	Allison, c., p.	4	0	1	2	0	2
Morgan, r. f.	4	0	0	3	0	0	Hague, 3d b.	5	1	1	3	3	0
Holbert, c...	5	0	3	9	2	0	Corey, p., lb.	4	1	0	8	0	5
Creamer, c. f.	4	2	2	0	0	0	Sweasy, 2d b	4	0	2	2	3	1
Totals...	42	12	17	27	6	3	Totals...	39	4	12	27	13	17

Milwaukee.....	0	3	0	0	1	4	1	0	0	0	0—10
Providence.....	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1—4

Earned runs—Milwaukee, 1; Providence, 2. First base on errors—Milwaukee, 12; Providence, 2. Umpire, J. A. Cross, Providence, R. I. Time, 2h. 16m.

MILWAUKEE vs. SPRINGFIELD.

The Milwaukee (League) Club played an exhibition game at Springfield, Mass., May 29, covering themselves with glory and the Springfields with whitewash—7 to 0—a very poor exhibition being given by the latter, while the former brilliant one for the visitors, as they scored six of their runs on errors. Curran demonstrated his ability to play short-stop by letting but one ball get by him, and that two men were out, on the most inexcusable errors ever seen. The visitors earned a run in the third. In the fourth inning Hackett came in on Foley's front. While on and at a run on first, the striker hit to Blong. A better chance for a double-play was never seen, nor a worse muff than Hackett made when Blong threw the ball directly into his hands. Weaver also made such a muff of Gaffney's fly in the fifth. "Reds" for two bases each, both scoring on another error. The Milwaukees fielded well, but failed to justify the great expectations of the spectators by their batting play, being outbatted at third, and made two good hits. Gormley at centre made an almost impossible catch, winning great applause.

SPRINGFIELD.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	MILWAUKEE.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Brady, l. f., s. s.	0	0	1	0	0	Foley, 3d b....	1	1	0	2	0
Houtz, lst b...	0	0	0	7	0	Peters, 2d b...	1	1	2	1	0
Curran, s. s., l. f.	0	0	1	1	3	Golden, c. f....	2	2	0	0	0
Blong, p.....	0	0	0	1	0	Goodman, lst b....	1	1	9	0	0
Baker, c.....	0	0	1	2	3	Weaver, p.....	1	3	0	7	0
Barry, r. f.....	0	0	5	1	2	Redmond, s. s..	1	1	0	3	2
Hackett, 2d b..	0	0	0	6	1	Morgan, r. f....	1	2	0	0	0
Ledwith, 3d b.	0	0	0	1	2	Holbert, c.....	0	1	3	0	0
Gormley, c. f...	0	0	2	0	0	Creamer, 1st b.	0	0	15	1	0
Totals.....	0	3	27	12	13	Totals.....	7	9	27	15	3

Springfield.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0
Milwaukee.....	4	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—7

Earned runs—Milwaukee, 1. First base on errors—Springfield, 1; Milwaukee, 6. Umpire, Chas. Field. Time, 2h. 5m.

UTICA vs. LOWELL.

Flushed with their victories over the Live Oaks, the Utica nine went to Lowell, Mass., May 28, and there added the Lowell team to their victims. The batting was very free on both sides, but the home nine were guilty of numerous bad errors.

UTICA.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	LOWELL.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Purcell, p...	6	2	3	1	5	0	Hawes, c. f.	4	1	1	1	1	0
Rich'd'n, c. f	5	0	3	1	0	0	F. Whit'y, l. f.	4	0	0	0	0	0
Richm'd, s. s.	5	1	1	1	3	0	Foley, p....	4	0	2	0	5	3
Latham, 2d b.	4	1	1	3	3	0	Hartwell, lb.	4	0	2	12	0	3
Kennedy, l. f.	5	4	3	0	1	0	A. Whit'y, 3b	5	1	3	2	3	3
McGuin'a, lb.	5	4	3	13	0	0	Sullivan, c..	4	1	1	5	3	10
Smith, 3d b.	5	2	1	0	3	1	Wright, s. s.	4	0	1	1	2	1
Bushong, c..	5	2	1	6	3	3	Booth, r. f..	4	1	2	1	1	2
Alcott, r. f..	5	0	1	0	0	0	Knight, 2d b.	3	0	1	6	9	1
Totals...	46	15	16	27	21	6	Totals...	37	4	13	27	26	23

Utica.....	1	3	3	0	2	0	3	4	2	0	—15
Lowell.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	—4

Earned runs—Utica, 7; Lowell, 1. First base on errors—Utica, 5; Lowell, 2. Umpire, J. J. Egan. Time, 2h. 40m.

Fortune again smiled on the Utica nine May 29, when they played a match here with the Lowells. The latter were crippled, Sullivan being unable to play, and Hawes suffering from lameness. The first runs were made by the visitors, two men being on the bases, and errors by Purcell and Booth and Knight, giving them four. In the sixth inning they secured another, and base-hits by three batsmen, a two-base hit, and errors by Richmond and Latham enabled the home nine to score their three runs. Base-hits by Bushong and Alcott, and a three-bagger by Purcell finished up with a couple of runs for the Uticas, the latter's battery work, as with Smith, Latham and McGuinness, Alcott and McGuinness.

UTICA.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	LOWELL.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Purcell, p...	5	2	2	0	4	0	Hawes, c. f..	4	0	0	1	0	0
Rich'd'n, c. f.	5	0	0	0	0	0	F. Whit'y, l. f.	4	0	0	2	1	0
Richm'd, s. s.	4	1	2	0	2	2	Foley, p....	4	0	1	1	1	1
Latham, 2d b.	4	0	1	2	3	0	Hartwell, lb.	4	0	1	11	1	0
Kennedy, l. f.	4	0	1	0	0	0	A. Whit'y, 3b	4	0	0	1	2	1
McGuin'a, lb.	4	0	1	12	0	0	Hartwell, lb.	5	0	0	1	0	0
Smith, 3d b.	4	0	0	3	5	0	Wright, s. s.	5	0	1	1	6	0
Bushong, c..	4	0	0	3	2	0	Knight, r. f..	4	0	1	2	0	0
Alcott, c. f..	4	0	0	0	0	0	Booth, 2d b..	4	0	0	4	4	2
Totals...	40	3	7	20	16	2	Totals...	38	0	3	27	17	4

Utica.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	0—3
Lowell.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

Earned run—Utica, 1. First base on errors—Utica, 7; Lowell, 4. Umpire, Henry Murphy. Time, 2h. 15m.

UTICA vs. LIVE OAK.

A still worse defeat than that received on the 25th was sustained by the Live Oaks at Lynn, Mass., May 27, their conqueror being the Utica nine, which, on Monday (N. Y.) Club, who batted on a way that astonished their opponents. In the first inning Richmond was hit by the Live Oak pitcher, and so disabled that he was obliged to retire, Latham taking his place. Smith of the Uticas struck a beauty over the fence behind left field, and made a home-run on it. The two runs scored by the local team were obtained in the first inning off a base-hit, assisted by three errors on the part of the Uticas.

UTICA.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	LIVE OAK.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Purcell, p...	5	1	1	0	3	0	Farrell, 3d b.	4	1	1	3	0	3
Rich'd'n, c. f.	5	1	3	0	0	0	Hayes, r. f., lb	4	0	0	2	1	0
Roche, s. s..	5	1	2	1	5	1	Say, s. s....	4	1	0	3	4	3
Latham, 2b.	5	2	2	2	1	0	Leary, c. f..	4	0	0	2	0	0
Kennedy, l. f.	5	0	1	0	0	0	Spence, 3d b.	4	0	0	2	2	2
McGu'nes, lb	5	1	1	14	1	0	Lapham, lb.	3	0	0	7	1	0
Smith, 3d b.	5	2	2	1	2	0	Phillips, l. f.	3	0	0	2	0	1
Bushong, c..	4	0	0	7	1	0	Phillips, 2b..	3	0	1	3	0	0
Alcott, c. f..	4	0	0	0	0	0	Price, p....	3	0	0	0	4	1
Totals...	43	11	15	27	17	5	Totals...	32	2	2	27	12	9

Utica.....	1	0	1	2	0	2	0	2	1	—11
Live Oak.....	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—2

Earned runs—Utica, 3. First base on errors—Utica, 6; Live Oak, 1. Umpire, J. J. Egan of Lowell. Time, 2h. 10m.

BUFFALO vs. ALLEGHENY.

Returning from Canada in a thoroughly rattled condition, the Alleghenies undertook to play against the Buffalo Club, on the latter's grounds, May 29; but the phenomenal batting of their home nine was too much for them, added to their demoralization, and, playing execrably, they were terribly beaten. The visitors changed their pitcher and catcher in the fifth inning, but the move did not work well. Crowley and Dolan struck for two bases.

BUFFALO.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	ALLEGHENY.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Eggler, c. f..	5	2	2	1	0	0	Kn'dell, r. f.c.	4	1	3	4	1	1
Allen, 3d b...	5	1	1	1	2	0	Fouser, s. s..	4	0	0	1	4	0
Force, s. s..	6	1	1	1	2	0	Crowley, c. f.	4	0	0	1	4	0
Crowley, l. f.	7	4	3	4	0	0	Gifford, 2d b.	4	1	3	2	2	1
Libby, 1st b..	6	3	3	10	0	0	Mack, 1st b..	4	0	0	11	0	1
Galvin, p....	6	3	3	1	5	1	Kelly, c....	4	0	1	3	3	0
Fulmer, 2d b.	6	2	3	1	2	1	Barnum, p....	4	0	1	10	0	0
McGunigle, r. f	6	3	4	2	0	0	Kipp, c. f....	4	0	1	1	0	0
Dolan, c....	6	4	4	9	2	0	Totals...	37	2	9	36	16	4

Buffalo.....	0	4	2	7	2	2	0	0	0	0	—17
Allegheny.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	—2

Earned runs—Buffalo, 7; Allegheny, 2. First base on errors—Buffalo, 3. Umpire, C. W. Nichols of Buffalo. Time, 2h. 8m.

AMHERST vs. CLIPPER.

The college nine of Amherst were too much for the Clippers at Amherst, Mass., May 29. A long running fly-catch by Blair, who threw the ball to third, putting two men out, was the feature of the contest.

AMHERST.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	CLIPPER.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Couch, p....	5	0	0	3	1	1	Hopkins, r. f.	4	0	0	0	0	0
Blair, l. f....	5	0	2	2	1	1	Billings, 2d b	4	0	1	3	5	3
Plimpton, lb	5	1	3	6	0	0	Daley, l. f....	4	0	2	1	0	0
Woodward, c	5	2	0	9	3	0	McGrath, c....	4	0	0	8	4	2
Johnson, r. f.	5	1	1	0	0	0	Hauston, 3b..	3	0	0	2	1	0
Latimer, s. s.	5	2	1	0	1	1	Buckner, lb..	3	0	0	12	0	5
Andrews, c. f.	5	0	1	0	1	0	Platt, s. s....	4	0	2	1	6	1
Whitney, 2b..	5	0	1	2	3	0	Ward, p....	4	0	1	2	0	6
Critten'n, 3b	5	0	0	4	3	0	Kelly, c. f....	3	0	2	0	0	0
Totals...	45	7	8	27	18	3	Totals...	32	1	6	27	20	14

Amherst.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	2	2	—7
Clipper.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—1

First base on errors—Amherst, 11; Clipper, 4. Umpire, G. T. Spahr. Time, 1h. 35m.

LOWELL vs. WORCESTER.

A second championship game between these clubs, at Worcester, Mass., May 25. Errors by Farrell and McGlynn in the sixth inning won the game for the visitors.

LOWELL.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	WORCESTER.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Hawes, c. f..	4	0	1	2	1	0	Farrell, 3d b.	4	1	1	3	0	3
F. Whit'y, l. f	4	0	1	1	0	0	Mahon, s.s.	4	0	1	5	2	4
Foley, p....	4	2	2	1	8	1	McGlynn, c.	4	0	0	3	3	1
Hartwell, lb.	4	0	0	12	0	2	Matthews, p.	4	1	1	0	1	1
A. Whit'y, 2b	4	0	1	1	2	0	Fitts, l. f....	4	0	1	2	0	0
Sullivan, c..	5	0	0	6	1	2	Gaffney, c. f.	4	0	0	1	0	0
Wright, s. s.	5	0	0	2	2	1	Fitzpatrick, lb	4	0	0	11	1	0
Knight, r. l.	4	0	1	1	0	0	Lynch, 2d b..	4	0	1	1	3	0
Booth, 2d b..	4	1	0	2	0	0	Gill, r. f....	4	1	1	1	0	0
Totals...	38	4	6	27	13	6	Totals...	36	3	5	27	11	11

Lowell.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	—4
Worcester.....	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—3

First base by errors—Lowell, 3; Worcester, 5. Umpire, J. Lewis of Worcester. Time, 1h. 45m.

STAR vs. LIVE OAK.

A poorly-played game was witnessed by about four hundred people at Lynn, Mass., May 29, the Syracuse Stars easily beating the home nine.

STAR.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	LIVE OAK.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Dorgan, c....	6	2	2	4	1	4	Sullivan, c..	5	1	1	5	2	5
Hotaling, c. f.	5	2	1	3	0	1	Hayes, r. f..	4	0	0	0	1	1
Farrell, 2d b.	5	1	1	2	3	0	Say, s. s....	4	0	1	1	4	2
Mack, s. s....	5	0	1	2	2	0	Leary, c. f..	4	0	0	0	1	0
McKinn'n, lb	5	1	2	6	0	1	Spence, 3b...	4	0	0	3	3	2
M'Cormick, p	5	1	1	1	3	0	Lapham, lb..	4	0	0	8	0	0
Maxwell, l. f.	4	0	0	1	0	0	Woods, l. f..	4	0	0	2	0	0
Carpenter, 3d	4	1	2	2	0	0	Gillespie, 2b.	5	1	2	3	5	1
Macullar, r. f	4	1	1	1	0	1	Fowler, p....	5	0	1	0	1	3
Totals...	43	9	12	27	9	10	Totals...	39	3	5	27	14	16

Star.....	1	2	1	0	1	3	1	0	0	0	—9
Live Oak.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	—3

Earned run—Star, 1. First base on errors—Star, 7; Live Oak, 6. Umpire, Henry Murphy. Time, 2h. 15m.

SOUTH JERSEY INSTITUTE CLUB.

The South Jersey Institute nine of Bridgeton, N. J., has gained a very fine local reputation this season, having played eleven games with the strongest nines in the vicinity, and won nine. Their best game so far was with the Vineland nine May 4, resulting in favor of the Institute by a score of 8 to 5. The playing upon both sides was sharp, and the errors were few. The most remarkable game upon the Institute Grounds this season occurred May 18, between the Institute nine and the Centreton nine, resulting in favor of the Institute by a score of 59 to 7. The game was remarkable for the terrific batting of the S. J. I., who wielded the ash in a manner that surprised their most ardent admirers. Below we give the score of the third and concluding game with the Zephyrs, the strongest team in Bridgeton. The first game was the most exciting of the series, standing 15 to 13 in favor of S. J. I. In the following game the errors are more numerous than the nines have been wont to record; but in spite of these the playing was at times sharp, and even brilliant, two double-plays and a fine running-catch of a hot-liner by the right-helder of the Institute nine being the special points.

INSTITUTE.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	ZEPHYR.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Trask, r. f....	2	2	1	1	0	Kendle, p.....	0	0	1	1	2
Davis, p....	3	2	1	2	3	Elmer, lb.....	2	1	12	0	1
Rockwood, lb..	1	4	11	0	0	Hetzel, c.....	1	3	3	3	1
Lott, s. s.....	1	2	1	3	1	Thompson, c. f.	1	0	0	1	3
Doron, c.....	1	1	4	4	1	Morris, 3d b....	1	1	1	2	0
Fulper, l. f....	0	0	1	0	0	Randolph, 2d b	0	0	5

THEATRICAL RECORD.

Movements, Business, and Incidents of the Theatrical, Circus, Musical and Minstrel Professions.

THE CLIPPER POST-OFFICE.

☞ A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the party addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that, by a late change in the postal laws, all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canadas, must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

Letters received for week ending 5 P. M., MONDAY, June 3.

LADIES' LIST.

Allen, Georgia
Bretto, Emma
Bayington, Estella
Bradley, Leanora (3)
Byron, Lizzie (of Fisk's Co.)
Buckingham, Fannie
Bonnell, Louise
Bartello, Carrie (2)
Brennan, Mrs. R.
Covella, Blanche (2)
Carter, Mrs. Laura
Clinetop, Lucy 10c
Cushing, Bella
Carey, Eleanor 5c.
Clayton, Katie
Calder, Mrs. Wm.
Chapman, Ellen (with Rose Harland
Connolley, Mrs. M. (letter)
Dacios, Ninon (5)
Demar, Mollie
De Stellini, Alice
De Rosa, Josephine 10c.
Dodge, Mrs. Ben
Drayton, Allie
Emmons, Julia
Fontainbleau, Blanche
French, Minnie A.
Fisk, Mary
Garland, Grace
Greenfield, Ida
Ghoghen, Mariette
Gaston, Maude
Jowitt, Belle
Howard, Lillie
Hermann, Letha
Hall, Mrs. E.
Hallett, Alta
Howard, Lou
Hill, Helen
Herbert, Emily
Ifferd, Belle
Jessi, Linda (2)
Jester, Mrs. Bessie W.
Johnson, Addie
Kane, Georgie
Kimball, Jennie
La Verde, Belle Lavarnie, Carrie
Linden, Lillie 6c.
Lowrie, Lizzie
Leonard, Mrs. W.
Loane, Josie A.
Malonia, Mlle.
Myrtle, Marie (of Oate's Op. Co.)
Meehan, Sadie 6c.
Mallaretta, Georgie
McDermott Sisters
May, Etta
Marshall, Florence (vocalist)
Melnotte, Georgia
Mitchell, Lottie
Murray, Mrs. Henrietta
Neoskaleta, Mlle.
Newton, Stella
Nevarre, Jennie
Nugent, May
Osborne, Mrs. Fannie W.
Phillips, Amy
Partington, Kate
Palmer, Ada (vocalist)
Ronzati, Conchita 5c.
Raymond, Ida (2)
Ross, Ida
Ransom, Alice
Robinson, Julia 5c.
Rand, Rosa
Schott, Augie
St. Felix, Clementine
Schott, Angie (2)5c.
St. Maur, Belle
Squires, Mad. (bearded-lady)
Shields, Tillie
Shipley, Mrs. Belle Shephard, Della
Sanderson, Mrs. L.
Siddons, Ida
Sylvie, Marie (of Oate's Op. Co.)
Stetson, Louise
Tracy, Hiomi
Vivian, Ida (vocalist)
Wade, Jennie
Watson, Bertha
Watson, Mrs. Louisa A.
Whitney, Eva
Wallace-Villa Co., Agnes
Weston, Alice
Weston, Flora
Zogrino, Mrs. Juan

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Allen, G. (tenor)
Allerup, P. S.
Aiken, F. E. (2)
Adams, Frank
Alley, W. H.
Arnold Bros. (2)
Adams, Burton
"Art"
Arlington, Wm.
Atkins, C. M.
Aimes, Fred.
Austin, Jessa
Buch, L. T. (3)
Brennan, R. A.
Bye, Chas. (musician)
Bates, Col. (of Wood's Mus. Phila.)
Baugh, T. (of Tony Pastor's Co.)
Beckwith, Harry (comique)
Boll, Frank
Blossom, Nat
Beatty, E. E.
Byron, Fred (2)
Burgess, Joe A.
Balsorega, J. M.
Bray, Jas. H.
Bisbee, Frank
Brown, Will R. (manager)
Butler, Harry (comedian)
Butler, Robt. (pantomimist)
Bensley, Jas.
Bryant, Young (jug gler)
Brook, Lew
Byrne, J. (of Smith & Byrne)
Borst, W. H.
Bonn, F.
Crossen, J. F.
Carncross, J. L.
Cameron Bros.
Corrella, Bob (2)
Cook, Wooda
Cole, Geo. S.
Cook, Jr., W.
Carter, J. Heneage
Crosman, Eugene
Cotton, Ben
Coleman, J. A.
Carroll, Jas. M.
Cecil, A. A.
Cleary, Ned
Cooper, Harry
Crosby, Harry
Cody, W. F.
Chappelle, W. J.
Combs, C. A.
Christie, Ed.
Caraon, Jr., Kit
Clarendon, Oscar Sr.
Carleton, Wm.
Carle, J. H.
Coupe, Spencer H.
Campbell, Barney
Calder, Wm.
Cowan, W. H. A.
Cotrell, Chas.
Cheman, Jos.
Charles, G. C.
Coup's Gen. Agent, W. C.
Cottrill, F. W.
Coup, W. C.
Conrey, Nelson
Cooley, Joe
Cole, W.
Cottin, Frank (of Anna Britton's Co.)
De'ano, Jeppe
Delehanty & Hengler (3)
Dumont, Frank
Dias, H. A. (2)
D'Ormer, Mons.
Davis, R. Harry
Dockstader, Charlie R. (2)
Dunham, Prof.
Edwards, Frank
Evans, Frank
Emidy, Richd.
Fleming, W. J.
Florance, A. J.
Eunice, Fred (2)
Elerson, Jos. (banjoist)
Eberle, R. Jerome
Fertig, Harry
Ford, Mark
Forrester, Bruce
French, E. (of San Fran. Minst.)
Frohman, Gust.
Frese, A. (2)
Fenn, W. S.
Ferguson, R. V.
Fields, Frank
Forsberg, Harold
Fox, Eddie (violinist)
Fox, Harry
Flanagan, E. (of Cole's Circus)
Fleury, Fernando
Flynn, J. (of Keating & Flynn)
Forbes, Chas.
Franckum, Geo.
Filson, A. H.
Florentine, Mons.
Fox, J. E. (of Dup. & Ben Minst.)
Gulse, August (2)
Gorman, Jas.
Girard Bros.
Gill, Willie (comedian) 5c.
Garland, Joe (of Emerson's Minstrels)
Gilday, Chas.
Griffith, N.
Griffin, Dr. (care Roche, J. H. 6c.
Radcliffe, Geo. B.
Russell & Mack (2)
Ryse, Ellis (3)
Runnells, Bonnie
Real, J. (of Uncle Tom Co.)
Robinson, Harry (3)
Redave, F. H.
Russell, Sol S.
Rogers, Loraine
Reed, Billy
Rutledge, Mr.
Robbins, Frank
Sheridan Bros.
Sheridan, Frank
Seaman & Somers
Squires, L. E.
Scott, Billy (of Scott & Farron)
Snyder, J. H.
Stowe, W. H.
Sherman, Jerome W.
Sprague, Mr. (of Sprague's Min.)
Sellers, H. (of Mabel Pearl)
Harding, Wm.
Shields, John (of Ritz's Circus)
Straight, Ned.
Smith, John P.
Sydney, Geo.
Sanford, John L.
Sprague, Z. W.
Smith, M. T. (agent)
Smith, Ferd K.
Seymour, C. W.
Sherman & Cameron
Swonsbourne, Chas.
Spear, Andy
Slavin, Jas. H.
Slvals, Chas.
Sharp & Byrne
Searles, Thos.
Sheridan, J. F.
Sprague, Isaac W.
Swain, E. C.
Sanford, J. (gymnast)
Sanderson, Harry S.
Singleton, W. H.
Sheridan, W. T. (of Sheridan Bros.)
Sullivan, D. (of Healy & Sullivan)
Smith, Ed. C.
Stanley, Burton
Smith, Wm. (of "Big 4")
Tayleure, C. W. (2)
Thompson, Albert
Titus, Tracy (2)
Texas Jack's Co.
Taylor, John Th.
Taylor, J. R. (banjoist)
Tobin, Prof. T. W.
Tillman, E. A.
Thompson, J. W.
Thatcher, C. C.
Vernon, J. H.
Van Fleet, Wm.
Verry, Ed.
Walton, Punch (2)
Williams, H. 10
Woods, John (of Heywood's Minx.)
Waldron, D. G.
Wambold, Jas.
Wiley, Billy (2)
Wentworth, Walter
Wingfield, John
Ward, J. Thos.
Wagner, Cal
Wambold, David
White, Archie
Washington, Harry
Warwick, L. R.
Williams, Tony
Washburn, S.
Wood, R. (of Wood & Beasley)
Williams, Gus
Webbey, Jas.
Welling, Albert
White, Cool
Weston, S. (of Clayton & Weston)
Wood, T. F.
Wallack, Jas. H.
Yarman, Wm.

THOSE WERE LETTERS in the Detroit (Mich.) Post-office on May 30 for Clara Fisher, of Holman's Opera Co.; J. M. Waddy; and Thomas Wallace, of Tennessee Jubilee Singers.

INTRODUCTORY.

MONDAY, June 3, '78.

The opening month of Summer, the leafy month of June, came in like Niobe on a roaring lion. Not that we have any evidence that the lady referred to ever did bestride the king beast of the forest, but we merely bring them in as figures to denote the condition of the atmospheric pressure which succeeded the reign of the Queen of the May; for Niobe, whose tearful character has never been questioned, indicates the downpour of rain which commenced on Decoration-day and continued with little intermission up to the present time, while the roaring lion is emblematic of the prelude of the elemental strife, and the rude wailing of boisterous, blustering Boreas. Those who were possessed of the blues were well-nigh driven to Paris-green in their delirious moments; we do not mean the Paris green of the Trocadero at the great French Exposition, but that more fatal green which, taken in proper form, does cause man to his quietus make, or words of similar purport. [The common mind would have said "or words to that effect," all of which shows the superiority of the uncommon mind.—ED.] We make every reasonable excuse for those managers who—when we asked them if they had oversized the limits of the bank in making their deposits—bestowed upon us looks of withering scorn and disgust, and brushed us aside as though we were a felonious leper. You are wrong, Jimmy; we have no casting undeserved reflection upon the circus leaper, not at all; it's another kind of leper altogether.] We can well understand their feelings of suspicion and distrust. The idea of depositing money at a time when they did not take in sufficient to meet running expenses was what mortified and chagrined them. Imagine the sad condition of two or three hundred persons wandering about in Gilmore's Garden, valiantly striving to catch the strains of T. Thomas' fiddles and flutes as the orchestra manfully struggled and wrestled with the classic structures set before them. A single bar of "Hark! I hear an Angel Sing," would have been sweet music to the souls of the lovers of melody, but even this slight boon was denied them as they solemnly went marching on. The passing-on of the water when the orchestra passed out to get its beer was like a well-spring of pleasure to their drooping spirits. Two theatres lit out quite unexpectedly last week, and several performers "severed their connection," etc., with those establishments where managerial reverses reached hard pan, as it were. Already we have had meetings of the alliance store which is intended to bring to notice imported plays for the next season's campaign. Like the Duke of Gloster the night before the battle of Bosworth field, we "hear the clink of hammers closing rivets up," and the "secret whispers of each other's watch-works" can be heard in the stillness of the night. It is the custom nowadays to herald the coming of a new play by a supposed appeal to the courts to decide which of the co-conspirators is entitled to the prize at stake. Fanny Davenport has set the ball in motion in her latest venture of "Olivia" by trying to ride two managerial horses at once—so it is said—but we have no doubt that all will end well and in accordance with the tricks of the trade and the original programme. And we shall not be at all surprised to hear of an injunction being placed upon Harry Wall and "Jane Shore," a foreign Wall flower which the indomitable Harry is about to transplant to our own shore. And here we may be pardoned for saying that "Jane Shore, properly coached, ought to "go" in this country. Our ancestors have told us nearly all about Jane, and what they haven't told us we have read for ourselves. As an offset to these foreign resurrections we does not some enterprising manager disinter the remains of "Charlotte Temple," and, clothing her in her right mind and a lavish supply of good clothing, bring her once more to the public notice? In the hands of a man entirely gruff, Charlotta would kill 'em hard..... Tent shows have had a rough time of it in those districts where the stern king upbove his monstrous head, and pounced upon the boys. Circuses depend for success upon a clear sky and a plethoric condition of the public purse. But when the stormy blast strikes terror to their souls, then a quiet game of six or seven up brings consolation and beer. So far this season the boys have been under a cloud or a heavy wet. But "good crops" may set 'em up again before the glorious 4th of July dawns upon a nation of freemen and communists....and with this reference to 4th of July and the affairs of the nation, we respectfully beg leave to inquire what government employes at Washington might expect to be taken off at this season of the year? "We will answer, we will tell you:" Those who are under Sikurs, of course. [It may be necessary to remind some of our college-bred readers that the worthy Secretary pronounces his name Shirts! See? And there's where the laugh comes in.—ED.].....The midgets have been doing the Western country. Recently they assisted at a charity benefit, and, on the spur of the moment, we breathed a prayer of thankfulness into the mouthpiece of our phonograph, and forgot all about it until Jim, in turning the crank for exercise while awaiting lunch time, ground out the following:

TO GENERAL MITE.

To the glorious little midget which was padded
With dainties to give all delight,
The diminutive General added
His small best particular Mite!

..... You will probably thank us for informing you that Messrs. Poole & Donnelly are now running "Our Boarding-house," where accommodations can be had for fifty cents per night, which will have the effect to draw all the cribbed, cabined, and confined boarders from Mrs. Stewart's alleged cheap "Hotel for Women." Postscript.—The companionship of the other sex will not be denied the seceders from the House of Stewart! ..... We are somewhat puzzled as to the farewell intentions of Montague. Does he mean to leave us for good, or is it merely the opening of a series of farewells? There is one thing about his benefit this afternoon that he is to be commended for. His farewell speech, which nearly every man under like circumstances would claim as original with himself, is publicly acknowledged to have been written by the veteran John Brougham. You will see by this that Monty is "not so bad as he seems," and it may also be said that he doesn't undertake things that he can't fulfill..... This reminds us, speaking of undertakers, that that class of people are not purely vegetarians, although they do like to discuss tomb-matters! .....Becoming tired of calling them her favorite well-engaged star, Aimee's current season at Booth's Theatre is pleasantly termed her "Adieu." She will fare just as well by the change..... That was a sad thing about Pappenheim, wasn't it? We were never so mortified in our life. A concert was given last Thursday night for her benefit, and she the promised attraction. Without giving any notice whatever, she jumped the bounty, never showed up at all, and is now soaring on the high seas, which may be set down as another high seas-on-able outrage. What must the strangers present have thought of us?..... Yes, they have actually got an infant in Tennessee with a head that weighs nine pounds and a body that weighs only six. We have been waiting for just such a freak of nature as that, and when we heard of his arrival we straightway sent an agent with instructions to secure the child at all hazards. Should the parents entertain any foolish scruples about giving up their offspring, we have instructed our representative to shoot them on the spot, which is the orthodox way of settling disputes in Tennessee. Out of respect to his head, we shall christen the boy Edward, and meantime we dedicate to him these lines:

TO THE BOY WITH THE NINE-POUND HEAD.

Beholding him the gazer starts,
This phenomenal,
So strong in all his mental parts,
And yet so weak in the abdominal.
And yet through life 'tis safe to say,
Despite his body's feebleness,
With such a head as that to weigh
His headway will be wonderful!

.....One of the most nutritious entertainments ever given in this country was that which took place a few nights ago out West! The West is getting the best of everything just now, probably owing to "the new era of prosperity" which has broken out there.—ED.] The feature of this interesting performance was a contest between champion pie-biters, in which real, well-stuffed pies furnished the pabulum. Surely, the world as well as "de sun do move!" [You will remain where you are, James; with that contest the spectation of pies being thrown at the umpire was greater than the receipts of the evening, so you will do no such thing as "jine the sho!".....We like a play full of incident and lively work for the performers. The manager of Niblo's Garden promises us just such a piece this week. It is called "Love and Labor." It's not often, however, that the two work together, we want you to know; labor always taking a back seat when love's a-bout. But what we want to call your attention to is the fact that in this communistic melodrama a few of the incidents compriso: The wreck of the express; the battle in the streets; conflagration of the round-house; the mantle of death, etc. And reserved seats, to see all this, only fifty cents!.....Now Sothern is a cruel Scotchman for sure. We advised him to continue his comedy performances over there, where he had gained his reputation as a comedian, but he chose to ignore our well-intended advice, and now what is the result! "Crushed again!" And the way our friends in London went for Sothern's American compatriots you might have thought the Dutch had taken Holland! Such a "Sack" was never heard there! What a painful thing it is that our recognition laws are so loosely constructed; but for that we might have Sothern and his fellow criminals returned to us. Why not have this remedied at the approaching Congress of All Nations at Berlin?.....And while we are in this feverish condition, superinduced by the treatment our professional friends have met with in Europe, we have something to say to those who

KILL FOR KAISER.

O Kaiser William! tell the truth
(Tis not with you a rarity),
Was not that shot a "put-up job"
To test your popularity?

Put that in your pipe and smoke it.....Not at all, Jimmy. Why, what's the matter with you today? Dickie Lingard, who appears at the Park Theatre to-night, is not a boy; it's a smart young girl..... A good stake might be made just now by a man capable of diving from the top of the East-river Bridge into the turbulent waters below, and getting a capitalist to stand-in with him. A free show like that would knock the Beecher case higher than a kite!..... Before we forget it, we ought to state, in justice to Harry Wall, that when he produces "Jane Shore" in this country he will have Cavendish to back her!..... We sought to interview Stephen Fiske one day last week in reference to the status of the Fifth-avenue Theatre. In our accustomed easy manner, after having turned the key in the door and seeing that the manager was secure, we said: "Steve, old boy"—we always speak in that familiar way to people—"are you thinking of taking unto yourself a partner for next season?" "Harkin unto me," was his quick rejoinder, and that terminated the interview..... "An Anxious Inquirer" is respectfully informed that Mary Anderson is not a Countess, though she may be before she returns from her tour abroad "strange countries for to see." It's Modjeska who is the reigning Countess in this country..... Recently, while in conversation with E. E. Rice touching his intentions next Fall, we inquired whether he meant to continue in his present course or adopt some new line. Mark the clever reply of Mr. Rice—said he: "I shall continue in the same-line"..... The announcement made by Manager Haverly in THE CLIPPER last week that he intends to expend twenty thousand dollars in beautifying his theatre in Chicago for next season shows that he is one of the few managers who have made money during the season just closed.

FACT AND FANCY FOCUSED.

It is not so well known as it might be that Miss Vinnie Ream the sculptor, who on May 28 was married in Washington, D. C., to Lieut. Richard L. Hoxie of the U. S. Engineer Corps, is also a professional vocalist. She used to sing in the choir of the E street Baptist Church, Washington, at a salary of $150 a year..... Vinnie Rowers is seriously ill at his residence, Fifty-seventh street near Tenth avenue, this city. It is perhaps unnecessary to say more to his many friends than that the doctors are doing all kindly with him..... Dr. William Lindsay, who wedded the widow of John Sloan the ex-Governor, and died on May 28, is to be buried in the same grave with the husband of his wife's daughter by her first marriage. The plot is in New York Bay Cemetery, where the Doctor's remains were temporarily deposited in a vault on the 25th ult. Among those at the funeral was the venerable Mrs. John Sloan, mother of the ex-Governor. A letter from Governor to his brother E. Milton Holland of this city states that Sothern played "The Crushed Tragedian" in Birmingham on May 16, with the regular American success—fifteen calls, and no end of applause. So we thought it was a new thing in London. Last night [at the Haymarket, London, May 11.—ED.] it was a sight. Wherever a human being could get in, in it was packed, and it was what they call a regular first night." Mr. Holland adds: "Sothern's reception was great, and the first act went fairly. The second act went in a hail-and hail sort of way, the third act was blessed, and what with the attempts of lower stalls and circle to drown the pit and the gallery you never heard such a row in your life. The Sunday papers all give evidence that the performance is practically a failure. Of me nothing much is said. They object to the costume, and say that if I play quicker I'll make a hit." A letter from Horace Wall, Sothern's agent, states that the latter will continue to be "The Crushed Tragedian" for the next two weeks of his present contract, then travel in the provinces, and return to America in the Fall..... Mrs. Jane English, mother of the late Helen Western, has brought a suit in the Superior Court of this city to recover $1,300 claimed to have having been expended by her in supporting and maintaining the infant child of Miss Western. She sues the child's father, William L. Habelton, according to the law reports, which further state that Habelton alleges that Habelton married Miss Western over fifteen years ago. Habelton denies the marriage, affirms that he never lived with Helen, and charges that she was married to another man. On the 28th ult. Judge Curtis granted the defendant an extension of time wherein to answer. The period at which the marriage is stated as having taken place suggests to us that there has possibly been an error as to the name of the bridegroom..... Andreas Bibl, the distinguished organist and composer, and the intimate friend of Franz Schubert, has just died in Vienna, aged 81..... With reference to her visit to London, Eng., to her parents, Miss Ada Dyas, Mr. G. Wilde "Olivia," Mrs. Fahay Davenport writes: "I mean to do my best to make an original creation of the part of Olivia after I have seen and studied it thoroughly as it is now represented" in London by Miss Terry, and not to improve upon Miss Terry, and not to plagiarize her as if she and Terry had been born twins..... Miss Mary Anderson and the other Griffins (Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Griffin and Miss Blanche Griffin) sailed for England on May 25..... The testimonial benefit and farewell benefit to Mme. Eugenie Pappenheim took place at the Academy of Music, this city, May 30. A couple of deputy-sheriffs were present, but Mme. Pappenheim was not arrested. It is estimated that about $5,000 as mementoes of the Fryer-Adams-Pappenheim Combination during the season now closing. The deputy-sheriffs at the Academy arrested her late partner, Charles R. Adams, as he was about to sing, but did not hold him long, he not being the party wanted..... George Primrose, who was burned somewhat in the Brooklyn Theatre fire in 1876, had had been badly cut in the Fourth-of-July accident on the Southside Railroad a year or two before, was killed by the premeditated wrecking, on May 30, of the Prospect Park and Coney Island Railroad gravel train, of which he was conductor..... Signor Prapolli and wife sailed from here for Europe on May 30. He returns to Mario Rose, Henry Mapleson's wife, next Autumn, and will travel with her troupe during the ensuing season..... Signor Ronzati will be Max Strakosch's tenor during the season of 1878-9. Ronzati is now singing in Australia..... It is reported that Ada Cavendish has purchased W. G. Wills' "Jane Shore," and will play it in America at Wallack's Fall season..... The front of the Mechanics' Hall, 472 Broadway, where the Corbys and the Bryants' Minstrels amused millions, is having a store erected upon its site..... William H. Leake was "Throned" as Queen of the Carnival at Newport, R. I., this season on June 1, and George Francis Train on the succeeding Sunday night closed the Broadway Theatre and Museum..... The mother of Dr. Ellis, the dentist, who died a little more than a year ago, Mme. Lucie Ambrose, daughter of the late Prof. Anderson, whom she had aided, and of his magical entertainments, died recently in Great Britain. As an actress she had performed in our Winter Garden and the Bowery Theatre, as well as in other cities, about fifteen years ago..... R. F. Tryon of the Howard Athenæum, Boston, sailed for England on June 1..... Mrs. C. A. Mansfield "and the three greatest mediums in the world" had about three hundred enraged people looking for them on the outside of Music Hall, New Haven, Ct., on May 31, when announced that everything would be done in the light, that the mediums would play on a piano that should be raised in the air, that materialized flowers would be distributed, and that only a small fee would be charged. Instead, they charged 25 and 50 cents, and but one medium appeared. As this medium did only the antiquated cabinet tricks, the show was denounced as a fraud, and the proprietor of the hall, aided by the police, had to work hard to save his property..... "Dot" (Dion Boucicault Jr.) was last week enjoying himself at Cohasset, Mass..... The London correspondent of The Boston Traveler has come across a letter that he regards as curious. It is simply characteristic of Edmund Kean. About fifty per cent. of all the letters he ever wrote were of the same kidney. Here is the one in point: "PARLOR OF THE RED BULL, 6 o'clock. —Sir: Your puffy Mackready can play for you this evening, for I am damned if you get any play out of me. His insufferable conceit galls me. An ugly swab. Yours in rage, EDMUND KEAN."..... Miss Ada Dyas sailed from Boston for Liverpool, Eng., on June 1..... Napoleon W. Gould, the veteran minstrel guitarist, is still giving lessons in vocal and instrumental music, in this city..... It will probably interest Mr. William Davidge to know that Edwin Eddy confirms the impression that his mother (Mary Matthews) and the late Julia Mathews, opera-bouffe artist, were not sisters. Besides there being a difference of one in their surnames, they were in no way related..... Mrs. Eliza Sudlow (the mother of Bessie Sudlow, now in Dublin), who in this city keeps a boarding-house much frequented by actresses, bought of Isaac Goodstein a quantity of furniture to be paid for by instalments. She paid from time to time until she thought she had paid him in full. He claimed $130 more, and handed her a book with her account made out in Hebrew and German, but on it the lawyer, to whom she went, found she had paid $415 too much, and sued to recover it. Goodstein called for a bill of particulars, and plaintiff furnished it in the same peculiar characters in which Goodstein's own account was kept. The case is to be tried in the Marine Court this month..... Edward Kendall, ex-billiard-player, and of late a character vocalist in variety theatres, has withdrawn from the stage, and proposes to locate in business in this city..... Archie Cowper and wife, who travel with Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau's company next season, have returned to Boston..... The Frenches are taking preliminary legal steps to punish Tom Maguire in case, as the latter threatens, he brings out in San Francisco an unauthorized version of "Diplomacy."..... Frank Langley the actor has been removed from St. Luke's Hospital to a friend's residence. Arrangements for a benefit performance are still in progress. Wife of J. B. Polk is expected home from Italy on a brief visit..... Mackin and Wilson, double song and-dance, dissolve partnership with the close of this season, it is stated.

CITY SUMMARY.

A HIGHLY ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT was presented at the Park Theatre on last week, which attracted a quite liberal attendance. The Summer season was inaugurated May 27, when the Lingards began an engagement. The programme opened with Gilbert's comedy of "Sweethearts," Miss Alice Dunning Lingard appearing to signal advantage as Miss Jenny Northcott. In the first act her acting and appearance were ingenuous, sweet and winning; and in the second act, where she was seen as her own mother supposed some 30 years, she was quite as successful in depicting the changes that time had worked, being demure in manner and quiet and ladylike in deportment. Her pathos at times touched the hearts of her auditors so keenly that visible demonstrations of grief were apparent. Mr. Warde, who was only fairly successful as the young and passionate lover, Harry Spreadbrow, in the first act, did some admirable acting as the gray-headed gentleman in the last act. The characters of Wilcox, a gardener, and Ruth, a waiting-maid, which are a faint reflex of the principals, were well sustained by Miss Leclercq and Miss Helen Vincent. After the comedy W. Horace Lingard gave character sketches and personations for the first time in this city in several years. These were sixteen in number, and included the following, which were given for the first time here: Capt. Mars of the Light Hussars, Mons. Sangfroid, and The Photographer (which was a remarkable impersonation of Mr. Sarony, New-York manufacturer). Among his new impersonations were those of the Sultan of Turkey, the Czar of Russia, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, John Kelly, and President R. B. Hayes, the latter being given in profile, and upon Mr. Lingard reversing his position a life-like portraiture of Ex-president U. S. Grant was presented. The other sketches and impersonations included the Poor Young Widow Miss Jenkins Greatly Deceased, Mr. Muddlebrain, Miss Trump, a young (?) old maid, Napoleon Bonaparte, the Prince of Wales, and the late Horace Greeley. All of these were much enjoyed, and many of them were lavishly applauded. The entertainments concluded with the old-time farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," Mr. and Miss Lingard acting the title characters with much humor, and the latter winning liberal applause for a duet from "Il Trovatore;" Miss Laura Wallace made a vivacious Widow White; Miss Helen Vincent was sprightly and piquant as Kitty; Charles Leclercq as the gingery and irate old Major Pepper was in his true element; and B. T. Ringgold as the impetuous lover, Frank Brown, was in all respects satisfactory. A real "meat" baby enhanced the realism of the situation.

T. H. MORRELL, who has frequently played with amateur clubs in this city, made his metropolitan debut upon the professional stage in the Broadway Theatre May 27, acting Richelieu in the play of that name, and Damon in the Senate scene of "Damon and Pythias." While he exhibits many admirable qualities, which with future study and practice would be of great service to him in a professional career, yet he also displays faults in elocution, pronunciation, and in stage business. He has a good figure and stage bearing, but his voice is of too thin a quality and too lacking in power in the lower register for him to obtain pre-eminence in the range of characters to which he aspires, and which might possibly be accomplished by a different class of parts. T. E. Morris, who was specially engaged, gave an artistic and commendable impersonation of Joseph. Miss Minnie Cummings, who had been secured for Julie De Mortemar, was overweighted by the character. She delivered her lines hurriedly, and with little regard to their meaning. We think she would appear to greater advantage in lighter or comedy parts. The support by the stock company was not in all respects satisfactory. The same bill was repeated 28, and then the engagement of Messrs. Morrell and Morris and Miss Cummings terminated. Edwin Byron filled out the week, acting Bertuccio in "The Fool's Revenge," at the matinees on The Founding of Paris" was acted by the stock company. Business light. No performances were given Friday, and on Saturday night the play was considerably curtailed, owing to the "indisposition" of the leading lady. The dramatic season closed June 1.

A CONCERT ENTERTAINMENT, given by Mme. Rentz's Female Minstrels in Tony Pastor's Theatre last week, attracted a liberal attendance. It opened with a minstrel first-part, during which Rosa Lee sang "See that My Grave's Kept Green;" James Rock, "Sweet Ham-bone;" Josephine Shanley "...here the Flowers Fall Asleep;" Lew Benedict "The Villain Still Pursued Her;" and Billy ... "Champion Jig." The olio abounded with his specialties, introducing comical ...tions, burlesquing the style of sensational ...mas, which created much merriment; Sallie ...dams displayed her musical skill by performing upon a variety of instruments; Gussie Crayton and James Maas in their musical sketch of "The Call Boy" created a favorable impression; Lester Allen, excellent as ever, sang three songs with much applause; Josephine Shanley pleasingly warbled popular airs, the McDermott Sisters did some nimble dancing; and acceptable vocalism by Hattie Forrest, caricature pictures drawn by Gussie Crayton, a laughable stump-speech by Lew Benedict, and the sketch of "Tony the Tailor" filled out the olio. The burlesque of "The Female Forty Thieves," by Lew Benedict, Sallie Lina Kenyon, Lulu Mortimore and others of the company above named, closed the show.

OWING TO DISSENSION between the management of Niblo's Garden and Edward Arnott, "The Gascon" was withdrawn after the close of the fifth act on the night of May 29. The trouble was of a pecuniary character. Mr. Arnott came before the curtain and announced that he was ready to finish the performance; but the management, through their stage-manager, informed those present that they had decided to end the performance then and there. Mr. Arnott and Miss Rose Lisle's engagement then closed. "Oliver Twist" was substituted at the extra matinee on 30, and acted the remainder of the week to fair business.

MISS MAUDE GRANGER, whose admirable impersonation of Dora in "Diplomacy" has been one of the chief charms of that play throughout its run at Wallack's Theatre, where she was specially engaged to create that character in America, is to be leading lady at the Standard Theatre next season. It had been contemplated for her to go to California, in company with Frederic Robinson and H. J. Montague, and repeat her metropolitan success as Dora; but that scheme has fallen through, and the lady has therefore no engagement for the pending Summer.

MISS LULU RICHMOND of the Richmond Sisters —well-known variety performers—and Mr. Caverly of Caverly & Treson, dramatic agents, were united in marriage recently.

THE STORM which prevailed on Decoration Day affected the attendance at the matinee performances, but exerted less influence in that direction at night.

GEORGE JESSOP of San Francisco, Cal., who is well known to professionals who have visited that city by reason of his connection with The Evening Post as dramatic critic, is now in this city for rest and recreation.

AT THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE "A Celebrated Case" was withdrawn June 1. Although business continued good, there was a marked falling-off in the attendance from that of the previous week.

EDISON'S SPEAKING PHONOGRAPH was exhibited afternoon and night last week, save Saturday, under the management of James Redpath, in Fifth-avenue Hall.

THE LONDON all last week continued Robert Aubrey in his thrilling leap, with one more knife added to the perilous hoop; while the new attractions were Williams and Sullivan as "The Lackawanna Spooners," Alice Somers in the song-and-dance "Dancing in the Sunlight," Alice Murray in Irish songs, Lester Keppler in songs upon his Dutch songs and time-worn wooden shoes, and the African brothers Bohee in double banjo song-and-dance, etc. The two Bobees, who have been but little seen in this city, are really meritorious performers, and were most enthusiastically received and recalled again and again at the London. As yet their repertory is limited, being scarcely lengthy enough to meet the various recalls they are almost certain of; but what there is of it is good. The arrivals this week are Ferguson and Mack, Clara Sidelle, Von Boyle, Mlle. Romelli and Senor Espinosa, the Parker Sisters, and Bonnie Runnels.

MISS CORINNE NEVIL, juvenile lady, sailed for London Eng., June 1.

MME. MODJESKA arrived in town June 2.

FRANK LAWLOR, comanager of the California Theatre, San Francisco, Cal., who recently arrived in town, paid THE CLIPPER office a visit June 3.

J. R. DAVIS dropped dead in front of 291 Madison avenue May 29, the cause of his demise having been hemorrhage of the lungs. His remains were removed to his home, 159 West Twenty-fourth street, from where his remains were buried June 2, services being held in Rev. Dr. Sills' Episcopal Church, Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, the Rev. Dr. Houghton officiating. The pall-bearers were George Jordan, Wm. Stewart, James Braiyn and John Hanlin. Mr. Davis' professional career had been comparatively brief. His first regular engagement was as a member of the company supporting Edwin Booth in 1872. Two years later he traveled with Miss Maggie Mitchell. His last appearance was at Booth's Theatre, in this city, as one of the company supporting Master E. S. Wood during the week beginning March 11 last.

AT THE VOLES' GARDEN the fresh attractions this week were the Lee Brothers, Emma Hoffman, Mlle. Lederer, and Mons. Lucelle, Agethen and Adams, Charley Banks, and the Jeromes.

A LARGE BUSINESS was done at the Standard Theatre the past week. Even on Friday night, notwithstanding that a very severe northeast rainstorm was raging, the upper portions of the auditorium were crowded, and there were but few vacant chairs on the lower floor. Under Mr. Henderson's energetic and capable management, this theatre is growing in popular favor. A reconstructed version of "Fritz" was presented May 27, the material changes being confined to the first two acts. The piece opens in Fritz's humble home, in Germany, the stage representing a rude cabin connecting with a stable. Through an open window a well-behaved donkey is seen munching hay, and, as it remains in view of the audience during the entire act, it attracts no little attention, especially as it apparently manifests some interest in what is transpiring on the stage by pricking up its ears and thrusting its head through the window during the more excited passages of the dialogue. Fritz is devoted to his young sister, Lena, a child of tender years, and is happy in the love of Katherina, a pretty peasant girl. After Fritz has lulled Lena to sleep by singing a lullaby with guitar accompaniment, and he has gone to the stable to see his stock taken care of, Elias Grim enters, administers a narcotic to the sleeping child, and carries her away. Fritz, re-entering, discovers his loss, accuses Katherina of hiding her, and, upon her protesting her ignorance of Lena's whereabouts, he announces his determination to seek through the world until he has found her. After a supposed lapse of ten years the second act opens in Castle Garden, New York City. Fritz, during his few days' sojourn there after his arrival, has saved Louise, the adopted daughter of Col. Crafton, from a watery grave, and out of gratitude Crafton adopts Fritz as his son. In Louisa Fritz subsequently discovers his lost sister Lena by singing to her the lullaby, Katherina, in search of her lost Fritz, had preceded him to America, and is now seen as a flower-girl. From this out the piece is materially the same as the previous version. Miss Emmet introduces a number of new songs and several fresh costumes, and his performances are as keenly enjoyable as of yore. In this version the characters of Henry Schultz, Carline and Madame Kline are eliminated. Little Effie Barrett displayed precocious talent by her admirable acting as Little Lena in the first act, and Miss Minnie Palmer had better opportunity to display her abilities as Katherina. The character of Elias Grim, well acted by W. F. Owen, has been considerably changed, and Will H. Bray has a better opportunity to show his comical powers as the negro servant Snow. The capital boxing-scene between Mr. Emmet and W. W. Allen is retained, and made still more effective by changes in the situations and dialogue. The other characters remain the same. The new scenery was effective, notably the view of Castle Garden in the second act, and a vision in the third act reproducing the lullaby scene of the first act.

JOHN THOMPSON, manager and proprietor of Thompson's Variety Theatre, Dallas, Texas, his wife and brother—James Thompson—sailed for England in the steamship Montana, May 28.

TREASURER WM. MCCOY was greeted by a large audience on the occasion of his matinee benefit at the Grand Opera-house May 30, despite the inclemency of the weather. The bill included "Faint Heart Never Won Fair Lady," T. G. Riggs' comic drama of "Homes from the War," "A Man in the Dark," and an olio. The volunteers, none of whom disappointed, included Ed. Lamb, Frank Evans, J. G. Peakes, T. G. Riggs, W. Thompson, Gus Williams, Levy, John Mathews, Thos. Whiffen, Charles Sturges, Alex. Fitzgerald, Charles Morton, J. Wilkes, G. Walters, the Misses Lillie Eldridge, Jennie Yeamans, May Gallagher, Hattie Anderson, Fanny Denham, Bella Mordaunt and Mrs. Blanche Galton Whiffen.

"OUR BOARDING-HOUSE" is to be the attraction at the Grand Opera-house this week, and the cast will include Harry Little, W. H. Lytell, J. W. Carroll, Alex. Fitzgerald, A. H. Stuart, Barry Bartlett, J.

MLLE. AIMEE concluded a farewell engagement at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, June 1.

CHAS. C. HAGEMANN, a well-known orchestra-soloist of Philadelphia, and a member of the original Germania Society of that city, was on May 29 tendered a farewell serenade at his residence by the combined orchestras of Messrs. Hassler and Carl Sentz, prior to his visit to Europe.

HARDING'S latest issues of dime music are advertised elsewhere.

THE BOHEMIAN BELLRINGERS are to ring in Little Falls, Me., June 3, Standish Corner 4, Sheep Falls 5, Cornish 6, 7, and Limerick 8. They have just added a ladies' cornet-band to the troupe.

A NEW SONG, entitled "Under the Roses I Hid My Heart," by the author of "Little Treasure, Linger Near Me," is published by Phil P. Kelly, who advertises.

LOUIS B. COLBURN, clarionet-player, advertises for an engagement.

"EPHRALINE" is to be produced in Detroit, Mich., June 10, 11.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL in the Academy of Music, Baltimore, Md., last week exceeded the most sanguine expectations, and, while it was not thoroughly an artistic success in every sense, it gave abundant proof that there is enough material here to achieve much in the future..... The Summer Garden concerts commence at the Academy of Music June 3.

DI MURSKA'S COMPANY, under Signor De Vivo, sing in Hot Springs, Ark., June 3, and sing in Memphis, Tenn., 11, 12.

S. A. DE GROFF advertises his musical and literary bureau in another column, and explains its features.

MUSICAL SOUNDS wafted from "The Hub," our correspondent being the human telephone, are as under:

The prelimination concert in Music-hall May 27 was largely attended, Madame Pappenheim making a farewell public appearance in Boston previous to sailing for Europe. The Swedish Lady Vocal Quartet, the Amherst Glee Club, Miss Fanny Kellogg, Sig. G. Tagliapietra, W. H. Sherwood, S. L. Studley, and an orchestra under the direction of Carl Eichler filled out a popular programme..... A concert was given in Revere, Mr. Hale's church 27, participated in by Mrs. Julia Houston West, Miss Lillian Bailey, Mrs. Hooper, Miss Louisa Gage, John F. and William J. Winch, and directed by B. J. Lang..... The annual meeting of the Handel and Hadyn Society was held in Bumstead Hall 27—C. C. Perkins, chairman. During the past season there have been given thirty-five rehearsals and eight concerts. The total receipts of the society have been $12,806.57, and the expenditures $12,404.22..... The promenade concerts announced for Beethoven Hall 27 were postponed owing to out-of-town engagements by Brown's Brigade Band..... An informal reception was given Madame Pappenheim at Hawthorne Hall 29, two hundred guests being present. A musical programme was given by the lady, Signor Tagliapietra, John Orth and S. L. Studley pianists. The madame was presented with a laurel wreath of solid silver and William F. Gill on behalf of her many admirers..... Miss Ellen Hatch (Italianized Signora Lizette Eliani) received a benefit concert at Monument Hall, Charlestown, 29. Joseph Claus, tenor; Alonzo Hatch, tenor; and S. Liebling, pianist, aiding..... A concert complimentary to Miss Susie Goodrich was given in Union Hall 30, Miss Lillian Bailey, soprano; Joseph Claus, baritone; John Orth and S. L. Studley, pianists, assisting..... Mme. Eugenie Pappenheim, who left this city for Europe in the steamer Massachusetts of the Warren Line morning of May 30, was not unmindful of the pleasant hours of the past. On Monday Lady Vocal Quartet were given a complimentary reception at the rooms of the Waverley Club, Boston Highlands, and a serenade by the gentlemen and the Swedish Quartet at the Evans House 31; they left for England on steamer Batavia June 1..... A complimentary soiree was tendered Mrs. Adelaide Phillipps and Miss Hattie Belcher at the Hawthorne Rooms May 31..... Mrs. Phillipps was given, and each lady was presented with a copy of the new work, "Lotus Leaves."..... Miss S. C. Fisher and H. A. Tucker are a musical engagement at the New England Conservatory Hall 31..... James M. Tracy gave his fifth sonata recital at Miller's Warerooms afternoon of 1..... Careton's English-opera Company open a week's season at the Howard Athenæum June 3, presenting "The Bohemian Girl."..... The promenade concert and dance by the Boston Cadet Band postponed from 31 to June 3..... The Apollo Club give their last concert of the season in Apollo Hall. The Boylston Club close their season with a concert at Music Hall 5..... The ushers' benefit will occur at Music Hall 7, the Boston Cadet Band, Miss Ita Welch, Miss Fanny Kellogg and Signor Tagliapietra appearing. Chas. W. Roberts, manager..... James Thaul receives a benefit concert at Boston College Hall 13..... J. Thomas Baldwin will have charge of the music at the Pontoosuc House, White Mountains.

VARIETY HALLS.

THE BUSINESS at the Theatre Comique, Providence, R. I., the past week, was only fair. The new performers were Favor and Shields, Chace and Davis, Ada Boshell and Jas. Mack, all of whom were well received. Departures June 1: Favor and Shields, Frank De Vernon and Chace and Davis..... Billed for June 3: Chas. B. Bailey, Emma Vern, J. D. Griffin, the Swains, C. J. Simmons, Frank Frazer and Miss Wilkes..... Tony Pastor's Troupe appeared to very large audiences in the Providence Opera-house May 31, June 1.

CHAS. L. DAVIS' impersonation of the old man Alexander Mogleson in the play of "On the Sly" has met with considerable success at the Boylston Museum, Boston, Mass., where he has performed for two weeks, supported by Emma Vern. He has been re-engaged for July. A number of extracts from the press, published in another column, and a card from Manager Lothrop, testify to the fine impression he has created in Boston. They perform at the Theatre Comique, Providence, R. I., during this week.

MORRIS SONFIELD, the cornet solo imitator, had a benefit May 31, in Memphis, Tenn. He opens at Heuck's Opera-house, Cincinnati, O., shortly..... The song-and-dance artists and acrobatic knockers as Ward and Byrd have decided to use their own names of Jackson and Keefe in the future.

WILLIAM J. GILMORE has been reluctantly compelled to surrender the Holliday-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md. Our correspondent says: "The facts in the case do not appear to be known, though but little information is to be gained, as the owners of the building—Washington Booth and George Small, two of our most wealthy men—are very reticent on the subject. As far as can be ascertained, and from personal knowledge of your correspondent, matters never started under more brilliant auspices than Mr. Gilmore did last season; but the heavy variety companies he was continually running left him but little money ahead, and this was soon sunk in the recent litigation of 'A Celebrated Case,' besides leaving him heavily involved in debt. His first lease was with John T. Ford, which expired in the Summer of 1877, when he was compelled to get a new one from the above gentlemen, who had just become the owners of this building. After getting a new lease for three years from September, 1877, he entirely remodeled the interior, putting all he had made the previous season in embellishing and beautifying the house. So, really, at the commencement of last season he had but little money at command; but this was only a secondary consideration, as he expected a good return for all that was spent. After the expiration of Delehanty and Hengler's engagement, on May 25, he closed the house and put a watchman in the building to keep possession for him until the coming season. At this time he was behindhand in his rent to the amount of $1,800. Not expecting any such performance, he hoped to retain possession and make up the deficiency next season. This he was not allowed to do; for on the night of May 27 the watchman was inveigled out of the building on a false alarm of some kind, and on his return he found the owners in full possession, themselves barred out. By advice of his counsel, Manager Gilmore quietly acquiesced in a compromise, he to give up his lease, and for so doing to be allowed to move all his personal property from the building. Up to noon to-day (June 1) there are no fewer than twelve applications for the house from managers in every section of the country, but as yet by no one knows the prospective lucky man. Your correspondent is informed by Mr. Gilmore that he has taken the Front-street Theatre, and, after thoroughly repairing and remodeling it, will throw its doors open in time in August..... The arrivals at the New Central Summer Garden were Belle Cushing, serio-comic; Keating and Sands, musical mokes; Emma Monticello and Louis Alfredo, horizontal-bar performers; and Tillie Graham and Bertha Watson, fancy dancers. Business fair. Departures June 1: Belle Cushing, to Pittsburg; Sedley and Keating and Sands, to Brooklyn, New York; Mollie Wilson, to Boston; Emma Monticello and Louis Alfredo, to Philadelphia; and Dan Wilson, to Cleveland. For June 3: The Rollin Howard Burlesque Troupe of ten people, Raymond and Murphy and the Searles Brothers..... Rather than disappoint the people Eagan, Nellie Thorne, Millie Martelle and Lou Vavasour, and Harry Woodson. Business good. Departures June 1: Millie Martelle and Alice Hale, to Washington; Gibson and Binney and Robert Slaven, to New York; and Harry Woodson, to Cincinnati. For June 3: Fred McGlusky, Belle and Cella Lee, Frank and Minnie Hassall, Lottie Brown and Frank White..... At Schlegel's Orchestrion, Helen and Clara Courtlandt were the arrivals. Business fair. The Arion Singing Society will sing for one night only, 3..... Nellie Anderson was the new face at the Coliseum. Business fair. Departures 1: Hargis and McGlusky, and Emma Dezoda, to New York. For 3: Sullivan and Curdy."

JENNIE LINDSAY, humorous and motto vocalist, will be at liberty after July 1. See card.

AT THE THEATRE COMIQUE, Rochester, N. Y., there were no departures last week. Opening June 3: Antoinette La Duc, Rose Berkley, and John Egbert.

THE THEATRE COMIQUE, Richmond, Va., is still closed on account of alterations.

AT THE ADELPHI, Danville, Ill., the arrivals last week were Varney and Durell and Cora Everett. Departures: Blanche and Johnny Nichols, to Indianapolis, Ind.

AT THE THEATRE COMIQUE, Detroit, Mich., the past week, the arrivals were Annie W. Clark, Serio-comic; Matt Morgan, Tableaux; Mc Reynolds, song-and-dance; the Freeman Sisters in a musical act. The Walby Sisters were unable to appear on account of the illness of Miss Josephine. Closing 1: The Freeman Sisters, for Toronto, Ont., and the Haley Brothers. Opening 3: Cool Burgess, Huber and Hidden, Turner and Geyer. The Pacific Gun Club will close each night's programme, shooting glass balls for a prize of a $100 shotgun, given by Manager Welch.

DELEHANTY & HENGLER inform us that the report in circulation that they have leased the Museum in Philadelphia, Pa., for the next season as a variety house, is unfounded. Although they are still in negotiation for a lease of the premises, no positive decision has yet been arrived at by any of the parties interested.

THE REGULAR SEASON at Shelby's Adelphi, Buffalo, N. Y., closed June 1, the new faces appearing May 27 forming Manager Shelby's traveling company, which goes on the road June 3. The programme introduced Moore and Lessenger in their sketch of "The Rival Lovers," which has been remodeled somewhat since last presented; Rose Howland in a jig, remarkable for the quick time of execution, she appearing alternately in skirts and male costume—an appreciated change; Harry Bennett in Irish songs, including several new ones; the Fieldings in their well-known sketch "Irish Domestics;" Clara Moore in ballads and specialty songs; the Lorellas in grotesque dances, who were seen to advantage; the Howland Sisters—Rose and Maud—who helped swell the attractions in flirtation songs, etc.; Marie Whittingham and Master Newman sang duets; and Niles and Evans in songs-and-dances scored the hit of the week. They alternated their afterpieces "Led Astray" and "Blue Glass," in which the strength of the company were also cast. Business ruled heavy. The above, with W. H. Kenyon as advance-agent, Dan Shelby manager, together with the Adelphi orchestra, Ted Skillette, and attaches generally, take the road as follows: Rochester, N. Y., June 3, 4, Watertown, 5, 6, Ottawa, Ont., 7, 8, Montreal, indefinitely, guided by business. The Adelphi reopens for July holidays and the August race week, and the regular season begins in September. Letter of June 2.

PERFORMERS desiring engagements at the Tivoli Garden, Pittsburg, Pa., can address George Mashy, proprietor, as per card.

THE VARIETY HALLS in Brooklyn, N.Y., were not much affected by the stormy weather last week, good houses being the rule at all of them. At Mozart Garden the company included Reno Steadman, serio-comic; Susie Dillon, motto-songs; Nettie Carlyn, vocalist; James and Susie Dillon, Irish specialists; Charles Konollman, Dutch songs; John M. Turner, banjo-solos; Add Weaver and George Vance, ballads and motto-songs. All of these closed June 1, except Add Weaver, who is stage-manager, and the new people this week are Kate Montrose, Allie Drayton, Agnes May, Lillie Linden, John McVeigh and Prof. A. W. Sawyer..... The programme at the Olympic opened with the Lee Brothers in "Pat's Farewell," and introduced the La Verdie Sisters in songs, jigs and a sketch, Healey, Conway and Ella Saunders in their dancing specialties, and Master Dunn in songs-and-dances. The dramatic feature was "Daniel Boone," in which the company appeared to advantage. Joe Ali, leader of orchestra, was given a benefit May 29, and Frank M. Wills was entitled to the money received 31. The Victoria Loftus British Blondes open June 3..... The patrons of the Volks' Garden were entertained by Charley Benedict and E. D. Goodings as "The Crushed Tragedians;" the Devere Brothers in songs-and-dances; Ferguson and Mack, Irish comedians; John and James Russell, change acts; Lulu Delmay and H. R. Archer in "Locked Out;" Lewis and Mike Wilson, gymnasts; Murphy and Shannon, Dutch specialties; and the Lynn Sisters, vocalists: the performance closing with the sketch of "The Quiet Family." C. Benedict, the Devere Brothers, Ferguson and Mack, the Russells, the Wilsons, Lulu Delmay and H. R. Archer closed June 1, and Annie Morgan, Lizzie Daly, Alice Hale, Frank Lewis, Frank Bell, Ainsley and Heeney, and Sig. Verona open 3.

CINCINNATI VARIETY NEWS to June 1 is sent as follows by our correspondent: "Cool Burgess, whose whimsicalities made a big hit, Donnelly and Drew in Irish sketches, and Juliette Nault, whose operatic vocalisms were received favorably, constituted the fresh appearances at Heuck's 27, the Girard Brothers, who were announced, failing to show up. The stock company, in the absence of a dramatic star, played 'Miriam's Crime,' with Manager Douglass as Blies, in which role he was remarkable. Business good. Departures: Herr Gerhardt, and Cardello and Victorelli, New York, and Clark and Edwards, Toledo. Opening 3: W. H. Power in 'Eustache Baudin,' Harry Woolson, Arizona and Minnie Rainforth..... The Three Crimmins Brothers in clogs and songs-and-dances; Emma La Manse, songs-and-dances; J. E. Parkes and Sallie Woodruff, Irish sketch artists; and Josie Wade, serio-comic, opened at the Brighton Opera-house 27. Biz good. Departures: Sallie Woodruff, Buffalo, and the Crimmins Brothers, to the Eldorado City. Opening 3: Carrie Berger and Harris and Carr..... Harry Gardner, Marie Roselle, Frank Jones, Nellie Massie and the Carlsworths have closed to star about Shickling's. La Belle Estelle opened 27 and made quite a hit in songs-and-dances. The Parker Sisters, Retlaw and Alton, and Manchester and Jennings open 3. Biz fair..... At the Olympic (formerly Pacific) Theatre, on Central-avenue, are Effie Hall, Lizzie Benson, Kitty Wells, Florence Hamilton, James Kelly, George Hughes, and Billy Wells..... Little Gracie May, Jennie Oates, Myers and Cassidy, Minnie Bradley, Chas. Adams, Sam Pollock, and Frank Daly are at the White House. Zella Renard and Kate Leslie have closed..... Harris and Carr, black and white comedians; Ella Arnold, serio-comic vocalist; Jerry Cavana, comedian, who has become stage-manager; and Emma Bell, singer and dancer, were the opening people at the Eldorado 27. Business good. Harris and Carr go to the Brighton 3, and will be replaced by the Crimmins Brothers..... Minnie's Specialty Company opened 27 for a week at the Grand, and will give an extra performance to-morrow (Sunday). Business has been light downstairs and large in the gallery. Harris and Carroll left the combination previous to their appearance here, and the engagements of the dramatic company closed June 9. A vaudeville entertainment will be given during the Summer..... Jas. S. Edwards is spoken of as manager of the Coliseum next season."

AT MILLER'S WINTER GARDEN, Philadelphia, an excellent attendance marked the week ending June 1, the new faces there being Miss Emma Brennan in serio-comic vocalism, Thatcher and Hume in song-and-dance, and Andy and Ida Collom in sketches and banjo solos. The novel attractions announced 3 are Dunbar and Bartello, Miss Hattie Lacy, and Signor Norten.

CONWAY AND KERRIGAN in their clever specialty, and Julia Bennett in a skipping-rope dance were the new faces at Enochs' Varieties, Philadelphia, on May 27. Foley and Sheffer and Tom Heywood appear June 3.

AT THE METROPOLITAN THEATRE, Newark, N. J., business fell off the past week. The fresh faces seen May 27 were Hardy and Canada, a new team, who do a creditable pedestal-clog; Nellie St. John, a favorite at this place; Cummings and Harrington in a musical sketch; and Fields and Hanson, re-engaged to fill vacancies caused by the withdrawal of Jennie Reynolds and of the Rixford Brothers after their first night. Departures June 1: Cummings and Harrington, Boston; Nellie St. John, Hardy and Canada, Fields and Hanson, and the Moore Sisters, to New York. Coming 3: Troubadour (colored) Quartet, Minnie Gyles, Mullen and Magee, Alice and Bobby Neal, Fannie Condon, Lillie Gray, Emily Prescott, and Edith Mortimer. Manager Waldman has a benefit on the afternoon and evening of 6, Harry Miner's company from both his theatres in New York being billed for matinee on that occasion.

BLANCHE SELWYN reopened Tripler's Varieties, Pittsburg, Pa., May 29, for the rest of the week. A good average business was done. The company is composed in part of Oscar Willis, Julia Benton, Harry Hart, Sadie Morrell, Steve Sarsfield, Thos. Dalton, Blanche Selwyn, Ben Gilfoil, and the D'Omers..... H. W. Williams is announced to reopen his Academy of Music June 3, for one week, with the following people: Murphy and Mack, Seaman and Somers, Guy Linton and Lucy Adams, Milles. Etra and Eugenia, May Marshall, Lizzie Dale and Little Ted, Prof. Louis Hecks' Egyptian Mystery, Tillie Daly, Lizzie Clarence, Marie Bertrand, Lucy Clifton, Emma Griffin, L. Walters and H. W. Williams..... The Allen Sisters, four in number, will be the new people at Tivoli Garden 3. There will be no departures. Business good.

THE VICTORIA LOFTUS TROUPE of British Blondes commenced a week's engagement at the Grand Central Theatre, Philadelphia, May 27, giving to excellent houses an entertainment with the following features: James Collins and Miss Ada Freeman in the sketch "Divorce," Harry Le Clair in his female impersonations, Mattie and Lillie Stuart in their dancing specialty, Fish, Conners and Kelly in their act "Kranky Koons," the Richmond Sisters in songs-and-dances, Miss Georgie Smithson in burlesque-vocalism, Miss Lottie Elliott in her double-face dance, and the concluding burlesque of "Atalanta," in which George Atkins, Miss Victoria and company in the cast. Special-officer T. B. Morgan was deservedly rewarded with a crowded house at his benefit 31. "Pink Dominos" will be reproduced by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Baker June 3, Mlle. Marie Gaugain and Signor Tito Cellini's ballet-troupe also appearing in "Pink Dominos."

PAT HEFFERNAN, MORTON'S & MORTON'S Combination attracted a succession of good houses at the New National Theatre, Philadelphia, last week. A capital programme was given, embracing the following interesting features: Barry Maxwell in the sketch "A Celebrated Hard Case," Miss Ida Morton's serio-comic songs, and La Petite Lulu, a double-bar act, Will H. Morton's motto songs, Murphy and Morton's neat Irish songs-and-dances, Frank Bush in his character songs and imitations, Barlow Brothers in songs-and-dances, Pat Rooney in his clever Irish specialties, Maxfield and Carroll in their inimitable sketch "Under a Southern Sun," the French Twin Sisters in their songs-and-dances, Belle St. Maur and Ed. La Rue in a trapeze-act (Miss St. Maur being slightly injured by a fall at the matinee May 30), Little Rosebud in songs-and-dances, and Pat Rooney's farce, entitled "Paddy in a Pet." Morton and Miles, the Arabian Brothers, Billy Carroll, Sergt. Wm. Meagher, Alfred McDowell, Lizzie Conway and Ada Wernell compose the company appearing during the present week, John Dwyer having a benefit June 3, and Manager T. F. Kelly having a complimentary testimonial on June 8, when prizes will be given for sparring by professionals and amateurs, comic singing and clog-dancing by amateurs, and for the best conundrum by a boy in the gallery.

A FULL COMPANY of musical, novelty and specialty artists, gymnasts excepted, and an orchestra leader are wanted for the American Novelty Floating Theatre, opening June 9. See H. St. Ormond's card.

THE ADAH RICHMOND Operetta-bouffe Company, under W. H. Borst's management, includes Adah Richmond, Jennie Winston, Julia Sheldon, Rose Chappelle, Sadie Martinot, Jennie Yeamans, Nellie Lewis, Kitty Rogers, Lottie Grant, Fannie Clancey, Harry Allen, W. P. Sheldon, A. H. Bell, A. W. Morgan, Lewis Maxey, Charles Sturges, Lee Soloman, Jas. Dillon, Orpheus Quartet, W. Kearney (musical director), and a chorus. They open at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., June 3, one week, Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., 10, one week. They can be engaged by addressing Business-manager Andy McKay. See advertisement.

THE CUSTOMARY LARGE BUSINESS has been done at the Boylston Museum, Boston, Mass., the past week, the principal features being the sketches and impersonations of Ed. Kendall; Sig. Giovanni gave his musical glass-entertainment, as well as introducing his troupe of trained canary birds; Clayton and Weston and their trained dog Jerry appeared in their musical specialties; Miss Julieene gave comic songs; Sam and Carrie Swain appeared in their sketch "The Happy Darkies;" the Boylston Ballet Troupe danced a divertisement; Miss Nellie Abbott sang; Balabrega, the boy-magician, gave feats of legerdemain; James Marlowe was heard on the African harp; and Charles L. Davis and Emma Vern, with dramatic company, repeated their previous success "On the Sly." The new stars June 3 are Barney McNulty, Cummings and Harrington, Emile Goroux, Mollie Wilson, Harry Blanchard, Ned Wambold and the Female Minstrels. John McFadden, stage-manager, benefits 6.

THE STREAK of good business at the Grand Central, Troy, N. Y., continues. This is attributable to the facts that the entertainments are spirted, and that every iron industry (in which Troy is second only to Pittsburg) is in full blast. Carter's Egyptian Mystery (tableaux à la Prof. Pepper) and J. J. Riley and Lizzie Smith's nutraspicy plays, with minuet and cancan attachments, are the chief magnetic features. Frank White, who has been here many weeks and suffered much from sickness, was the recipient of an elegant "farewell" bouquet from a number of his admirers before his departure for Baltimore June 1. Excellent in negro comedy, his characters in white rival the same by Johnny Wild. Lottie Brown, recovered from protracted illness, also departed for Baltimore. Bookings for 3: Billy Scott, Jessie Fox, and a few changes in figurantes..... May Fisk's Blondes had a good house at the Opera-house 1. The reorganized troupe consists of May Fisk, Ada Adair, Lizzie Byron, Carrie Wentworth, Jennie Kimball, Little Minnie Kimball, Geo. F. Ketchum, Charles H. Duncan, Bob Milligan, Fred Carrara, Wood and Beasley, and several figurantes. The entertainment was good. Route: Cohoes 4, Albany 5, 6, thence east..... Tony Pastor 4.

AT THE NEW NATIONAL THEATRE, Hartford, Ct., "The Molly Maguires" proved an attractive card last week, Jerry Cohan, who assumed the leading role, being fairly supported by the regular company. The specialty features of the olio were the Carlton Sisters' well-rendered serio-comic songs; Carrie Boshell's neatly-executed songs-and-dances, James D. Boome's banjo-manipulations; and John D. Griffin's Irish songs-and-dances. Jerry Cohan and John D. Griffin closed June 1, for Providence. The burlesque "Babes in the Wood," the Novello Quartet, and Addie Graham constitute the new attractions this week.

THE SEASON CLOSED at the Globe, St. Louis, Mo., June 1, Manager J. W. Decker having had a rousing benefit May 30, when Gus Baum, the Clark Brothers, C. S. Bloodgood, Willie Dun and Charles Meyers, Riley and Sullivan, Joe Maguire, Lamont and Ducrow, and Woodson's Glee Club were seen in a good olio. Hattie Morris acted Nan the Good-for-nothing, and Ed. Wight played Albert Gordon in "The Gambler's Crime." The house opens June 9 for the benefit of D. K. Russell..... Susie Starr, dancer, and Charley Frye, song-and-dance, were the new features at the Tivoli May 26. Susie Starr joins "The Black Crook" June 2. Harris and Carroll, Otto Burbank, and several ballet-dancers, late of Mitchell's Specialty Troupe, returned to town during the week. Letter of May 31.

HERR WIEFFENBACH, who performed on sixteen drums simultaneously and had played in many variety theatres, was found dead in bed in Peoria, Ill., the early part of last week. He was thirty years of age.

A CITY VANISHES.—An occasional correspondent, writing from Garland City, Col., under date of May 27, says: "When you receive this Garland City will be a thing of the past; Alamosa will be the terminus of the D. and R. G. R. R., but Leadville will be the town of Colorado. The old Theatre Comique company and a few new arrivals are to open in Thos. Kemp's new hall in Leadville June 4. The company consists of Jerry Green, treasurer; Sam Bruce, stage-manager; Charles Everett, cannonball juggler; Josie Everett, Ada H. Burnett, Senorita Mora and Prof. Tony Ramon, orchestra and brass band of six pieces. On the closing of the Theatre Comique in Garland City, the entire company and attaches volunteer their services for two complimentary benefits to Manager Ralph A. Osborn, May 27, 28..... Prof. F. P. St. Aubin, proprietor of the California Variety Show, consisting of Punch and Judy, educated pig Muffin, the trick and a panorama, who, with his big canvas, passed through here a few weeks ago, has collapsed in the San Juan country. Cold weather and want of patronage is said to have been the cause."

AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, Toronto, Ont., the latest arrivals were the Eizeltine Sisters and Ned West. The Perry Brothers had closed.

THE SHEDMAN BROTHERS are now managing the Spring Garden, Philadelphia, Pa., for May 31, while doing a triple parasol act, McClellan Shedman, the youngest of the three brothers, fell and broke his arm.

THE OLYMPIC THEATRE, Sandusky, O., closed May 25. There is some talk of its being reopened June 10 under a new management.

THE FAIREST ROSEBUDS, now engaged with Orrin Bros. & Co.'s Metropolitan Circus, Havana, Cuba, have organized a variety troupe for a tour, starting at Marianao May 26. Among them are George Leopold, Mlle. Geraldine, Venus and Adonis, Little Gerry and A. Lehman.

THE DARK BLUES will vaunt all kinds of musical specialties at Mozart Garden, Brooklyn, N. Y. See card.

DAN SHELBY'S NOVELTY TROUPE, which has just commenced its traveling season, is very favorably noticed by the Buffalo papers, as will be seen by extracts in another column. The company includes John and Maggie Ewing, Bella Burton, Niles and Evans, the Howland Sisters, Moore and Lessinger, Marie Whittingham and Master Newman, Clara Moore, Sheehan and Jones, the Lorellas, Ted Skillette, and Dan Shelby.

JAS. HEYWOOD'S NEW YORK SERENADERS played in Wilson Hall, Mich., May 27, Manchester 28, Addington 29, Waukesha, Wis., 30, Whitewater 31, Janesville June 1, and are to show in Monroe 3, Watertown 4.

AT THE METROPOLITAN, Indianapolis, Ind., business during the past week was the best for months. The new features were Frank and Eva Wilson, Mollie Lewis, and the dramatic company in tableaus, with Mattie Seymour as principal, and "The Dead Witness," in connection with Hughes' Egyptian Mystery. Closing June 1: James B. Radcliffe and Millie Gale, to Chicago; and Paddy Murphy, who joins the Havenese "Black Crook" party. Coming: John and Blanche Nicolay, Bancroft and Wilson, Mattie Barber and Fannie Kent..... At Crone's City Garden business dropped off somewhat, but averaged fair. Ada Mortimer and Grace Rallia were the new faces. Chas. Seaman has been very sick for a week, and Chas. Orville, gymnast, filled the gap in the bill. No departures. Coming: Jerry Travers, Lulu Francis..... D. B. Hughes is contemplating putting a party on the road to play "The Dead Witness" in connection with his illusory effects..... At Greunert's Hall the only closure June 1 was Miss Emma Trevityan. Announced for 3: Dora Francis, Emma Heath, Frank Smith. The orchestra has been reinforced by Alfred McCrithy, cornettist, and W. D. Finein, pianist, with D. C. Reece as leader. Advices of May 31.

AT THE NEW CHICAGO (ILL.) THEATRE a fair business has been done. The fresh features comprised Bob Hilliard Gus Hill, and Mlle. Alice, in sketches, Helene Smith, who made a hit in songs-and-dances, and Wade and La Clede in similar performances. Departures June 1: The Hughes —May and Nick—Louisville; Wade and La Clede, Toledo; Edith Lysle, Evansville, Ind.; James and Kate McDonald, no date. Arrivals 3: Sloed Le Clair, Carbone and Howe, Inez Sexton and G. A. Carroll..... At the Folly a light business has been done. Major Bishop left town May 27, with a portion of the company, for Milwaukee, since which time Ed. Christie and some others have been running it on the commonwealth plan.

BUSINESS at Smith's Opera-house, Grand Rapids, Mich., the past week, has been lighter than heretofore. Miss Belle Fostelle and Maud Gaston were the arrivals. Departures June 1: Josie Carroll, to Cleveland; Kelly and Neary, Muskegon; Maud Gaston, Cleveland. C. R. Foreman, May Cotton, Frankie Sidney and the Hennessey Brothers open 3.

AT THE THEATRE COMIQUE, Cleveland, O., since the change of management, business has been very large. The new faces May 27 were Chas. and Anna Whiting, Fannie C. Reynolds, Mulligan and McGee, Lola Cleveland, Jos. Vincent, Harry M. Shaffner, well known in the profession, has now become one of the proprietors of the Comique. We wish the new firm success. Billed for June 3: Milligan and Weaver, Martino, Gertie, Florance, Dan Mason, Ida Adair, Johnny Whitney, Emma Clifford, Le Clair Sisters and Fannie Loraine.

TONY PASTOR'S TROUPE continues to receive complimentary notices from the Eastern press, extracts from which are published in our advertising department.

GOOD PERFORMERS can secure engagements at Schlickling's Academy of Music, Cincinnati, O., by addressing John Morrissey, manager.

AT WOOD'S OPERA-HOUSE, Los Angeles, Cal., during the week ending May 25, the company included Billy White, A. Wilson Snow, Fred J. Mackley, Irene Summers, Myra Holloway, Billy Warren, and Lulu De Haven..... A. E. FLORAL, leader of orchestra, advertises for an engagement. He is willing to play at watering-places.

THOMAS WINNETT of the Winnetts, Dutch sketch artists, who was thought to be recovering from a long and serious illness, has had a relapse, and is thought dangerously ill. Unable to resume business at opening of the Fall season.

THE DODGE CITY (KAS.) VARIETIES is shortly to be opened under the proprietorship of H. Seymour, with Dick Brown as business and stage manager.

VARIETY PEOPLE and attractions for the Fourth of July are wanted by Davis & Co., who advertise.

A CALLIOPE, who can play a cornet, violin and the guitar, or one with some other musical specialty, is wanted by Alf. Burnett, whose address find in another column.

GEORGIE KAINE is informed through a card elsewhere that her mother is sick and in trouble. She is at the Amerman House, Cincinnati, O.

JULIETTE NAULT is meeting with success at Heuck's Opera-house, Cincinnati, O., and The Evening Times, an extract from which appears in another column, speaks of her as a cultured vocalist. Managers can address care of this office.

AT THE VARIETY THEATRE, Dallas, Texas, business continues good. Georgie Drake, statue artist, opened May 24, and Boyd and Wade, to Comique, Kansas City, Mo., closed 30. To open June 18: Sullivan and Green and Sadie Dowling. Specialty artists can secure engagements through Caverly & Ireson, agents. See advertisement.

AT THE VARIETY THEATRE, Louisville, Ky., the company last week included Varney and Durell, song-and-dance; Lizzie Simpson and the Pearl Sisters, vocalists; Hattie Ellis and her trained dogs; Frank Hart, song-and-dance; Blanche and Johnny Nichols, sketch-artists; and Master Otto, boy-trapezist. First-class performers desiring engagements are requested to address J. Homig, proprietor. The theatre is also advertised to rent.

PHIL H. IRVING, manager of the Jackits-ehy Japanese Troupe, states that he is prepared to negotiate with managers for short engagements next season. The company are now in the third month of their engagement with W. C. Coup's Broncho Horse Show, and they have no open dates at present. Mr. Irving can be addressed care of this office.

ARCHIE MACKENZIE is disengaged, and can be addressed as per card.

MLLE. NINON DUCLOS' TROUPE of Sensational Blondes did a fair business at Ward's Opera-house, Newark, N. J., last week. They open at Jersey City, June 3, for a week.

PETRIE, FISH, CONNERS AND KELLY perform at the Olympic Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., this week, and sail for England in the steamship Bolivia June 8. They are to open in London June 24, appearing at the South London Palace, Sun and Oxford Music-halls.

AT THE ARCADE GARDEN, Philadelphia, the novel features of the programme presented to large audiences during the week ending June 1 included the Dutch specialties of Jule Keene and the serio-comic songs of Belle Fairmount. Erwin Thomas, Maud Palmer, Julia Bennett, Taylor and Cameron, Mackin and Bryant are announced 3.

THE NEW ARRIVALS at the Adelphi, Toledo, O., May 27, were Martino in feats of magic, assisted by Miss Gertie Florence in tableaux, the Daytons—Tommy and Annie—in duets and changes, and Wesley and Eldridge in songs-and-dances. Closing June 1: Martino and Miss Florence, to Cleveland; Minnie Rainforth, Cincinnati; Frankie Sidney, Grand Rapids. To open 3: Clark and Edwards, Minnie Grey, Annie Clark, and J. N. Wilson..... At the Coliseum the new people were Lottie Burton in banjo solos; Johnny Burton, musical acts; Prof. Rhinehart and dogs; and Prof. Lawrence and statues. Closing: Burtons, no opening; Nellie Clark and the Fowlers, to Detroit. To open 3: Perry Brothers and Della Wallace. Mr. Gunsallas takes his company out on the road for a two weeks' trip while the theatre is being repaired. G. W. Bringman will be leader of band.

THE THEATRE COMIQUE (formerly Ward's Opera-house), Paterson, N. J., under the management of Campbell & O'Brien, opened on June 1 for the season to a jammed house. The Female Minstrels gave a first-part; the banjo-solo by Miss Kate Partington was well received; George Harris in his stump-speech was good; Copeland and Austin in songs-and-dances deserved the encores they received; Dora Dawron's vocal selections pleased; Jim Neary took well in his Irish songs-and-dances; Prof. Austin and his dogs were good; George Bell gave a jig. J. H. Mulligan is acting as stage-manager. The rest of the company comprise Nellie Darling, Stevens Harris, C. G Copelund and J. H. Lewis. Letter of June 3.

THE SUMMER THEATRE COMIQUE, Washington, D. C., has been thoroughly remodeled in every portion, and will be opened June 3 under the management of Jake Budd. Among the performers announced to appear are the Clinetop Sisters, Millie Martelle, Claire Alforde, Minnie Farrell, McCullough and Casey, the Sharpleys, John Robinson, J. Arthur Doty, and Frank Mora. H. P. Williams will be stage-manager.

MAY FISK'S ENGLISH BLONDES performed in Burlington, Vt., May 30, Rutland 31, Troy, N. Y., June 1, Albany 3. Fred Carrara and Carrie Wentworth joined the company May 25, and Wood and Beasley joined 27.

NEGRO MINSTRELSY.

BRYANT'S MINSTRELS opened at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., May 27, to a good house, but business afterwards fell off, preparations for Decoration-day ceremonies and the inclement weather being the principal cause. The troupe gave a very enjoyable entertainment, the vocalization of D. Barron, Dave Reed, J. M. Norrie, Arthur Cook, Hughey Dougherty and G. W. Harley in the first part being greeted with applause, and the efforts of Reed, Dougherty and Norrie as bones, tambo and interlocutor eliciting smiles of approval. The close of the first section, "The Two Orphans," also introduced Little Mac and Billy Bryant. The other features of the programme were Tierney and Cronin in song-and-dance and jig specialties, Hughey Dougherty on "The Silver Question," Dave Reed's imitations, Little Mac as the monkey, and concluding with "Love in a Tub." They closed June 1.

THE SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS appeared at the Grand Opera-house, Reading, Pa., May 27, to a small audience, but the entertainment was pleasing. They closed the season in Newark, N. J., June 1.

SIMMONS, SLOCUM & SWEATNAM'S MINSTRELS showed in Reading, Pa., May 29, to a light house. The feature of the show was Ernest Linden's burlesque prima-donna act.

LEW JOHNSON'S TENNESSEE JUBILEE SINGERS perform in Ashland, Ky., June 1, 2, Ironton, O., 3, 4, Catlettsburg, Ky., 5, Ripley, O., 6, Miss Colman, alto-singer, joined the company May 23.

HAVERLY'S N. O. MINSTREELS showed in Red Wing, Minn., May 27.

SIMMONS, SLOCUM & SWEATNAM'S MINSTRELS gave a performance at Music Hall, Norristown, Pa., last week.

BARLOW, WILSON, PRIMROSE & WEST'S MINSTRELS commence a week's engagement at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, June 3.

HAVERLY'S NEW ORLEANS MINSTRELS showed in Red Wing, Minn., May 27, Lake City 28, St. Charles 29, Rochester 30, Winona 31, and La Crosse, Wis., June 1.

NEIL BRYANT, who visited THE CLIP

RATES.

SUBSCRIPTION.—Per annum, in advance, $4; six months, $2; three months, $1, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra. Single copies 10 cents each. No deduction to clubs or agents.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—Agate type measure, 14 lines to an inch.—Department notices, copied from and credited to other journals, 30 cents per line, the same notices to be inserted once only. Advertisements under the head of AMUSEMENTS, 15 cents per line; Miscellaneous and Sporting Advertisements, 20 cents per line—for each and every insertion. A deduction of 20 per cent. from these rates will be made for advertisements when paid for three months in advance by the advertiser. Advertising agents are not allowed this or any other deduction further than their regular commission. Cuts and displayed type in advertisements charged at the same rates for space occupied.

OUR TERMS ARE CASH.—Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion.

THE CLIPPER is issued every Tuesday morning. The first, fourth, fifth and eighth pages GO TO PRESS ON SATURDAY, and the second, third, sixth and seventh pages on Monday evening. Advertisements intended for the outside pages should reach us not later than noon on Saturday, and all favors should reach us early on Monday to insure their insertion in that week's issue.

ADVERTISEMENTS SENT BY TELEGRAPH must reach here not later than 6 P. M. on Monday.

TO AVOID LOSS, when remitting money by mail, we would advise our patrons to register their letters or procure Post-office orders. Make all orders payable to and address all communications to

FRANK QUEEN,
Editor and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860.
88 and 90 Centre street, New York.

THE CLIPPER is for sale in LONDON, ENGLAND, at the American Exchange, 449 Strand, Charing Cross, W. C.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

ALMANAC

For 1878,

CONTAINING A RELIABLE RECORD OF

THEATRICAL AND SPORTING EVENTS

FOR THE YEAR, WITH OTHER VALUABLE INFORMATION,

CAN BE HAD OF ALL NEWSDEALERS AND AGENTS

PRICE 15 CENTS.

NEWSDEALERS can order their supplies through their wholesale agents.

COPIES WILL BE MAILED FROM THIS OFFICE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE, 15 CENTS.

FRANK QUEEN,
Publisher and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860. 88 and 90 Centre street,
1-tf NEW YORK.

LEW JOHNSON OLD TENNESSEE JUBILEE SINGERS are doing a good business in West Va. MISS COLMAN, also, joins the company May 23. 11-1t*

PROFESSIONALS VISITING NEW YORK will find nicely Furnished Rooms, with good board, at 77 Christopher street, near Tenth street and Sixth avenue. Terms, ONE DOLLAR PER DAY. Keep this for reference. 11-1t*

TO GYMNASTS.—C. H. HAWKINS, No. 118 E. 13th st., New York, Maker of Gymnastic Apparatus, Leaping Boards, and Bars, Horizontal-bars, Steel Centres, Magic Barrels, Crosses and Globes. Gymnasiums fitted up, etc., etc. Send stamp for circular. 6-13t*

SKETCHES, DRAMAS,
ACTS, GAGS, SONGS, STUMP-SPEECHES, FARCES, WRITTEN TO ORDER BY
I. DAVEAU,
8-tf 116 South First street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"THE BELVIDERE" IN CENTRAL CITY, COLORADO—the finest theatre in the State—four dressing-rooms and grand piano. Terms $15 per night for theatre and $5 per night for piano. Liberal terms by the week. Address THE BELVIDERE,
1-31t* Central City, Colorado.

MILLER'S WINTER GARDEN, VINE STREET, NEAR EIGHTH, PHILADELPHIA, PA. HARRY MILLER, Proprietor; HARRY F. SEYMOUR, Business Manager. Always open dates for good Serio-comic Vocalists, Ballad Singers, Sketch Artists, etc., etc. Salaries must be moderate, as they are sure. Incompetents may expect to be discharged the first night. Wanted, good singing soubrette for the season. Address as above. 1-15t*

NEW HALL, GREENWICH, R. I.
Second floor; size, 54x40ft., with gallery 12x40ft. Good stage, ticket-office and store. Inquire of S. A. SLOCUM. 1-12t*

MR. FRANK M. CHAPMAN,
ADVANCE OR BUSINESS MANAGER
(now ahead of Augustin Daly's Comb.)
MISS STELLA CONGDON, SOUBRETTE,
both at liberty for SAME company after May 1. Address
1-13t* Box 14, Worcester, Mass.

ST. JOHN, N. B.
DOCKRILL HALL,
JUST COMPLETED, HANDSOMELY SEATED,
Central Location. Capacity 700.
Rent Moderate.
3-13t* J. F. DOCKRILL, 86 King street.

COL. T. ALLSTON BROWN,
140½ West Fifteenth street, New York,
BUSINESS-MANAGER OR TREASURER,
can be engaged for Season 1878-79. 8-tf

FOR SALE—A CAROUSEL OR Hobby-horse propelled by two steam-engines; was run at Saratoga last season. Apply to ALEXANDER MILLER, at John's Axe Factory, Cohoes, N. Y. 8-4t*

"PRETTY PRIMROSE," Bobby Newcomb's new song; "Uncle Tom's Lament," "Blue and Gray are Sleeping Side by Side," "Sweet Visions of Childhood," "My Pretty Red Rose," always encored, 40c. each; Orchestration, 60c. Professionals' specialties. FREDERICK BLUME, 861 Broadway, 2 doors above 17th st., N. Y. 1-13t*

LELAND OPERA-HOUSE,
ALBANY, N. Y., FOR RENT, or will play First-class Combinations on sharing terms, during the months of June, July and August. Address P. O. Box 92, Long Branch, N. J.
8-6t J. W. ALBAUGH.

THEATRE COMIQUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
The regular Summer season commences at this theatre May 27. Artists of ability wishing dates for the Summer, address JAKE BUDD,
8-4t Proprietor and Manager.

UNION HALL,
CAMBRIDGEPORT, MASS.
Rent reduced to $35 per night from May 15 to Sept. 15.
SEATING CAPACITY, 1,500.
9-4t* Address W. A. BULLARD, Treasurer.

MAGICAL MANUFACTORY,
A variety of very elegant ILLUSIONS, VENTRILOQUIAL and PUNCH-AND-JUDY FIGURES always on hand; also our Wizard's Cabinet of six tricks, with Magician's Opening and Concluding Speeches, 30 cents. Send 3 cts. or 15 cts. for new illustrated catalogue. Address W. J. JUDD,
131 Henry street, New York. 9-13t*

ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
MONTREAL,
will be LEASED AT VERY LOW RATES or on sharing terms to first-class combinations. Appointments complete. Seating capacity, 1,725. To secure dates in advance, apply to H. W. STEPHENS, Managing Director. 10-26t

FOR SALE—ENOCHS' VARIETIES, Seventh street, below Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa. Location central. First-class chance for a live manager. Address MAX SCHMITT, Atty., No. 225 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa. 9-4t

SCENERY OF ALL SIZES KEPT ON HAND. One lot of 5 scenes and drop-curtain, wings, etc., new, $80. F. L. LOWELL & CO., Scenic-artists, Bloomington, Ill. 9-3t*

PIPER'S NEW OPERA-HOUSE,
VIRGINIA CITY, NEVADA.
Stars and Combinations visiting the Pacific Coast will find it to their advantage to visit this city. House holds $1,200. Terms, share or certainty. JOHN PIPER,
1-16t* Proprietor and Manager.

ACTORS' ORDER OF FRIENDSHIP,
(DRAMATIC BUREAU),
1,324 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
The above Bureau is now open for the transaction of business between managers and artists, under the auspices of the chartered Jan. 12, 1849.
ACTORS' ORDER OF FRIENDSHIP,
The agent being under oath to book no ARTISTS except of the REGULAR DRAMATIC PROFESSION, and in no case to recommend an incapable person. Managers and artists will find it greatly to their advantage to transact business with this Bureau. Responsible managers in the U. S. or Canada can register their names and will be at perfect liberty to examine the books and select their own artists. For artists,
FREE OF CHARGE,
FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER ANNUM,
OR ONE-THIRD OF SECOND WEEK'S SALARY.
Jobbing engagements on percentage. Artists wishing to enter their names will please forward line of business, where last engaged, lowest salary, and address
JERRY TAYLOR,
11-3t Agent.

IRVING (FORMERLY WELLS') HALL,
PORTCHESTER, N. Y.
CHAS. FEHRS.....Proprietor
Enlarged, improved; ceiling, 17ft.; stage, 13x32ft.; fine ventilation; seats 600. Irving Hotel, newly furnished. 10-2t*

IDA L. GAREY, formerly of Boston Museum Co., would like to engage with some first-class company. Address 3 Cottage ave., West Somerville, Mass. 10-3t*

MANAGERS
are respectfully notified that MISS LULU DELMAT, American's acknowledged serio-comic artist, can be engaged, in conjunction with MR. H. R. ARCHER, the great California Baritone and Character Actor. This lady and gentleman having an immense repertory of original and amusing Socie[t]y Sketches and Burlesques, are recognized by the press and public as the most finished artists in the country in that line of business. Responsible managers only, wishing to arrange dates for the coming season, will please address H. R. ARCHER, 8-4t* care of CLIPPER office, N. Y.

JOPLIN OPERA-HOUSE,
JOPLIN, MO.
New and complete. Population, 12,000; and the best show-town in the West. Will share or rent.
8-7t A. J. BLACKWELL, Proprietor.

NOTICE TO MANAGERS.
TO RENT
FOR THE SUMMER SEASON,
THE PHILADELPHIA MUSEUM,
corner of Ninth and Arch streets,
by month, week or day, to Combinations, Concerts or Lectures, during months of June and July. It is the best location in the city; five lines of railroads pass the door. Well stocked with scenery to play the drama. Address P. DOYLE, No. 20 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa. 10-2t

TO SHOWMEN.—FOR SALE, A GREAT Natural Curiosity—a pair of living (twins) French Poodle Dogs—male and female—two years old. BORN WITHOUT FORE LEGS. Address HENRY NOFFKE, 10-2t* 91 Jefferson street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

VOLKS' GARDEN

199 BOWERY. 201

LONDON MUSIC HALL OF AMERICA.
OPEN THE YEAR ROUND.
MRS. PAUL FAILA.....Proprietress
WM. T. GIESELBERG.....Manager
SIG. CONSTANTINE.....Stage-manager
STRICTLY FIRST-CLASS VARIETY TALENT IN ALL BRANCHES.
None others accepted after the first night. Business must be sent in one week in advance. All aerial artists must have a net. Address SIG. CHAS. CONSTANTINE,
1-tf Stage-manager.

THE LONDON.

235 AND 237 BOWERY,

OPPOSITE PRINCE STREET
THEATRE OPEN

ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

Artists wishing one or two weeks, please address as above. ARTISTS OF ABILITY AND REPUTATION will do well to APPLY AT ONCE FOR DATES. 1-tf

---

DAN SHELBY'S NOVELTY TROUPE,

The Best Company ever Organized. A glance at the names will convince all of the truth of this statement.

The representatives of true Irish wit and comedy,
THE FIELDINGS,
JOHN AND MAGGIE.
The Great North-of-Ireland Dialect Comedian and Vocalist,
MR. HARRY BENNETT.
The Autocrats of Ethiopian Comedy, Messrs.
NILES AND EVANS.
The Dashing Song-and-dance Ladies,
THE HOWLAND SISTERS.
The Celebrated German Sketch Artists,
MOORE AND LESSENGER.

MISS MARIE WHITTINGHAM
AND THE WONDERFUL BOY TENOR, MASTER NEWMAN,
in pleasing duets.
The Character and Descriptive Vocalist,
MISS CLARA MOORE.
The famous Irish Sketch Artists, Messrs.
SHEEHAN AND JONES.
The Famous French Grotesques,
THE 3 LORELLAS.
The Celebrated Character Artist,
MR. TED SKILLETTE.

AND LAST, THOUGH NOT LEAST,

MR. DAN SHELBY,

THE FAMOUS COMEDIAN AND VOCALIST, AND SOLE PROPRIETOR AND MANAGER OF THIS GREAT ORGANIZATION.

A SUPERB ORCHESTRA and BRASS BAND

COMPOSED OF TEN SOLO PLAYERS. MR. CHAPIN LUCY, LEADER OF ORCHESTRA. MR. L. O. DE WITT, LEADER OF BRASS BAND. WM. H. KENYON, GENERAL AGENT.

SHELBY'S.—AN UNUSUALLY STRONG COMPANY—A SUMMER TOUR.—This is the last week of the season at the Adelphi, Manager Shelby starting next week on a Summer traveling tour and opening in Rochester. The very excellent company which was introduced to his Buffalo patrons last evening is the one which he will direct on this trip; and a stronger or more varied array of novelty talent we have not seen together in a long time. Not even Tony Pastor of New York or John Stetson of Boston has succeeded in perfecting a more complete combination, and a higher compliment than this could scarcely be paid to Mr. Shelby's enterprise. There is no little expense involved in the engagement of the specialists, and crowded houses should be the order wherever they appear. The performance will be free from every objectionable feature that might possibly be anticipated by the fastidious, and will afford pleasure and recreation to all who witness it.—BUFFALO COURIER. 11-1t

SHELBY'S.—A full house testified that the attractions placed before the patrons of this place of amusement for the present week—which is the last of the season—are fully equal to anything that has been announced there. No small credit is due to Manager Shelby for the enterprise displayed by him in thus catering to the tastes of the public. As he has made arrangements for a six weeks' tour with the whole of his present company, we have no hesitation in saying that the entertainment is as good as any variety performance we have ever seen in Buffalo. There is not a single artist engaged who does not stand at the top of his or her specialty.—BUFFALO EXPRESS.

AT SHELBY'S.—We have before stated that this is the last week of the season at Shelby's popular place of amusement, and the entertainments are given by the excellent company which Mr. Shelby has organized for his Summer tour. It is one of the best novelty companies that ever visited Buffalo.—COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER. 11-1t

---

BLOOMS'

GREAT THEATRICAL SUPPLY,

338 and 340 BOWERY, NEW YORK.

Truly, the only establishment of its kind in America. Not alone that every article requisite for the

OPERA, DRAMA OR BURLESQUE

can be found here, but everything necessary to complete a

THEATRICAL WARDROBE IN ALL ITS DETAILS.

ENGL. FLESH COTTON TIGHTS
ENGL. FLESH COTTON SHIRTS
ENGL. WHITE COTTON TIGHTS
ENGL. WHITE COTTON SHIRTS

$1.35 EACH.

BLOOMS',

338 and 340 BOWERY, NEW YORK.

SEND FOR PRICE-LIST. 2-26t*

ESTABLISHED 1840. THE OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE HOUSE.

W. DAZIAN, 280 BOWERY, New York,

Importer and Manufacturer of Theatrical and Equestrian Goods.

ENGLISH COTTON SHIRTS AND TIGHTS, per set.	$3 50	GENUINE FRENCH COTTON TIGHTS.....per set	$9 00
WORSTED TIGHTS, SHIRTS, LEOTARDS, Etc., ea.	2 75	WORSTED CLOWN SUITS.....from	$7 50 up
WORSTED KNEE TIGHTS.....per pair	2 50	BEST QUALITY CALF PADS.....	3 50
WORSTED TRUNKS.....per pair	1 50	FULL PADS.....	8 50
LISLE-THREAD SHIRTS AND TIGHTS.....each	3 50	CHINA SILK TIGHTS, Silk Tops.....	6 00

BEST ENGLISH ALL-SILK TIGHTS - - - - - $7 50

All Goods from my Establishment Guaranteed as Represented.

I also constantly on hand the most complete assortment to be found in the United States of Silks, Satins, Velvets, Tarletans, Laces, Flouncings, Lace Shawls and Sacques, Overdresses, etc., Gold and Silver Trimmings, Armor Cloths, Spangles, Fringes, Illuminated Tissues, etc., Canvas and Leather Slippers, Gaiters, Sandals, Clogs, etc., Monkey, Bear, and Frog Dresses, Fancy Embroidered Hose in great variety. Theatrical Jewelry, and everything necessary for a complete wardrobe. Goods sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. 4-tf

---

EDISON'S PHONOGRAPH, OR TALKING MACHINE.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE!

By Saturday, June 1, we shall have ready a

LITHOGRAPH AND 3-SHEET POSTER CUT, for advertising the above Instrument, totally different from and far superior to anything that has yet been produced.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

N. B.—Other novelties in the way of Lithographs and Poster Cuts for the DRAMATIC, MUSICAL, VARIETY, MINSTREL AND CIRCUS PROFESSIONS will follow in rapid succession.

H. A. THOMAS,
865 BROADWAY, New York.

J. E. JACKSON,
Business-manager. 10-4t

IRVING'S ROYAL JACKITS-CHY JAPANESE.

THIRD MONTH WITH W. C. COUP'S BRONCHO HORSE SHOW.

Now ready to negotiate with responsible managers of first-class theatres and halls for one or more weeks season 1878-9. Can give entire entertainment. NO OPEN DATES AT PRESENT. Address PHIL H. IRVING, Manager Japanese, care of CLIPPER Office, New York. 11-1t

---

THE ROYAL BELGIAN PRESTIDIGITATEUR, CONJUROR AND ANTI-SPIRITUALIST,

WILHELM D'ARTREY,

having returned from Europe, is open for offers from responsible managers for his first-class entertainment of MYSTERY AND MAGIC, containing the LATEST AND BEST illusions of the day, and concluding with "half an hour in Spirit Land," in which MR. D'ARTREY will perform his last and GREATEST FEAT of

"FLOATING IN THE AIR"

OVER THE HEADS OF THE AUDIENCE. THIS IS NO CATCH, and is the greatest sensation of the day. NO ONE has ever ATTEMPTED to perform this feat as MR. D'ARTREY does it, and he therefore claims to be the greatest AERIALIST IN THE WORLD. Open dates from June 2, 1878. Address care of CLIPPER Office. 11-1t*

THEATRICAL GOODS.

We import, manufacture an carry a large stock of THEATRICAL GOODS, WARDROBES, COSTUMES, FRINGES, LACES, SPANGLES, STARS, Etc., Etc.
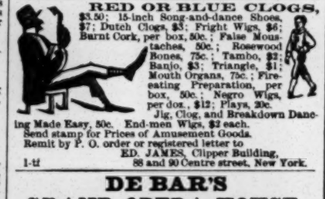
Theatres and traveling troupes supplied with full outfits, and at as reasonable rates as they can be purchased East.

WADHAMS & ROUNDY,
Nos. 190, 192 CLARK STREET,
3-13t* CHICAGO, ILL.



RED OR BLUE CLOGS, $3.50; 15-inch Song-and-dance Shoes, $7; Dutch Clogs, $3; Fright Wigs, $6; Burnt Cork, per box, 50c.; False Mustaches, 50c.; Rosewood Bones, 75c.; Tambo, $2; Banjo, $3; Triangle, $1; Mouth Organs, 75c.; Fire-eating Preparation, per box, 50c.; Negro Wigs, per doz., $12; Plays, 20c. Jig, Clog and Breakdown Dancing Made Easy, 50c. End-men Wigs, $2 each. Send stamp for Prices of Amusement Goods. Remit by P. O. order or registered letter to ED. JAMES, Clipper Building,
1-tf 88 and 90 Centre street, New York.

DE BAR'S

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
SEASON 1878-1879.
JOHN W. NORTON - - Sole Manager.

The present season at this establishment has been one of unparalleled success. Under the present liberal management no pains or expense will be spared to uphold its reputation in the future.

STARS AND COMBINATIONS desiring time for the coming season will address JOHN W. NORTON,
1-tf De Bar's Opera-house, St. Louis, Mo.

BETTER THAN GOLD!

Managers and traveling agents of theatre, opera and show companies will find it better than gold in their pockets if they are going west, north or northwest of Chicago to call upon or write to J. H. MOUNTAIN, City Passenger Agent of the

Chicago and Northwestern Railway,

62 CLARK STREET, CHICAGO.

This is by all odds the best road between Chicago and Omaha, Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, and Chicago and all points in the West or Northwest. It deals liberally as to rates with all show companies, and is patronized by the best-posted managers that come West.

This is the only line that runs the west of Chicago, the PULLMAN SLEEPING-CARS north of Chicago, and PARLOR-CARS between Chicago and Milwaukee. Its lines reach all the important business centres of the great West.

PULLMAN HOTEL-CARS

Boston office, 5 State street; New York office, 415 Broadway; San Francisco office, 2 New Montgomery street.

MARVIN HUGHITT, General Manager.
1-15t* W. H. STENNETT, General Passenger Agent.

MAGIC LANTERNS

and Stereopticons, all prices. Views illustrating every subject for public exhibitions, etc. A profitable business for a man with small capital. Also lanterns for home amusement. 74-page catalogue free. McALLISTER M'fg Optician, 49 Nassau street, N. Y. 9-10t*eow

BANJOS GEO. C. DOBSON'S STAGE AND SOLO NICKEL RIM AND ROSEWOOD BANJOS—30 different styles; 109 to select from. Simplified method, without study, 96 pages, 100 tunes, bound book, 75c. A 16-page pamphlet of testimonials and price-lists sent for ONE STAMP.

GEO. C. DOBSON, the King Performer and Teacher,
7-tf 1,139 Washington street, Boston.

OWENS' ACADEMY OF MUSIC

CHARLESTON, S. C.
All business communications should be addressed to J. M. BARRON, Business-manager.
1-tf 347 Hollin st., Baltimore, Md.

SHANNON, MILLER & CRANE,
No. 46 MAIDEN LANE, NEW YORK.
IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF
THEATRICAL GOODS,
MILITARY, SOCIETY, CIRCUS AND REGALIA ORNAMENTS,
GOLD, SILVER AND TINSEL TRIMMINGS,
LACES, FRINGES, TASSELS, STARS, SPANGLES,
THEATRICAL, EQUESTRIAN AND GYMNASIUM HOSIERY, WOVEN ROWING AND FOOTBALL SUITS, Etc.
Flags, Banners; Clown, Demon, Bear, Monkey, Fros, and other Suits; Puddings and Symmetrics; Theatrical Jewelry; Papier-mache Heads and Figures to order; Combat Swords; Wigs and Beards; Gilt, every variety; Cotton and Satin Dominos, Bright Cords, Rich Tassels, Brocades, Embroideries, etc., etc.; Indian Moccasins, Sandals, etc.; Satin Opera Slippers and Theatrical Boots; Gold and Silver Leather; Real Skeletons and Imitation of Papier-mache; Fencing Materials; Worsted and Silk Fringes, Tassels, etc. Goods sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. Send for Circular. 2-26t*

CHARLES E. HELM,
DRAMATIST AND AUTHOR,
324 Peru street, Indianapolis, Ind.
For sale, new and original three-act SENSATIONAL DRAMA, suitable for negro or character actor. Old work made new and original. MSS. to order. 11-1t*

MISS CLARA COLE,
LEADING LADY OR LEADING JUVENILES.
Address 9 Eighth street,
11-3t west of Broadway, New York.

NEW PARK THEATRE,

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

SEASON 1878 and 1879.

STARS AND COMBINATIONS

(the very best only) can get dates from AUG. 26 TO END OF THE SEASON. THE PARK THEATRE THIS SEASON will be devoted to

Strictly Dramatic Attractions

The past season has proved to be one of the most SUCCESSFUL SEASONS EVER KNOWN AT A BROOKLYN THEATRE. Open dates: Aug. 26, Sept. 9, FOR COMBINATIONS.

Open dates for Stars, supported by the NEW PARK THEATRE DRAMATIC COMPANY (which will be second to none in the country): Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 14, 21, 28, Nov. 4, 11. Also dates later in the season for

First-class Dramatic Attractions, Stars and Combinations,

as arrangements will be made when Combinations are playing at this Theatre to play the DRAMATIC COMPANY ELSEWHERE.

Attractions already booked for next season:
ALICE OATES' COMIC-OPERA TROUPE,
HESS ENGLISH-OPERA COMPANY,
J. K. EMMET AND COMPANY,
K. E. RICE'S COMBINATION,
JOHN MCCULLOUGH, LAWRENCE BARRETT, FRANK CHANFRAU, AND OTHERS.

For open dates address
WILLIAM E. SINN,
Manager New Park Theatre, Brooklyn.
NOTE.—THE DRAMATIC COMPANY IS NOW MADE UP FOR THE SEASON. 11-3t

---

TO RENT,

FOR SINGLE NIGHT OR WEEK,

Howard Athenæum,

BOSTON.

TERMS:

$100 NIGHTLY,

INCLUDING ALL ATTACHES.

$450 PER WEEK

INCLUDING ALL ATTACHES.

APPLY TO

JOHN STETSON,
11-1t BOSTON, MASS.

MOZART GARDEN,

FULTON AND SMITH STREETS, BROOKLYN.
5,000 PEOPLE ATTEND NIGHTLY.

Lady operatic vocalists, gentlemen soloists, and all kinds of musical specialties wanted. ARTISTS of acknowledged ability only engaged. All letters answered. Terms must be low. A. R. SAMUELLS, Manager. 11-2t*

WANTED,

SOME NOVELTY

FOR THE

SUMMER SEASON.

MUST BE GOOD.

Address, with full particulars, FRANK FIELD,
9-1t* care of CLIPPER office.

TO OWNERS OF HALLS, OPERA-HOUSES AND THEATRES.

MR. A. S. PENNOYER

the well-known Business-manager, Treasurer and Advance-agent, a veteran in the amusement line, desires to settle down to the comforts of home life. He invites propositions from owners of halls, theatres and opera-houses, with a view to taking charge of one as LESSEE or BUSINESS-MANAGER, under contract. He can cite twenty-five years' successful experience as a guarantee of his qualifications. In the meantime he is OPEN FOR ENGAGEMENTS on the road, as heretofore. Address 11-2t* 1,736 Marshall street, Philadelphia, Pa.

TO LET

to responsible managers, by the week or month, or good sharing terms given to strong combinations,

FOX'S

NEW AMERICAN THEATRE,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.,
for June, commencing 10th, July and August. Communications to be addressed to 11-tf JOHN C. CURRAN, Business-manager.

ARCHIE MAC KENZIE,
AGENT, DISENGAGED. Permanent address,
11-1t* National Printing Company, Chicago.

THE ADELPHI THEATRE,

DANVILLE, ILL.,

FOR RENT.

First-class business location. FIRST-CLASS TALENT WANTED AT ALL TIMES, ESPECIALLY LADIES.
A. HORMIG, Proprietor; J. J. HOULER, Business-manager; J. NICHOLS Stage-manager.
P. S.—Hotel in connection with above theatre. 11-1t*

MAGICAL ILLUSIONS. A retired prestidigitateur will furnish for a small sum a correct expose and working drawings of any illusion desired. "Homes," "Floating Medium," "Spirit Hand," "Spirit Bouquet," "Decapitation," "Aerial Suspension," "Demon Head," "Indian Box and Basket," "Hindoo Basket," "Inexhaustible Bottle," "Egyptian Pyramids," "Orange and Bran Trick," "Floating Wand," "Gold fish Bowls," Davenport Cabinet, etc., etc. Written instructions in sleight-of-hand and card manipulation. Some second-hand apparatus for sale at reduced price. PROF. ROBERT HOUDON, Box 284, Richmond, Va. 11-1t*

SAVANNAH THEATRE.

THOS. ARKWRIGHT.....Proprietor and Manager
J. E. CAMPOS.....Treasurer
NOTICE.—Also prepared to do all Billposting and Distributing. Office 29 Bull street. 11-13t

---

ELK CITY OPERA-HOUSE

ELK CITY, CLARION COUNTY, PA.
Seating capacity, 550. For terms and open dates, address
1-12t* DR. S. M. LALLIN, Manager.

CIRCUS LIGHTS.

KIDD'S PATENT LIGHTS,

PRICES REDUCED, ARE THE CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST DURABLE.

SOLE AGENTS,
TAYLOR & BASSEMIR,
1-19t* Moved to 33 Gold street, N. Y.

WIGS, WIGS.

SCHMIDT & FOOTNER

746 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,
THEATRICAL WIG, BEARD and MOUSTACHE MAKERS, Character Wigs, from $4; Moustaches, 25 to 50cts.; Negro Wigs, pl., $1; End-men, $1.50. Goods sent C. O. D. 10-13t

---

PLAYS, PANTOMIMES, Tableaux, Speeches, Dialogues, Colored Fire, Tableau Lights, Burnt Cork, Magnesium, Wigs, Beards, Moustaches, etc. Catalogues send your address to HAPPY HOURS CO.' No. 5 Beekman st., New York. 8-13t

---

NO, YOU DON'T get as good and as cheap PHOTOGRAPHS anywhere else as you can at

THE GREAT THEATRICAL GALLERY,
349 BOWERY,
WARNER & STEWART, Proprietors.
N. B.—Liberal reduction to the profession. 10-4t*

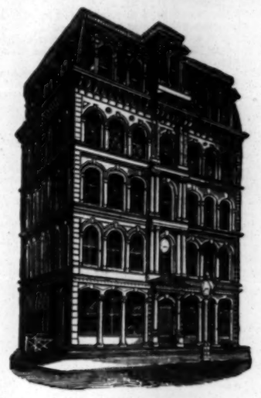
THE

NEW YORK CLIPPER

ESTABLISHED 1853.

THE OLDEST AMERICAN

SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.



THE NEW YORK CLIPPER BUILDING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS A PAPER FOR EVERYBODY—A DAILY AND A WEEKLY COMBINED.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS FULL AND RELIABLE REPORTS OF ALL THE MORE PROMINENT BASEBALL GAMES. IT ALSO PUBLISHES THE OFFICIAL NOTICES OF THE INTERNATIONAL AND LEAGUE ASSOCIATIONS, AND GIVES THE LATEST GOSSIP OF THE BALL FIELD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER TELLS YOU ALL ABOUT CRICKET, AND PUBLISHES FULL SCORES OF ALL MATCH GAMES.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS THE RECOGNIZED ORGAN OF PROFESSIONAL OARSMEN, AND GIVES SPECIAL ATTENTION TO BOATING AND OTHER AQUATIC SPORTS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES FULL AND ACCURATE REPORTS OF ATHLETIC GAMES, AND IS A STANDARD AUTHORITY ON FASTEST TIME, Etc.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES CONDENSED BUT READABLE REPORTS OF ALL TURF EVENTS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES THE SCORES MADE AT THE RIFLE-BUTS, AND REPORTS OF TRAP AND OTHER SHOOTING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS A COMPLETE RECORD OF ALL THE SPORTING NEWS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS THE MOST RELIABLE OF THEATRICAL JOURNALS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER RECORDS THE DOINGS OF SHOW PEOPLE ABROAD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER TELLS YOU ALL ABOUT THE VARIETY STAGE.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES YOU ALL THE CIRCUS NEWS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES THE DOINGS OF THE MUSICAL WORLD.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES THE ROUTES AND OTHER INFORMATION ABOUT MINSTREL COMPANIES.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IS A REPOSITORY FOR ALL MISCELLANEOUS AND AMATEUR SHOW NEWS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER PUBLISHES ORIGINAL SERIAL STORIES, INTERESTING SKETCHES, POEMS, Etc.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER CONTAINS A RECORD OF THE DEATHS OF PROMINENT INDIVIDUALS.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER GIVES THE NEWS OF THE WEEK IN CONDENSED FORM.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER WEEKLY POST OFFICE LIST ENABLES PROFESSIONALS TO COMMUNICATE SAFELY WITH ONE ANOTHER WHEN TRAVELING.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER IN ITS DEPARTMENT OF ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS GIVES INTERESTING INFORMATION

IF YOU WANT A READABLE, RELIABLE AND CAREFULLY COMPILED SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL,

BUY THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

FOR SALE BY ALL NEWSDEALERS.

PRICE, TEN CENTS.

SUBSCRIPTION.

Per annum, in advance, $4; six months, $2; three months, $1, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra. Single copies 10 cents each. No deduction to clubs or agents.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Agate type measure, 14 lines to an inch.—Department notices, copied from and credited to other journals, 30 cents per line, the same notices to be inserted once only. Advertisements under the head of AMUSEMENTS, 15 cents per line; Miscellaneous and Sporting Advertisements, 20 cents per line—for each and every insertion. A deduction of 20 per cent. from these rates will be made for advertisements when paid for three months in advance by the advertiser. Advertising agents are not allowed this or any other deduction further than their regular commission. Cuts and displayed type in advertisements charged at the same rates for space occupied.

OUR TERMS ARE CASH.

Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion.

THE CLIPPER is issued every Tuesday morning. The first, fourth, fifth and eighth pages GO TO PRESS ON SATURDAY, and the second, third, sixth and seventh pages on Monday evening. Advertisements intended for the outside pages should reach us not later than noon on Saturday, and all favors should reach us early on Monday to insure their insertion in that week's issue.

ADVERTISEMENTS SENT BY TELEGRAPH

must reach here not later than 6 P. M. on Monday.

TO AVOID LOSS,

when remitting money by mail, we would advise our patrons to register their letters or procure Post-office orders. Make all orders payable to and address all communications

FRANK QUEEN,
Publisher and Proprietor,
P. O. Box 3,860, or CLIPPER BUILDING,
88 AND 90 CENTRE STREET,
NEW YORK.

THE CLIPPER is for sale in LONDON, ENG LAND, at the American Exchange, 449 Strand, Charing Cross, W. C.

SAVANNAH, GA.

Managers of Companies Coming South, before Completing their Arrangements, should Write to the Agent of the

NEW

MASONIC TEMPLE.

IT IS CENTRALLY LOCATED,

AND THE BEST HALL IN THE CITY.

Large Stage and New Scenery.

SEATS 800. REPUTATION FIRST-CLASS.

"One of the best musical Halls in the South."
ADELAIDE PHILLIPPS & CO."

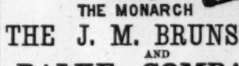
"The acoustics are perfect, seating well arranged, stage and scenery good. The best Hall in the South."
CHARLES MAC EVOY,
Mac Evoy's Hibernicon."

"I am well pleased with Masonic Hall, and have rarely spoken in a better one."
PROF. ALONZO TRIPP, Lecturer."

RENT VERY MODERATE. Address
9-13t* S. P. HAMILTON, Savannah, Ga.

UNION HALL,
GOUVERNEUR, N. Y.
Just completed. Fine stage and dressing-rooms, new scenery, and lighted with gas. Seating capacity, 800. Rent moderate. Address UNION HALL CO. 9-26t

---



BANJO TAUGHT BY MAIL. A Sample Tune, fully explained; also, HOW to TUNE, FRET, AND PLAY THE BANJO, and a 24-page catalogue of 3,000 tunes and 9 books, sent for TEN CENTS and stamp.
DIME BANJO CO.
11-1t* 203 and 205 Fulton st., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WASHINGTON HALL

WHEELING, W. VA.

ENTIRELY NEW. Complete in every particular. Open the year round. For dates and terms address
9-3t* H. STERLING.

BANJO.

DOBSON'S NEW SCHOOL. The Boss Book. Learn at sight. Price, 75c.

DOBSON'S GUITAR.

New School. The best yet. One can learn without trying. Price, 75c.

BLAKE'S PIANO METHOD.

A complete self-instructor. Plain, practical, and needs no teacher. Boards, $1; paper, 75c. Post free on receipt of price by publishers. WHITE, SMITH & CO.,
8-4t 516 Washington street, Boston.

SPORTING.

PECK & SNYDER,

124 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.
MANUFACTURERS, DEALERS AND IMPORTERS OF

SPORTING GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

WE KEEP THE LARGEST STOCK AND ASSORTMENT OF ANY HOUSE IN THE WORLD.
We have PUBLISHED THIS DAY OUR NEW CATALOGUE NO. 10, illustrative and descriptive of all sporting goods, games, etc., for out and in door use, containing 192 pages and 660 illustrations. Sent by mail postpaid for 15 cents. 6-tf

---

THE MOST EXTENSIVE

BILLIARD MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.